SEC. 101. FINDINGS.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) The Preamble to the Constitution charges the people of the United States, acting through Congress, with the duty to establish justice, and a justice system that is inaccessible, unaccountable, or structurally biased fails to satisfy that Constitutional mandate.

(2) Meaningful access to courts is essential to the enforcement of Constitutional and statutory protections, yet procedural barriers, arbitration requirements, filing restrictions, and exhaustion doctrines frequently prevent claims from being heard and resolved on their merits.

(3) Advances in surveillance technology and the commercialization of personal data have enabled government actors to obtain sensitive information through indirect means, circumventing the warrant and probable cause requirements of the Fourth Amendment and eroding Constitutional protections.

(4) Over 5 decades of the war on drugs, the criminal legal system has disproportionately emphasized punishment as a component of justice and diminished its other pieces, including proportionality, rehabilitation, and accountability.

(5) The scale of incarceration in the United States—roughly 20 percent of the world's prison population compared to 4 percent of the global population—is the result of policy choices rather than uniquely high levels of criminality.

(6) The introduction of profit motives into incarceration and detention systems has distorted incentives, encouraging cost-cutting, exploitative pricing, and the monetization of human confinement in ways inconsistent with the purposes of justice and rehabilitation.

(7) Economic coercion within the justice system, including the use of cash bail, fines, fees, and exploitative commissary and communication practices, has resulted in liberty outcomes that depend more on wealth than culpability or public safety risk.

(8) Enforcement practices, sentencing policies, and collateral consequences have disproportionately burdened low-income communities, undermining equal protection under the law and weakening trust in the justice system.

(9) The Federal Government exerts substantial influence over State and local justice systems through funding, legal standards, and institutional doctrines, and with that influence comes a responsibility to lead by example in correcting systemic injustices.

(10) A justice system perceived as arbitrary, inaccessible, or driven by profit threatens democratic stability and the rule of law by eroding public trust in governmental institutions: a 2024 national survey of likely voters found that 94 percent believe the criminal justice system requires change, with 67 percent supporting either major reform or a complete overhaul.

(b) Purpose.—The purpose of this title is to—

(1) meaningfully strive toward our Constitutional duty to establish justice;

(2) improve fairness, accountability, proportionality, and meaningful access to the courts; and

(3) unstack the justice system.

SEC. 102. DEFINITIONS.

(a) Definitions.—In this title:

(1) Expunge.—The term "expunge" means, with respect to an arrest, a conviction, or a juvenile delinquency adjudication, the removal of the record of such arrest, conviction, or adjudication from each official index or public record.

(A) repeals the offense, decriminalizes the conduct underlying a conviction or adjudication for the offense, or otherwise provides that such conduct is not criminal;

(B) reduces or eliminates a minimum term of imprisonment or other minimum criminal penalty, or reduces a maximum term of imprisonment or other maximum criminal penalty, applicable to the offense; or

(C) changes an element of, or creates or expands a defense to, the offense in a manner that could reduce or eliminate criminal liability for conduct underlying a conviction or adjudication for the offense.

(3) Judicial warrant.—The term "judicial warrant" means a warrant issued by a judge or magistrate judge of a court established under Article III of the Constitution of the United States or by a United States magistrate judge, based upon probable cause supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the private dwelling to be entered and the person who is the subject of the arrest or civil immigration enforcement action, and does not include an administrative warrant, notice, order, or other process issued by the Department of Homeland Security, the Department of Justice, or any officer thereof.

SEC. 103. JUDICIAL WARRANT REQUIREMENT FOR ENTRY.

(a) Prohibition.—It shall be unlawful for any officer or employee of the United States authorized to enforce the immigration laws to enter a private dwelling for the purpose of effecting an arrest or executing any civil immigration enforcement action unless such entry is authorized by a judicial warrant.

(b) Exigent circumstances.—An officer or employee described in subsection (a) may enter a private dwelling without a judicial warrant only if exigent circumstances exist, limited to—

(1) an imminent risk of death or serious bodily harm to any person; or

(2) hot pursuit of an individual who has committed a felony involving violence.

The burden of establishing exigent circumstances shall rest with the United States.

(c) Enforcement.—

Subtitle A—Jubilee Reform

SEC. 111. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) The concept of a jubilee, drawn from the biblical tradition, recognized that societies accumulate not only financial obligations but also moral debts that must regularly be forgiven. Such jubilees, said to occur every 50 years, proclaimed liberty throughout the land, included the release of those held in enslavement or incarceration.

(2) As the United States marks its 250th birthday, a national jubilee is an opportunity to confront moral failures such as our system of mass incarceration, which has inflicted lasting harm on individuals, families, and communities and stands as a spiritual stain on the soul of the United States of America.

(3) Federal sentencing policy adopted over the last 4 decades, including mandatory minimum penalties and rigid sentencing frameworks, has produced excessive and disproportionate terms of imprisonment, shifted power away from judges toward inflexible statutory rules, and undermined the Constitutional goal of individualized justice.

(4) Extended incarceration yields sharply diminishing public safety returns after substantial time served, while imposing escalating human, fiscal, and institutional costs, including the maintenance of a large aging prison population that poses little risk to public safety and requires increasingly expensive medical and custodial care.

(5) The abolition of Federal parole eliminated individualized and ongoing review of incarceration decisions, replacing it with fixed sentencing assumptions made at a single point in time, regardless of later maturation, rehabilitation, changed circumstances, or demonstrated readiness for reintegration.

(6) Parole and second-look mechanisms conditioned on conduct, rehabilitation, and public safety promote accountability rather than leniency, reinforce respect for the law, and better align punishment with the Constitutional purposes of sentencing than irreversible and inflexible incarceration schemes. Retroactive application is necessary to restore equal treatment under law.

(7) The continued operation of the Guantanamo Bay military prison, including the prolonged detention of individuals without charge or trial, represents a continuing failure of justice, departs from Constitutional principles, due process, and the rule of law, and has caused lasting damage to the moral authority of the United States at home and abroad.

(8) Congress has the authority and the responsibility to correct systemic injustices it has created, including unjust sentencing regimes and unlawful detention practices, and to restore liberty in a manner consistent with public safety, Constitutional values, and human dignity.

(b) Purpose.—The purposes of this subtitle are—

(1) to mark a Jubilee in the United States' 250th year through forgiveness of excessive punishment, restoration of liberty, and renewal of justice; and

(2) to reform Federal sentencing and incarceration policy in a manner that recognizes the inherent human capacity for growth, rehabilitation, and self-improvement, while protecting public safety and upholding the Constitution.

"Sec. 4225. Time of eligibility for release on parole.

"(a) Generally.—Whenever confined and serving a definite term or terms of 1 year or more, a prisoner shall be eligible for release on parole after serving:

"(1) 1/3 of such term or terms, or

"(2) after serving 10 years of a life sentence, or of a sentence of over 25 years, notwithstanding any other statute to the contrary, or

"(3) the period described in paragraph (1) or (2), as applicable, calculated using the term or terms of imprisonment as modified pursuant to section 3627.

"A prisoner convicted under the law of the District of Columbia shall be subject to the guidelines used by the former District of Columbia board of parole.

"(b) Courts' power at time of sentencing.—Upon entering a judgment of conviction, the court having jurisdiction to impose sentence, when in its opinion the ends of justice and best interest of the public require that the defendant be sentenced to imprisonment for a term exceeding 1 year, may—

"(1) designate in the sentence of imprisonment imposed a minimum term at the expiration of which the prisoner shall become eligible for parole, which term may be less than but shall not be more than 10 years; or

"(2) fix the maximum sentence of imprisonment to be served in which event the court may specify that the prisoner may be released on parole at such time as the Commission may determine.

"(c) Information for court.—

"(1) Commitment for study.—If the court desires more detailed information as a basis for determining the sentence to be imposed, the court may commit the defendant to the custody of the Attorney General, which commitment shall be deemed to be for the maximum sentence of imprisonment prescribed by law, for a study as described in subsection (d).

"(2) Report to court.—The results of such study, together with any recommendations which the Director of the Bureau of Prisons believes would be helpful in determining the disposition of the case, shall be furnished to the court within 3 months unless the court grants time, not to exceed an additional 3 months, for further study.

"(3) Court order.—After receiving such reports and recommendations, the court may in its discretion—

"(A) place the offender on probation as authorized by section 3561; or

"(B) modify the sentence pursuant to section 3627 of title 18, United States Code; or

"(C) affirm the sentence of imprisonment originally imposed, or reduce the sentence of imprisonment, and commit the offender under any applicable provision of law.

"(4) Commencement of term of sentence.—The term of the sentence shall run from the date of original commitment under this section.

"(d) Study of prisoner sentenced to imprisonment.—Upon commitment of a prisoner sentenced to imprisonment under subsection (a) or (b), the Director, under such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe, shall cause a complete study to be made of the prisoner and shall furnish to the Commission a summary report together with any recommendations which in their opinion would be helpful in determining the suitability of the prisoner for parole. This report may include data regarding the prisoner's previous delinquency or criminal convictions, pertinent circumstances of the prisoner's social background and capabilities, the prisoner's mental and physical health, and such other factors the Director considers pertinent. The Commission may make such other investigation as it may deem necessary.

"(e) Duty of probation officers.—Upon request of the Commission, it shall be the duty of the various probation officers and government bureaus and agencies to furnish the Commission information available to such officer, bureau, or agency, concerning any eligible prisoner or parolee and whenever not incompatible with the public interest, their views and recommendation with respect to any matter within the jurisdiction of the Commission.

"(f) Short prison terms.—Any prisoner sentenced to imprisonment for a term or terms of not less than 6 months but not more than 1 year shall be released at the expiration of such sentence less good time deductions provided by law, unless the court which imposed sentence shall, at the time of sentencing, provide for the prisoner's release as if on parole after service of 1/3 of such term or terms notwithstanding section 4164. This subsection does not prevent delivery of any person released on parole to the authorities of any State otherwise entitled to custody of such person.

"(g) Reduction in sentence.—At any time upon motion of the Bureau of Prisons, the court may reduce any minimum term to the time the defendant has served, if notice of such motion has been provided pursuant to section 3771(a)(2) of title 18, United States Code. The court shall have jurisdiction to act upon the application and no hearing shall be required.

"(h) Promotion of sentence reduction motions.—The Bureau of Prisons shall accept nominations for such motions from any employee or agent who is in contact with the defendant on a regular basis, and shall promote this subsection within its jurisdiction.

"Sec. 4226. Parole determination criteria.

"(a) Generally.—An eligible prisoner shall be granted parole, subject to subsections (b) and (c), and pursuant to guidelines issued by the Commission, if the eligible prisoner has substantially observed the rules of the institution or institutions to which they have been confined, and if the Commission, upon consideration of the nature and circumstances of the offense and the history and characteristics of the prisoner, determines that release would not—

"(1) depreciate the seriousness of the offense or promote disrespect for the law; or

"(2) jeopardize the public welfare;

"such prisoner shall be released.

"(b) Good cause exception.—The Commission may grant or deny release on parole notwithstanding the guidelines referred to in subsection (a) of this section if it determines there is good cause for so doing, if the prisoner is furnished written notice stating with particularity the reasons for its determination, including in detail the information relied upon.

"(c) Release after 2/3 of sentence.—Any prisoner, serving a sentence of 5 years or longer, who is not earlier released under this section or any other applicable provision of law, shall be released on parole after having served 2/3 of each consecutive term or terms, or after serving 30 years of each consecutive term or terms of more than 45 years including any life term, whichever is earlier, but the Commission shall not release such prisoner if it determines that the prisoner has seriously or frequently violated institution rules and regulations or that there is a reasonable probability that they will commit any Federal, State, or local crime.

"Sec. 4227. Information considered.

"(a) In making a determination under this chapter (relating to release on parole), the Commission shall consider, if available and relevant—

"(1) reports and recommendations which the staff of the facility in which such prisoner is confined may make;

"(2) official reports of the prisoner's prior criminal record, including a report or record of earlier probation and parole experiences;

"(3) presentence investigation reports;

"(4) recommendations regarding the prisoner's parole made at the time of sentencing by the sentencing judge;

"(5) a statement, which may be presented orally or otherwise, by any victim of the offense for which the prisoner is imprisoned (or by a family member of the victim if the victim is deceased) about the financial, social, psychological, and emotional harm done to, or loss suffered by such victim;

"(6) reports of physical, mental, or psychiatric examination of the offender;

"(7) release plans submitted by the prisoner and correctional staff; and

"(8) such additional relevant information concerning the prisoner (including information submitted by the prisoner) as may be reasonably available.

"(b) Consideration of development and change over time.—In addition to the information described in subsection (a), the Commission shall consider—

"(1) the age of the prisoner at the time of the offense and at the time of the parole determination;

"(2) evidence of maturation, rehabilitation, and readiness for reentry;

"(3) the length of time served and the relationship between continued incarceration and any identifiable public safety benefit;

"(4) the prisoner's conduct while incarcerated, with greater weight given to sustained compliance and completion of educational, vocational, therapeutic, or rehabilitative programs;

"(5) family and community circumstances, including the availability of stable housing, employment, and community support upon release;

"(6) the availability to the prisoner of reintegration supports established under Federal law, including income, employment, health care, or reentry programs; and

"(7) any other factor bearing on whether continued incarceration is necessary to achieve the purposes of punishment.

"(c) Limitation.—The Commission shall not deny parole based solely on the seriousness of the offense of conviction or generalized assumptions about recidivism, absent individualized findings based on current information.

"Sec. 4228. Parole determination proceeding; time.

"(a) General rule.—In making a determination under this chapter (relating to parole), the Commission shall conduct a parole determination proceeding unless it determines on the basis of the prisoner's record that the prisoner will be released on parole.

"(1) Whenever feasible, the initial parole determination proceeding for a prisoner eligible for parole under subsections (a) and (b)(1) of section 4225 shall be held not later than 60 days before the date of such eligibility for parole.

"(2) Whenever feasible, the initial parole determination proceeding for a prisoner eligible for parole pursuant to subsection (b)(2) of section 4225 or released on parole and whose parole has been revoked shall be held not later than 90 days following such prisoner's imprisonment or reimprisonment in a Federal institution, as the case may be.

"(3) An eligible prisoner may knowingly and intelligently waive any proceeding under this section.

"(b) Preparation.—

"(1) At least 60 days before any parole determination proceeding, the prisoner shall be provided with—

"(A) written notice of the time and place of the proceeding; and

"(B) reasonable access to any report or other document to be used by the Commission in making its determination, including the parole analyst summary.

"(2) Waiver and scheduling.—A prisoner may knowingly and intelligently waive the advance notice required in paragraph (1)(A). If such notice is waived, the parole determination proceeding may be held at the next regularly scheduled proceeding of the Commission at the institution in which the prisoner is confined.

"(c) Exceptions to disclosure.—

"(1) Subsection (b)(1)(B) does not apply to—

"(A) diagnostic opinions which, if disclosed to the eligible prisoner, could lead to a serious disruption of the prisoner's institutional program;

"(B) any document that reveals sources of information obtained upon a promise of confidentiality; or

"(C) any other information which, if disclosed, might result in physical harm or other serious harm to any person.

"(2) If any document is deemed by the Commission, the Bureau of Prisons, or any other agency to fall within the exclusionary provisions of paragraph (1), the Commission, the Bureau, or such other agency, as applicable, shall summarize the basic contents of the material withheld, taking into account the need for confidentiality and the potential impact on the prisoner, and shall furnish such summary to the prisoner.

"(d) Consultation.—

"(1) During the period before the parole determination proceeding described in subsection (b), a prisoner may consult, as provided by the Director, with a representative described in paragraph (2) and may consult by mail or other means with any person concerning such proceeding.

"(2) The prisoner may be represented at the parole determination proceeding by a representative who qualifies under rules and regulations promulgated by the Commission, and such rules shall not exclude attorneys as a class.

"(e) Personal appearance of prisoner.—The prisoner shall be permitted to appear and testify on their own behalf at the parole determination proceeding and may be accompanied by a legal spouse if the spouse is approved for visitation at the facility in which the prisoner is housed.

"(f) Record.—A full and complete audio and video record of each parole determination proceeding shall be created and retained by the Commission. Upon request, the Commission shall make available to an eligible prisoner any such record retained of the proceeding.

"(g) Decision and notice.—The Commission shall furnish the eligible prisoner with a written notice of its determination not later than 21 days, excluding holidays, after the date of the parole determination proceeding. If parole is denied—

"(1) such notice shall state with particularity the reasons for such denial; and

"(2) if feasible, a personal conference between the prisoner and a representative of the Commission shall—

"(A) explain the reasons for such denial; and

"(B) include advice to the prisoner as to what steps may be taken to enhance their chance of being released at a subsequent proceeding.

"(h) Frequency of parole determination proceedings.—If release on parole is not granted, subsequent parole determination proceedings shall be conducted not less frequently than—

"(1) once every 12 months in the case of a prisoner serving a term or terms of more than 1 year but less than 10 years; or

"(2) once every 18 months in the case of a prisoner serving a term or terms of 10 years or longer.

"Sec. 4229. Conditions of parole.

"(a) Mandatory conditions.—In every case, the Commission shall impose as conditions of parole—

"(1) that the parolee not commit another Federal, State, or local crime;

"(2) that, if a fine was imposed, the parolee make a diligent effort to pay such fine in accordance with the judgment; and

"(3) if the parolee is a person described in section 4042(c)(4), that they:

"(A) report the address where they will reside and any subsequent change of residence to the probation officer responsible for supervision; and

"(B) register in any State where they reside, are an employee, or are a student (as such terms are defined in section 111 of the Sex Offender Registration and Notification Act (34 U.S.C. 20911)).

"(b) Additional conditions.—The Commission may impose or modify conditions of parole only to the extent that such conditions are—

"(1) reasonably related to the nature and circumstances of the offense of conviction and the history and characteristics of the parolee;

"(2) necessary to promote public safety or to support the successful reintegration of the parolee into the community; and

"(3) no more restrictive than necessary to achieve the purposes described in paragraphs (1) and (2).

"(c) Prohibited bases.—The Commission shall not impose or continue any condition of parole—

"(1) based solely on the seriousness of the offense of conviction;

"(2) based on conduct for which the parolee has already been punished, absent a current and articulable risk related to supervision;

"(3) that unreasonably interferes with the parolee's ability to obtain or maintain lawful employment, housing, education, or necessary medical care, unless the Commission makes specific written findings that such interference is necessary to protect public safety; or

"(4) that is imposed for a punitive purpose rather than a supervisory or reintegrative purpose.

"(d) Clarity and notice of conditions.—The Commission shall—

"(1) make reasonable efforts to ensure that the parolee understands the conditions of parole, including the consequences of noncompliance; and

"(2) provide upon release a written statement of each condition of parole, stated with sufficient specificity to serve as a clear guide to supervision and conduct.

"(e) Residential and monitoring conditions.—

"(1) As a condition of parole or release as if on parole, the Commission may require a parolee—

"(A) to reside in or participate in the program of a residential community treatment center, or both, for all or part of the period of parole; or

"(B) to remain at a place of residence during nonworking hours and, if the Commission so directs, to have compliance with this condition electronically monitored.

"(2) A condition under paragraph (1)(B) may be imposed only as an alternative to incarceration and only upon a finding that less restrictive conditions are insufficient.

"(3) A parolee residing in a residential community treatment center pursuant to this subsection may be required to pay such costs incident to such residence as the Commission deems appropriate, taking into account the parolee's ability to pay.

"(f) Modification of conditions.—

"(1) The Commission may modify conditions of parole on its own motion or on the motion of a United States probation officer supervising the parolee if the parolee receives notice of the proposed modification and has 10 days after receipt of such notice to submit views.

"(2) Following such 10-day period, the Commission shall have 21 days, excluding holidays, to act on the proposed modification.

"(3) The Commission may modify conditions of parole without regard to the notice period described in paragraph (1) if the Commission determines that immediate modification is necessary to prevent imminent harm to the parolee or to the public.

"(4) A parolee may petition the Commission at any time for a modification of conditions.

"(5) This subsection shall not apply to modifications imposed as part of a revocation proceeding under section 4234.

"Sec. 4230. Jurisdiction of Commission.

"(a) Custody.—A parolee shall remain in the legal custody and under the control of the Attorney General until the expiration of the maximum term or terms for which such parolee was sentenced.

"(b) Termination.—Except as otherwise provided in this section, the jurisdiction of the Commission over the parolee shall terminate no later than the date of the expiration of the maximum term or terms for which they were sentenced, except that—

"(1) such jurisdiction shall terminate at an earlier date to the extent provided under section 4164 (relating to mandatory release), section 4184 (relating to release as if on parole), or section 4231 (relating to early termination of parole supervision); and

"(2) in the case of a parolee who has been convicted of any criminal offense committed subsequent to release on parole, and such offense is punishable by a term of imprisonment, detention, or incarceration in any penal facility, the Commission shall determine, in accordance with the provisions of section 4234(b) or (c), whether all or any part of the unexpired term being served at the time of parole shall run concurrently or consecutively with the sentence imposed for the new offense, but in no case shall such service, together with such time as the parolee has previously served in connection with the offense for which they were paroled, be longer than the maximum term for which they were sentenced in connection with such offense.

"(c) Extension.—In the case of any parolee found to have intentionally refused or failed to respond to any reasonable request, order, summons, or warrant of the Commission or any member or agent thereof, the jurisdiction of the Commission may, by judicial order, be extended for the period during which the parolee so refused or failed to respond.

"(d) Concurrence of running of term.—The parole of any parolee shall run concurrently with the period of parole, probation, or supervised release under the same or any other Federal, State, or local sentence.

"(e) Supervised release for same offense.—During any period in which a parolee is also subject to supervised release for the same offense—

"(1) the parolee shall be supervised solely under this chapter;

"(2) each day successfully served on parole shall be credited as a day served on supervised release;

"(3) no separate condition, modification, or revocation proceeding may be imposed or initiated under section 3583 during the period of concurrent supervision; and

"(4) upon termination of parole, any unexpired portion of the term of supervised release shall continue in accordance with section 3583.

"(f) Certificate of discharge.—Upon the termination of the jurisdiction of the Commission over any parolee, the Commission shall issue a certificate of discharge to such parolee and to such other agencies as it may determine.

"Sec. 4231. Early termination of parole.

"(a) In general.—Upon its own motion or upon request of the parolee, the Commission may terminate supervision over a parolee prior to the termination of jurisdiction under section 4230.

"(b) Review.—

"(1) 2 years after each parolee's release on parole, and at least annually thereafter, the Commission shall review the status of the parolee to determine the need for continued supervision. In calculating such 2-year period there shall not be included any period of release on parole prior to the most recent such release, nor any period served in confinement on any other sentence.

"(2) The Commission shall establish early termination guidelines and there shall be a presumption that supervision over the parolee shall be terminated at the designated time unless detailed written reasons are offered by the Commission that prove the parolee would be a danger to the public safety.

"(c) Presumptive termination.—

"(1) 5 years after each parolee's release on parole, the Commission shall terminate supervision over such parolee unless it is determined, after a hearing conducted in accordance with the procedures prescribed in section 4234(a)(2), that such supervision should not be terminated because there is a likelihood that the parolee will engage in conduct violating any criminal law.

"(2) If supervision is not terminated under paragraph (1), the parolee may request a hearing annually thereafter, and a hearing, with procedures as provided in paragraph (1), shall be conducted with respect to such termination of supervision not less frequently than biennially.

"(3) In calculating the 5-year period referred to in paragraph (1), there shall not be included any period of release on parole prior to the most recent such release, nor any period served in confinement on any other sentence.

"Sec. 4232. Aliens.

"When an alien prisoner subject to deportation becomes eligible for parole, the Commission may authorize the release of such prisoner on condition that such person be deported and remain outside the United States. Such person shall be delivered to the duly authorized immigration official for deportation when their parole becomes effective, unless such prisoner requests asylum. The alien prisoner may remain incarcerated while the asylum request is processed.

"Sec. 4233. Summons to appear or warrant for retaking of parolee.

"(a) In general.—If any parolee is alleged to have violated parole, the Commission may—

"(1) summon such parolee to appear at a hearing conducted pursuant to section 4234; or

"(2) issue a warrant and retake the parolee as provided in this section.

"(b) Issuance.—Any summons or warrant issued under this section shall be issued by the Commission as soon as practicable after discovery of the alleged violation, except when delay is deemed necessary. Imprisonment in an institution shall not be deemed grounds for delay of such issuance, except that, in the case of any parolee charged with a criminal offense, issuance of a summons or warrant may be suspended pending disposition of the charge.

"(c) Contents.—Any summons or warrant issued pursuant to this section shall provide the parolee with written notice of—

"(1) the conditions of parole allegedly violated as provided under section 4229;

"(2) the procedures and protections available to the parolee under this chapter; and

"(3) the possible action which may be taken by the Commission.

"(iv) the parolee does not constitute a danger to themselves or others; and

"(B) upon a finding of probable cause under subparagraph (A), a revocation hearing at or reasonably near the place of the alleged parole violation or arrest within 60 days of such determination of probable cause, except that a revocation hearing may be held at the same time and place set for the preliminary hearing.

In cases in which a parolee has been convicted of such an offense and is serving a new sentence in an institution, a parole revocation warrant or summons issued pursuant to section 4233 may be placed against the parolee as a detainer. Such detainer shall be reviewed by the Commission within 180 days of notification to the Commission of placement. "(D) prioritize continued supervision in the community whenever consistent with public safety; and

"(E) ensure that incarceration is used only when lesser interventions have been determined to be insufficient.

"(e) Written notice.—The Commission shall furnish the parolee with a written notice of its determination not later than 21 days, excluding holidays, after the date of the revocation hearing. SEC. 127. RESTRICTIONS ON THE USE OF SOLITARY CONFINEMENT.

(a) Findings.—The Congress finds the following—

(1) The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime has issued "the Nelson Mandela Rules," the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Treatment of Prisoners. The use of indefinite or prolonged solitary confinement for more than 15 days is defined as a form of torture. Rules 43-45 define restrictions for solitary confinement.

(2) In the summer of 2019, the U.S. had more than 55,000 incarcerated people who had been in solitary confinement for 15 days or longer; including thousands for more than 3 years.

(3) A 2014 study published in the American Journal of Public Health found that assignment to solitary confinement was strongly associated with acts of self-harm and that incarcerated people punished by solitary confinement were approximately 6.9 times as likely to commit acts of self-harm.

(4) A Department of Justice review of solitary confinement published in January 2016 summarized their conclusions by emphasizing, "as a matter of policy, we believe strongly this practice should be used rarely, applied fairly, and subjected to reasonable constraints."

(b) Solitary confinement restrictions.—Chapter 301 of title 18, United States Code, as amended by section 121 of this Act, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"Sec. 4016. Solitary confinement.

"(a) Definitions.—In this section:

"(1) Attempting.—The term 'attempting' means having the intent to carry out a particular act and completing significant steps in the advancement of the attempt. Evidence of withdrawal or abandonment of a plan to carry out the act shall negate a finding of intent.

"(A) there is reasonable cause to believe it is necessary for reducing a substantial risk of imminent serious harm to the incarcerated person or others in the facility, as evidenced by recent threats or conduct; and

"(B) a less restrictive intervention would be insufficient to reduce this risk.

"(5) Federal agency.—The term 'Federal agency' means the Federal Bureau of Prisons, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Department of Homeland Security, U.S. Customs and Border Protection, Office of Refugee Resettlement, United States Marshals Service, Department of Health and Human Services, and any other Federal agency that has people in its care or custody.

"(12) Solitary confinement.—The term 'solitary confinement' means the involuntary confinement of an incarcerated person to a cell or similarly confined holding or living space for approximately 22 hours or more per day, with severely restricted activity, movement, and social interaction. Solitary confinement does not include confinement due to a facility-wide or unit-wide lockdown that is required to ensure the safety of incarcerated people and staff.

"(13) Vulnerable person.—The term 'vulnerable person' means any incarcerated person who—

"(A) is 21 years of age or younger;

"(B) has a serious mental illness;

"(E) has a serious medical condition which cannot effectively be treated in solitary confinement; or

"(F) is pregnant, or has given birth, suffered a miscarriage, or terminated a pregnancy in the previous 45 days.

"(b) Restrictions on the use of solitary confinement—

"(1) Federal facilities shall not place any vulnerable person in solitary confinement except for the use of medical seclusion pursuant to subsection (e). No other person may be placed in solitary confinement except for disciplinary reasons pursuant to subsection (c) or for temporary emergency confinement.

"(2) No incarcerated person may be placed in solitary confinement for more than 15 consecutive days, or 30 days in any 60-day period. Any person placed in solitary confinement shall receive a personal and comprehensive medical and mental health examination conducted by a clinician pursuant to subsection (d).

"(3) No person placed in solitary confinement shall be:

"(A) subjected to corporal punishment;

"(B) placed in a cell or other holding or living space that is dark or constantly lit, or that lacks functioning sanitary facilities, proper ventilation or temperature monitoring;

"(C) denied access to appropriate medical care, including emergency medical care; or

"(D) denied, or given reduced access to: food, water, adequate clothing, or any other basic necessity. No variation of food from the standard menu shall be permitted without the incarcerated person's consent, except for a limited period, not to exceed 7 days, for an incarcerated person who has used food or food service equipment in a manner that is hazardous to the incarcerated person or others, provided that the food supplied is healthful, palatable, and meets basic nutritional requirements.

"(4) During the final 180 days of an incarcerated person's term of incarceration, officials shall avoid placing the person in solitary confinement. If solitary confinement becomes necessary during this time, officials shall provide targeted reentry programming to prepare the person for return to the community.

"(c) Disciplinary use of solitary confinement.—

"(1) Federal facilities shall establish maximum penalties for each level of disciplinary offense, graded based on the seriousness of the offense, which should include alternatives to solitary confinement. If used for punishment, solitary confinement shall be reserved for offenses:

"(A) Causing or attempting to cause serious physical injury or death to another person.

"(B) Compelling or attempting to compel another person, by force or threat of force, to engage in a sexual act (as defined in section 2246 of title 18).

"(D) Escaping, attempting to escape or facilitating an escape from a facility or escaping, attempting to escape or facilitating an escape while under supervision outside such facility.

"(2) An incarcerated person shall not be placed in solitary confinement pending investigation of a disciplinary offense unless the incarcerated person's presence in general population would pose a danger to the incarcerated person, staff, other incarcerated people, or the public.

"(A) In making this determination, officials should consider the seriousness of the alleged offense, including whether the offense would be punishable by solitary confinement pursuant to paragraph (1).

"(B) An incarcerated person's initial placement in investigative solitary confinement should be reviewed within 24 hours by an appropriate, high-level authority who was not involved in the initial placement decision.

"(C) An incarcerated person placed in investigative solitary confinement shall be given an initial hearing within 72 hours of placement, in the absence of exceptional circumstances, unavoidable delays, or reasonable postponements. An incarcerated person who demonstrates good behavior during investigative solitary confinement shall be considered for release to the general population while awaiting the disciplinary hearing.

"(D) Absent compelling circumstances, such as a pending criminal investigation, an incarcerated person may not remain in investigative solitary confinement for a longer period of time than the maximum term of disciplinary solitary confinement permitted for the most serious offense charged.

"(3) Procedures for a disciplinary hearing which may result in solitary confinement for an incarcerated person—

"(A) Hearings shall be conducted by a neutral decision maker—

"(i) In Federal Bureau of Prisons facilities or facilities contracting with the Federal Bureau of Prisons or United States Marshals Service for incarcerating people in their care or custody, the neutral decision maker shall be appointed by the Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights, employed by the Department of Justice but independent of any division or unit within the Department of Justice that has people in its care or custody or engages in any prosecuting activities, any other Federal agency, and any prosecuting entity.

"(ii) In U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, Department of Homeland Security, or U.S. Customs and Border Protection facilities, or facilities contracting with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, the Department of Homeland Security, or U.S. Customs and Border Protection for incarcerating people in their care or custody, the neutral decision maker shall be appointed by the Officer for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, employed by the Department of Homeland Security but independent of the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, any division or unit within the Department of Homeland Security that has people in its care or custody or engages in any prosecuting activities, any other Federal agency, and any prosecuting entity.

"(iii) In Department of Health and Human Services facilities or facilities contracting with the Department of Health and Human Services for incarcerating people in their care or custody, the neutral decision maker shall be appointed by the Director of the Office for Civil Rights, employed by the Department of Health and Human Services but independent of the Office for Civil Rights, any division or unit within the Department of Health and Human Services that has people in its care or custody, any other Federal agency, and any prosecuting entity.

"(B) The incarcerated person shall be permitted to represent themselves or be represented by any attorney, law student, paralegal, community advocate, or other incarcerated person of their choosing. If a person does not have their own representative, they shall be offered the assistance of a representative as follows:

"(i) For all hearings described in subparagraph (A)(i), an appointed representative selected by the Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights, employed by the Department of Justice, and independent of:

"(I) any division or unit within the Department of Justice that has people in its care or custody or engages in any prosecuting activities;

"(II) any other Federal agency; and

"(III) any prosecuting entity.

"(ii) For all hearings described in subparagraph (A)(ii), an appointed representative selected by the Officer for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties, employed by the Department of Homeland Security, and independent of:

"(I) the Office for Civil Rights and Civil Liberties;

"(II) any division or unit within the Department of Homeland Security that has people in its care or custody or engages in any prosecuting activities;

"(III) any other Federal agency; and

"(IV) any prosecuting entity.

"(iii) For all hearings described in subparagraph (A)(iii), an appointed representative shall be selected by the Director of the Office for Civil Rights, employed by the Department of Health and Human Services, and independent of:

"(I) the Office for Civil Rights;

"(II) any division or unit within the Department of Health and Human Services that has people in its custody;

"(III) any other Federal agency; and

"(IV) any prosecuting entity.

"(C) Not less than 2 days prior to any hearing, both the incarcerated person and their chosen representative shall be provided detailed written notice of the reason for the hearing, including all relevant evidence. The individual and their chosen representative shall be provided adequate time to prepare for such hearings and afforded adjournments as appropriate. Any refusal by an incarcerated person to attend such hearings shall be videotaped and made part of the evidentiary record that shall be maintained by the relevant Federal agency. Failure to provide the notice described herein or to enter into the record videotaped evidence of an alleged refusal to attend by an incarcerated person shall constitute a basis for resolving the hearing in that person's favor.

"(D) The neutral decision maker shall issue a written determination within 5 business days of the conclusion of the placement hearing. The determination shall specify the finding, a summary of each witness's testimony and an explanation of whether their testimony was credited or rejected, and the evidence relied upon in reaching the finding. A finding for disciplinary solitary confinement shall be supported by clear and convincing evidence.

"(E) A copy of the determination shall be provided to the incarcerated person and their chosen representative within 24 hours of the issuance of the determination, and, if the finding imposes disciplinary solitary confinement, no less than 2 hours prior to its imposition.

"(4) If a neutral decision maker is confronted with an incarcerated person who demonstrates symptoms of mental illness, the decision maker shall refer the person to a member of the medical staff to provide input as to:

"(A) the incarcerated person's competence to participate in the disciplinary hearing,

"(B) any impact the incarcerated person's mental illness may have had on their responsibility for the charged behavior, and

"(C) information about any known mitigating factors in regard to the behavior.

"The neutral decision maker shall also consult a member of the medical staff, preferably the treating clinician, as to whether certain types of sanctions, (e.g., placement in disciplinary solitary confinement, loss of visits, or loss of phone calls) may be inappropriate because they would interfere with supports that are a part of the incarcerated person's treatment or recovery plan. The neutral decision maker shall take the input provided under this paragraph into account when deciding what, if any, sanctions to impose.

"(5) If the hearing results in an adjudication of guilt, disciplinary solitary confinement may be used only if the hearing officer concludes that other available sanctions are insufficient to serve the purposes of punishment. An incarcerated person who is a vulnerable person described in subparagraph (E) or (F) of subsection (a)(13), who would otherwise be placed in solitary confinement, may alternately be placed in medical seclusion.

"(6) Absent any compelling circumstances, any time spent in investigative solitary confinement shall be credited toward a punishment of disciplinary solitary confinement. Ordinarily, disciplinary sentences for offenses that arise out of the same episode should be served concurrently.

"(7) To incentivize conduct that furthers institutional safety and security, an incarcerated person who demonstrates good behavior during disciplinary solitary confinement shall be given consideration for early release from solitary confinement, where appropriate.

"(d) Medical and mental health examinations.—

"(1) Except as provided in paragraph (3), no person shall be placed in solitary confinement prior to receiving a personal and comprehensive medical and mental health examination by a clinician.

"(2) A clinician shall evaluate each person placed in solitary confinement on a daily basis, in a confidential setting outside of the cell whenever possible, to determine whether they are a vulnerable person. The clinician may recommend changes to the solitary confinement of a person in order to ensure that such confinement does not exacerbate a medical condition or mental or physical disability.

"(3) A person placed in emergency confinement shall receive an initial medical and mental health evaluation within 2 hours of placement in emergency confinement by a member of the medical staff, and a personal and comprehensive medical and mental health evaluation within 36 hours of confinement.

"(4) If an evaluation determines the incarcerated person is a vulnerable person, they shall immediately be removed from solitary confinement, except an incarcerated person who is a vulnerable person described in subparagraph (E) or (F) of subsection (a)(13) may alternately be transferred to medical seclusion. A punishment of disciplinary solitary confinement which has been imposed on an incarcerated person who is removed from confinement pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to be satisfied.

"(e) Medical seclusion.—The Federal facility may subject a person to medical seclusion—

"(1) in response to a psychiatric emergency, if de-escalation methods and less restrictive measures fail to defuse the situation. If subjecting a person to medical seclusion in response to a psychiatric emergency pursuant to this paragraph, the medical staff shall continue de-escalation efforts and end the use of medical seclusion when the threat of the serious incident or imminent physical harm has passed.

"(2) when a mental health examination, the conduct of an incarcerated person, or any subsequent observation identifies a risk of suicide, the incarcerated person may be placed in a medical seclusion and promptly evaluated by a clinician, who should determine the degree of risk, appropriate level of ongoing supervision, and appropriate course of mental health treatment.

"(A) A suicidal incarcerated person's clothing may be removed only if an individualized assessment finds such removal necessary, and the affected person shall be provided with suicide resistant garments that are sanitary, adequately modest, and appropriate for the temperature.

"(B) At a minimum, incarcerated people presenting a serious risk of suicide shall be housed within sight of staff and observed by staff, face-to-face, at irregular intervals of no more than 15 minutes, with any currently threatening or attempting suicide under continuous staff observation. Suicide observation shall be documented, and incarcerated people under suicide observation evaluated by a clinician prior to being removed from observation.

"(3) pursuant to subsection (d)(4), for the fulfillment of disciplinary solitary confinement.

"(4) when medically necessary for an incarcerated person with a readily transmissible contagious disease, if the best available objective evidence indicates that the person poses a direct threat to the health or safety of others and other restrictions would be insufficient. Any accommodation made to address the special needs or risks of a prisoner with a communicable disease may not unnecessarily reveal that prisoner's health condition.

"(5) In any case of medical seclusion under this subsection, a clinical review shall be conducted at least every 8 hours and as indicated.

"(f) Recordkeeping.—

"(1) Required records.—For each placement of an incarcerated person in solitary confinement under this section, the Federal facility shall—

"(A) provide written notice to the appropriate facility administrator (or their designee); and

"(B) create and maintain a written record that includes—

"(i) the specific reason for—

"(I) the placement, including any hearings conducted, findings made, and sanctions imposed relating to the placement;

"(II) the removal of the incarcerated person;

"(ii) the type of confinement, including disciplinary, investigative, emergency confinement, or medical seclusion;

"(iii) the date and time—

"(I) the confinement began;

"(II) the confinement ended; and

"(III) of the notification required by subparagraph (A);

"(iv) the identity and title of the official authorizing the placement;

"(v) whether the incarcerated person was determined to be a vulnerable person under subsection (a);

"(vi) all medical and mental health evaluations conducted pursuant to this section, including the date, time, and evaluator.

"(2) Retention and availability.—Records required under paragraph (1) shall—

"(A) be maintained at the facility in which the incarcerated person is housed;

"(B) be available for internal oversight, medical review, and civil rights compliance purposes;

"(C) be preserved for not less than 5 years; and

"(D) be reported in aggregate to the Department of Justice.

"(3) Review and corrective action.—

"(A) Failure to comply.—A failure to provide notice or maintain records as required under this subsection shall require prompt supervisory review by the Federal agency responsible for the facility.

"(B) Corrective measures.—Where noncompliance is identified, the agency shall take appropriate corrective action, which may include training, policy modification, disciplinary measures, or referral for civil rights review.

"(g) Rulemaking.—Not later than January 30, 2027, each Federal agency shall develop rules, guidance, and regulations useful and necessary to implement this section with respect to Federal facilities under the jurisdiction of, or under contract with, that agency.".

(c) Clerical amendment.—The table of sections for such chapter, as amended by section 121 of this Act, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

(1) Subsection (b) of this section, and subsections (a), (b), and (g) of section 4016, as inserted by this section, are effective 30 days after enactment of this Act; and

PART II—EXPANDING ACCESS TO LEGAL SERVICES AND KNOWLEDGE

SEC. 151. LEGAL SERVICES GRANT PROGRAM.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Members of the legal profession are trustees of the judicial system, officers of the court who serve on the front lines of establishing justice. As guardians of legal knowledge, they have a duty to the public at large, but the injustice rampant in the judicial system demonstrates that as a group, they are failing in their duty to be stewards of justice. America must do better.

(2) Over the last 35 years, lawyers have raised their fees at twice the rate of inflation. Rather than fully utilizing their productive capacity, they have chosen to increase their prices, correctly calculating that they can earn more money with fewer but higher-paying customers with an inelastic demand for their services.

(3) The decision to price many Americans out of the market for legal services has fallen heaviest on the people most likely to find themselves in need of legal knowledge and representation. Those below the poverty line are 3 times as likely to be arrested, and the prevalence of cash bail also negatively impacts their available resources for a legal defense.

(4) Without a knowledgeable advocate to guide them, poor defendants find themselves, on average, serving longer sentences. This has led to a two-tiered system that makes a mockery of the phrase "with liberty and justice for all." Shakespeare famously suggested killing all the lawyers, which would even the playing field, but a preferable alternative is a fee-and-dividend model to address the issue.

(5) This part establishes a 12 percent excise tax on private sales and in-house provision of legal services, while exempting legal services provided within the scope of government or nonprofit employment and legal services purchased with vouchers under this part. Net revenues from the tax will finance legal services grants for individuals who are arrested.

(6) This should have 2 effects. First, by creating a supply of voucher dollars, a new market for legal services will be created, generating business opportunities for lawyers who would otherwise like to serve the community as stewards of justice but are unable to generate sufficient revenue. Second, by providing prompt access to legal expertise for those who are involuntarily thrust into the legal system, justice will be promoted.

(7) Simple arrests can have cascading consequences. In 2015, Sandra Bland was arrested after a pretext stop, held for days when she could not afford bail, and missed starting her new job. Her body was discovered in her cell on July 13.

(8) Legal vouchers will not be redeemable for cash, but they will be transferable, so that any surplus could be donated to people in need of additional legal services. This will enable incarcerated people to seek funds for professional reevaluation of their legal situations.

(9) Last, the program director may suggest revenue thresholds where the voucher distribution could be expanded to provide resources to parties in noncriminal cases, including family court, small claims court, and other civil proceedings, where those who cannot afford legal representation are frequently denied justice.

(b) Purpose.—The purpose of this part is to cultivate justice by rebalancing the economic forces in the legal profession.

(c) Definitions.—For purposes of this part:

(1) Activity.—The term "activity" means any action that results in an increase or decrease in the funds underlying an account, including an adjustment resulting from an error or the reversal of a prior transaction.

(2) Director.—The term "Director" means the Director of the Legal Services Grant Program.

(7) Trust fund.—The term "trust fund" means the Legal Services Trust Fund established under section 9513 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

(8) Voucher.—The term "voucher" means a card, code, or other means of access to a Legal Services Grant Program account associated with an unconditional grant for the purchase of legal services.

(d) Establishment.—There is established within the Office of Justice Programs a program to be known as the Legal Services Grant Program.

(1) The Program shall be headed by a Director who shall be appointed by, and report to, the Assistant Attorney General for the Office of Justice Programs.

(2) Duties and functions.—The Director shall establish a program under which qualified individuals receive grants for legal services in the form of vouchers redeemable for legal services from participating providers. The Director may enter into compacts, cooperative agreements, and contracts on behalf of the Program. In developing and maintaining the digital infrastructure required by this section, the Director shall consult with the United States Digital Service and the Secretary of the Treasury.

(3) Program requirements.—The Program shall—

(A) preemptively establish individual accounts for legal services grants, credit each account with $600, and issue vouchers to law enforcement agencies to be held on behalf of qualified individuals;

(II) $500 for each felony charge; and

(III) $300 for each charge that is not a felony;

(D) establish a voucher redemption program that shall—

(i) ensure widespread acceptance of vouchers through collaboration with providers;

(ii) establish minimum standards for provider participation, except that a provider that is authorized under applicable law to provide the legal services offered and regularly sells legal services to unrelated persons shall be deemed a participating provider unless the provider opts out through a process established by the Director;

(iii) require a participating provider that agrees to provide legal services to an account holder to accept a voucher as payment for such services, to the extent of the available voucher balance, except that nothing in this subparagraph requires a provider to undertake or continue a representation contrary to applicable law or rules of professional responsibility;

(iv) ensure prompt reimbursement to participating providers, without fees or charges, for the amount redeemed by an account holder;

(v) prohibit a participating provider from—

(I) imposing any surcharge, administrative fee, tax, or other charge on an account holder because payment is made with a voucher; or

(II) charging for voucher-funded legal services at a rate greater than the rate ordinarily charged to similarly situated private clients for comparable services;

(vi) require only such information as is reasonably necessary to verify eligibility, the amount redeemed, and compliance with this section, without requiring disclosure of privileged communications, attorney work product, legal strategy, or the substance of any legal advice or representation; and

(vii) permit the Director, after notice and an opportunity to respond, to suspend or terminate the participation of a provider that commits fraud, materially misrepresents services provided, imposes a prohibited charge, or otherwise materially violates this section or regulations prescribed under this section;

(E) establish a process under which an account holder receives an additional grant if, without a new arrest, a charge not previously used to calculate a grant under paragraph (3) or this paragraph is filed, in an amount equal to—

(i) $500 for each additional felony charge; and

(ii) $300 for each additional charge that is not a felony;

(F) establish a secure website that allows an individual to—

(i) search by zip code for participating providers;

(ii) check the balance and activity of the individual's legal services grant account;

(iii) transfer funds to another account in accordance with paragraph (7); and

(iv) access such other information or functions as the Director determines useful;

(G) establish a process under which a person other than a qualified individual may open an account to receive transfers from an account holder, and under which—

(i) an account holder may transfer all or part of an unused grant to another account without receiving money, property, services, or any other consideration in exchange;

(ii) transferred amounts remain subject to the same restrictions, expiration rules, and permitted uses that applied before the transfer;

(iii) no person may sell, purchase, broker, or exchange a voucher or grant balance for cash or anything else of value; and

(iv) the transfer process is accessible to incarcerated individuals;

(H) perform such other functions as the Assistant Attorney General for the Office of Justice Programs may delegate that are consistent with this section; and

(I) not later than October 30, 2027, submit to Congress proposed legislative text that would further clarify and implement this section, including provisions addressing—

(i) additional grants for court appearances or other milestones in criminal proceedings; and

(ii) funding thresholds under which the Program may be expanded to provide vouchers to parties in noncriminal cases, including family court, small claims court, and other civil proceedings.

(1) Account management.—The Director shall establish procedures under which a parent, legal guardian, representative payee, attorney, child advocate, or other appropriate fiduciary may manage a voucher account for an account holder who is a minor or is otherwise unable to manage the account.

(2) Fiduciary duty.—A person managing an account under this subsection shall act solely for the use and benefit of the account holder.

(3) Common legal matters.—Funds in the account of a minor or other person described in paragraph (1) may be combined with funds in the account of a parent, sibling, or other family member to purchase legal services concerning a common legal matter only if—

(B) the arrangement complies with applicable rules of professional responsibility; and

(C) no material conflict of interest exists, or each affected account holder receives such separate representation as applicable law requires.

SEC. 164. RESTRICTING STATE CIVIL ASSET FORFEITURE.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) State civil asset forfeiture proceedings permit the deprivation of property under color of State law without requiring a criminal conviction of the property owner.

(2) Modern civil asset forfeiture proceedings are punitive in purpose or effect and implicate rights secured by the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.

(3) Financial incentives associated with civil asset forfeiture and the absence of the procedural protections afforded to criminal defendants have resulted in repeated deprivations of property without adequate due process of law.

(4) The minimum procedures and remedies established by this section are necessary and appropriate legislation to enforce the Fourteenth Amendment.

(b) Constitutional authority.—Congress enacts this section pursuant to section 5 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

(c) In general.—Property owned by a person may be forfeited to a State pursuant to a civil proceeding only after—

(1) criminal conviction of such person for violation of State criminal law; or

(2) a civil proceeding in which—

(A) the State proves that the person who owns the property has committed the offense giving rise to forfeiture; and

(f) Applicability.—This section shall apply with respect to forfeiture proceedings occurring or pending on or after enactment.

PART II—DE-ESCALATING THE WAR ON DRUGS

SEC. 171. FINDINGS AND SENSE OF CONGRESS.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) During the 50 years since Congress' enactment of the Controlled Substances Act (21 U.S.C. 801 et seq.), which authorized and launched the harsh drug war policies sought by the Nixon Administration, the United States adopted increasingly punitive policies toward the possession, use, and distribution of drugs. The United States has built a massive regime to enforce those policies.

(2) Congress and State legislatures have passed increasingly harsh sentencing schemes such as mandatory minimums, established far-reaching and oppressive civil sanctions and collateral consequences, approved policies weakening the Fourth Amendment for drug searches and seizures, and fostered incentives for aggressive and militarized policing in the alleged pursuit of drugs.

(3) Every year, there are more than 1.4 million arrests in the United States for drug-related offenses. In over 85 percent of those arrests, drug possession was the most serious offense. Drug arrests disproportionately impact people of color and more commonly occur in historically overpoliced, low-income communities. A criminal record, even for an arrest that did not result in a conviction, may have a profound impact on individuals, often interrupting employment, housing, family relationships, child custody, and education.

(4) A health-based approach to drug use and overdose is more effective, humane and cost-effective than criminal punishments. Subjecting people to criminal penalties, stigma, and other lasting collateral consequences because they use drugs is expensive, ruins lives, and can make access to treatment and recovery more difficult.

(5) Despite high numbers of arrests and incarceration in the United States for drug possession, the number and rate of drug-involved overdose deaths has skyrocketed for over 20 years and continues at epidemic levels. In the first year of the pandemic, 100,000 people died by drug overdose in the United States.

(6) Harm reduction services and voluntary, on-demand access to evidence-based substance use disorder treatment have proven highly effective in reducing overdose and the spread of communicable diseases like HIV and Hepatitis C, preventing drug-related injury, and improving health outcomes for people who use drugs. These services should be available on demand to anyone who requests it.

(7) Far too many people who desire treatment face challenges that prevent them from accessing the services they want, including cost barriers, lack of providers, and long waiting lists. On-demand access to evidence-based treatment saves lives, reduces crime, and saves money.

(8) Criminalizing drug use and possession reduces the amount of resources available for harm reduction and treatment services and deters people from accessing available services due to fear of arrest.

(9) Punitive policies have achieved no reduction in supplies or prices, but instead have created unnecessarily risky and harmful conditions for people who use drugs.

(10) Punitive policies have led to militarized tactics that thwart the spirit of the Constitution and have led to the deaths of innocent civilians. Additionally, the drug war apparatus has cost the Federal Government hundreds of billions of dollars in direct enforcement and incarceration costs.

(11) While winding down the war on drugs cannot fully repair our broken and oppressive criminal legal system or the harms from 50 years of the war on drugs, it will help restore individual liberty, protect against some police abuses, better assist those in need, and reduce spending.

(b) Sense of Congress.—It is the sense of the Congress that—

(1) drug prohibition has failed just as alcohol prohibition did, and it is time to begin moving the country in a new direction; and

(2) such change is required to advance justice, which the Preamble to the Constitution requires be established by the people of the United States.

SEC. 172. WITHDRAWAL FROM UNITED NATIONS DRUG CONTROL TREATIES.

(a) Denunciation of drug control conventions.—Pursuant to the applicable denunciation provisions of the following international agreements, the President shall, not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, deposit with the Secretary-General of the United Nations written notification that the United States, in consultation with the Congress, denounces each such agreement:

(1) The Single Convention on Narcotic Drugs, done at New York March 30, 1961, pursuant to Article 46 thereof.

(2) The Convention on Psychotropic Substances, done at Vienna February 21, 1971, pursuant to Article 29 thereof.

"(b) A violation of this section shall not constitute a criminal offense. No person shall be arrested, detained, or taken into custody solely for such violation.

"(c) A violation of this section shall not be treated as a conviction for purposes of any Federal law, including—

"(1) for purposes of immigration status;

"(2) for eligibility for Federal benefits, including but not limited to: housing, employment, education, and licensing; or

"(3) any other collateral consequence under Federal law.".

(3) Attempts and conspiracies.—Sections 406 and 1013 of such Act shall apply to offenses as amended by this section, and no greater term of imprisonment may be imposed for an attempt or conspiracy than the maximum term authorized for the offense that was the object of such attempt or conspiracy as reduced by this section.

(4) Second or subsequent offenses.—Any provision of such Act that increases a term of imprisonment based on a prior conviction shall apply only to the maximum term of imprisonment as reduced by this section.

SEC. 201. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Congress finds the following:

(1) Article I of the Constitution grants Congress the power to regulate commerce among the several States, to lay and collect taxes, and to establish uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies, and such powers carry with them the responsibility to ensure that financial markets serve the general welfare of the United States.

(2) Concentration of economic and financial power enables a small number of firms and investors to exert outsized influence over policy and legislative processes, distorting democratic governance.

(3) The resulting preferential treatment of certain financial transactions, investment strategies, and merger activity has contributed to the erosion of the Federal tax base, reducing public revenues and shifting fiscal burdens onto households and productive businesses, as well as increasing economic inequality and its resulting societal problems.

(4) Financial market failures and extraction driven business models routinely impose societal costs, including job losses, pension failures, publicly funded backstops, and lost tax revenue, rarely with corresponding accountability for the actors who benefit.

(5) Ownership of publicly traded equities and financial assets is highly concentrated, leaving most Americans exposed to market volatility, economic downturns, business failures, and price fluctuations without meaningful participation in market gains.

(6) Serial consolidation and acquisition driven strategies, often financed through high leverage, reduce competition, suppress wages, weaken long-term business viability, and prioritize short-term financial extraction over productive investment in the real economy.

(7) The cumulative effect of these practices has undermined public confidence that Wall Street operates fairly, competitively, and in a manner promoting the general welfare of the United States.

(8) The 2010 decision in Citizens United v. FEC and the resulting flood of corporate money into elections exacerbated the feeling that Wall Street is disproportionately influencing national policy, stacking our economic system in favor of large corporations.

(b) Purpose.—The purpose of this title is to unstack Wall Street.

SEC. 202. ANTI-EVASION.

(a) In general.—It shall be unlawful to conduct any activity, including by entering into an agreement or contract, engaging in a transaction, or structuring an entity, to willfully evade or attempt to evade any provision of this title.

(b) Enforcement.—A violation of this section shall be enforceable to the same extent, and subject to the same civil, criminal, and administrative penalties and remedies, as a violation of the provision of this title that the person sought to evade.

Subtitle A—Stop Wall Street Looting

SEC. 211. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Congress finds the following:

(1) Private equity fund activity has surged in the 21st century, with generally a negative impact on the general welfare of the United States.

(2) Private equity has penetrated industries from real estate to health care, with especially disruptive effects in retail. In the last decade, dozens of major retailers—including Sears, Toys "R" Us, and Neiman Marcus—filed for bankruptcy under title 11.

(3) Private equity has increasingly targeted entities serving vulnerable populations, including affordable housing, for-profit colleges, payday lenders, medical providers, and nursing homes.

(4) While often claiming to rescue troubled companies, private equity funds frequently impose crushing debt, strip assets, and obstruct long-term growth. When investments succeed, fund managers reap the gains; when they fail, workers and communities bear the losses.

(5) Private equity funds operate with limited transparency and often require investors to waive fiduciary protections. When portfolio companies fail, workers lose jobs, wages, severance, and earned pensions—yet are treated as junior creditors in bankruptcy.

(b) Purpose.—The purpose of this subtitle is to stop Wall Street looting.

SEC. 225. LIMITATION ON BASIC EXCLUSION AMOUNT AND BASIS ADJUSTMENT AT DEATH.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) The use of appreciated assets to finance consumption or investment without sale, combined with basis adjustment at death under section 1014 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, permits substantial tax avoidance and facilitates the accumulation and transmission of dynastic wealth.

(2) The concentration of large inheritances in a small number of families contributes to wealth inequality, entrenches economic privilege across generations, and undermines the principle that all people should have a fair opportunity to build economic security through their own labor and contributions to society.

(3) It is understandable that parents seek to provide stability and security to their children. But with the establishment of unconditional basic income through the American Union Jobs Program, the United States shall ensure basic economic security for every child and every family. In light of that guarantee, the amount of wealth that may pass tax-free at death may be limited to 100 times the annual basic wage without impairing the basic security of the decedent's offspring.

(b) Basic exclusion amount and portability.—Section 2010(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 2010) is amended—

(1) by amending paragraph (3) to read as follows:

"(3) Basic exclusion amount.—For purposes of this subsection, the basic exclusion amount is an amount equal to 100 times the basic wage as determined under section 1398c of title 42, United States Code."; and

(2) by amending paragraph (4)(B)(ii) to read as follows:

"(ii) the sum of—

"(I) the amount with respect to which the tentative tax is determined under section 2001(b)(1) on the estate of such deceased spouse; and

"(II) the aggregate increase in basis allowed under section 1014(g)(1) with respect to property acquired from such deceased spouse.".

(c) Limitation on basis adjustment at death.—Section 1014 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 1014) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(g) Limitation on basis adjustment for property acquired from a decedent by subject transferees.—

"(1) In general.—In the case of property acquired from a decedent by a subject transferee, the aggregate increase in basis resulting from subsection (a) shall not exceed the unused exclusion remainder.

"(2) Unused exclusion remainder.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'unused exclusion remainder' means the excess (if any) of—

"(A) the applicable exclusion amount determined under section 2010(c)(2), over

"(B) the sum of—

"(i) the adjusted taxable gifts of the decedent, as determined under section 2001(b), reduced by the amount of such gifts on which gift tax was paid; and

"(ii) the aggregate fair market value, determined as of the date of the decedent's death, of all property acquired from the decedent by subject transferees.

"(3) Subject transferee.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'subject transferee', with respect to property acquired from a decedent, means any person other than—

"(A) a person acquiring such property with respect to which a deduction is allowable under section 2055 or 2106(a)(2) by reason of the transfer of such property; or

"(B) a person acquiring such property with respect to which a deduction is allowable under section 2056 or 2106(a)(3) by reason of the transfer of such property.

"(4) Pro rata allocation of allowable basis increase.—If the aggregate increase in basis that would otherwise result from subsection (a) with respect to property acquired from the decedent by subject transferees exceeds the unused exclusion remainder, the unused exclusion remainder shall be allocated pro rata among all items of such property for which subsection (a) would otherwise increase basis, based on the amount of such increase for each such item.

"(5) Basis of property with limited basis increase.—In the case of property to which paragraph (4) applies, the basis of such property shall be the adjusted basis of such property immediately before death, increased by the amount allocated to such property under paragraph (4). In no event shall the basis of such property exceed the amount determined under subsection (a).

"(6) Basis of marital deduction and community property.—In the case of property with respect to which a deduction is allowable under section 2056 or 2106(a)(3), or property described in subsection (b)(6), the basis of such property immediately after the decedent's death shall be the lesser of—

"(A) the adjusted basis of such property immediately before the decedent's death; or

"(B) the amount determined under subsection (a).

"(7) Regulations.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary or appropriate to carry out this subsection, including regulations for reporting, basis tracking, fractional interests, and coordination with chapters 11 and 12.".

(d) Effective date.—

(1) The amendments made by subsection (b) shall apply to estates of decedents dying and gifts made after December 31, 2026.

(2) The amendment made by subsection (c) shall apply to property acquired from decedents dying after December 31, 2026.

"(i) there are no other willing or qualified bidders for the institution;

"(ii) no less anticompetitive transaction is reasonably available; and

"(iii) no other means of executing an orderly resolution or winddown under applicable law would adequately protect depositors and the Deposit Insurance Fund.

"(B) Burden of proof.—The burden of demonstrating compliance with subparagraph (A) shall rest with the parties to the transaction.

"(C) Prohibition on speculative justifications.—General assertions of financial weakness, market instability, or potential future distress shall not, by themselves, satisfy the requirements of this paragraph.

"(b) Rebuttable presumption.—For purposes of section 7 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. 18), it shall be a rebuttable presumption that a covered transaction may create an appreciable risk of materially lessening competition or tend to create a monopoly or monopsony if any of the following conditions are true:

"(1) Size.—The value of the covered transaction is greater than $100,000,000,000 (as adjusted and published for each fiscal year beginning after September 30, 2026, in the same manner as provided in section 8(a)(5) to reflect the percentage change in the gross national product for such fiscal year compared to the gross national product for the year ending September 30, 2025).

"(2) Concentration and change in concentration.—In any relevant market, the covered transaction would result in a Herfindahl-Hirschman Index greater than 1,800 and would increase the Herfindahl-Hirschman Index by 100 or more.

"(3) Market share and change in concentration.—In any relevant market, the covered transaction would result in a market share of 30 percent or greater for any person and would increase the Herfindahl-Hirschman Index by 100 or more.

"(4) Serial acquisitions.—The covered transaction is part of a pattern or strategy of multiple acquisitions in the same or related business lines and, when evaluated cumulatively, such acquisitions would create or further a trend toward concentration or otherwise may create an appreciable risk of materially lessening competition.

"(5) Vertical foreclosure and limiting access.—The covered transaction may create an appreciable risk of materially lessening competition by enabling the merged firm to limit, foreclose, degrade, or otherwise impede rivals' access to a related product, service, input, or route to market, including by raising rivals' costs, impairing rivals' ability to compete, or otherwise reducing competition.".

Subtitle D—Addressing Electioneering by Corporations

SEC. 241. LIMITATION ON CORPORATE POWER TO ELECTIONEER.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds that—

(1) Corporations are artificial legal entities created by government charter to serve the public good and possess only those powers expressly granted to them by the sovereign authority that authorizes their existence.

(2) Corporate powers are not inherent, personal, or Constitutional in nature; they are delegated privileges that may be defined, limited, conditioned, or withheld in accordance with the public interest.

(3) Under Article I of the Constitution, Congress is the policy setting branch of the United States with principal responsibility to enact rules governing Federal elections and to safeguard democratic self-government.

(4) The Supreme Court's 2010 decision in Citizens United v. FEC held that restrictions on corporate election spending burdened free speech rights but assumed, without deciding, that corporations had been granted lawful power to engage in such spending under State or Federal charter law.

(5) Citizens United did not grant corporations an inherent Constitutional right to influence elections; rather, it presupposed the existence of such corporate power, which Congress retains full authority to define, regulate, or withhold in connection with Federal elections.

(6) Nothing in the Constitution requires Congress to grant corporations the power to influence Federal elections, and withholding such power does not restrict the ability of natural persons to participate in political debate, civic associations, and election activity using their own resources.

(7) Special government granted privileges such as limited liability and perpetual existence facilitate wealth accumulation by corporations, which can be used to influence electoral outcomes.

(8) Outside spending and dark money channels have expanded dramatically in recent decades, undermining public trust, reducing transparency, and weakening accountability in Federal elections.

(9) Decisions to use corporate funds for political contributions and expenditures are often made by corporate boards and executives, rather than by shareholders, who historically have lacked practical mechanisms to know of, approve, or meaningfully influence such political activity.

(10) Congress has authority under the Elections Clause, the Commerce Clause, the Necessary and Proper Clause, and its responsibility to preserve a republican form of government to structure and limit the activities of corporations operating in interstate commerce when necessary to safeguard the integrity of Federal elections.

(11) While corporations may petition and lobby elected officials regarding public policy relevant to their business purposes, allowing corporations to engage in electioneering directed at voters is inconsistent with the public good, threatens political equality, and undermines democratic self-government.

(12) Clarifying that corporations do not possess the power to engage in electioneering in connection with Federal elections, except as expressly authorized by Congress, is necessary to protect the integrity of Federal elections.

(b) Definitions.—In this section:

(1) Corporation.—The term "corporation" means any entity organized under the laws of a State or the laws of the United States, including any subsidiary, affiliate, or other entity that is substantially controlled by such entity.

(2) Disbursement for a political purpose.—The term "disbursement for a political purpose" has the meaning given such term in section 10F of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (as inserted by this Act).

(3) Electioneering communication.—The term "electioneering communication" means any publicly distributed communication that is intended to influence the outcome of a Federal election, but does not include—

(A) any bona fide news story, fact-check, interview, candidate debate or forum, investigative report, or other form of journalistic reporting distributed by a press entity acting in the normal course of its press function;

(B) any commentary, opinion, or endorsement expressed by an identifiable individual using such individual's own resources; or

(C) any communication exempted by regulations promulgated under subsection (j).

(4) Expenditure for political activities.—The term "expenditure for political activities" has the meaning given the term in section 13(t) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (as inserted by this Act).

(5) Federal electioneering authorization.—The term "Federal electioneering authorization" means an Act of Congress that expressly and specifically extends to a corporation the privilege of engaging in an electioneering communication or political expenditure.

(6) Press entity.—The term "press entity" means a publisher, broadcaster, or other entity that disseminates news or information to the public and that is acting in the normal course of a bona fide journalistic function.

(7) Publicly distributed communication.—The term "publicly distributed communication" means any communication disseminated, or intended to be disseminated, to the general public or to any segment thereof, including through broadcast media, cable networks, satellite transmission, the internet, digital platforms, social media, search engines, streaming services, mobile applications, algorithmic targeting systems, print media, or mass distribution channels.

(8) Responsible person.—The term "responsible person" means any organizer, incorporator, director, officer, controlling shareholder, beneficial owner, or other individual who directly or indirectly exercises substantial control over a corporation or its activities.

(c) Corporate electioneering power withheld.—Notwithstanding any other provision of Federal or State law, no corporation shall possess any legal power, privilege, capacity, or authority to make, finance, authorize, direct, facilitate, or otherwise support an expenditure for political activities or an electioneering communication in connection with a Federal election unless pursuant to a Federal electioneering authorization that satisfies subsection (e).

(d) Voidness.—Any corporate action prohibited under subsection (c) is void and unenforceable as a matter of Federal law.

(e) Federal authorization enumerated.—A Federal electioneering authorization may be granted only within the framework of—

(1) chapter 301 of title 52, United States Code;

(2) section 527 of title 26, United States Code; and

(3) until December 31, 2029:

(A) section 501(c)(4) of title 26, United States Code; and

(B) the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (15 U.S.C. 78a et seq.).

(f) Federal preemption.—No State, the District of Columbia, or any territory or possession of the United States may grant any corporate charter, or confer any corporate power, privilege, or authority, that permits a corporation to engage in an electioneering communication or expenditure for political activities in connection with a Federal election.

(g) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit or restrict the ability of natural persons to engage in political speech or make expenditures for political activities using their own resources.

(h) Enforcement.—

(1) Federal enforcement.—The Attorney General may bring a civil action to enforce this section.

(2) State civil enforcement.—The attorney general of any State in which an electioneering communication was disseminated, published, or received may bring a civil action to enforce this section.

(i) Personal liability of responsible persons.—Any responsible person who knowingly authorizes, directs, finances, or participates in an activity prohibited under this section shall be personally liable, jointly and severally, for an amount equal to 3 times the value of the prohibited expenditure for political activities.

(j) Implementation.—

(1) Interim final rules.—Not later than April 30, 2027, the Federal Election Commission, in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General, shall issue interim final rules to implement this section—

(A) as needed to clarify coordination, aggregation, anti-avoidance, and reporting; and

(B) to establish procedures for exempting electioneering communications under subsection (b)(3) whose inclusion would be de minimis or duplicative of other provisions of law, provided that no such exceptions may narrow the exclusions in subparagraphs (A) and (B).

(2) Procedure.—The Commission shall issue the interim final rules without regard to section 553 of title 5, United States Code. The interim final rules shall have the force and effect of law immediately upon publication. The Commission shall provide a period of not less than 60 days for public comment after publication of the interim final rules.

(3) Final rules.—Not later than October 1, 2027, the Commission shall issue final rules to implement this section.

(19) Systemic solvency shortfall.—The term "systemic solvency shortfall" means the amount, if any, by which the value of the liabilities of a limited liability entity in the worst financial state exceeds the value of the real assets of the entity.

(20) Worst financial state.—The term "worst financial state" means the single internally consistent state of the world, permitted by the legal terms of the financial contracts and liabilities of a limited liability entity, in which all relevant financial events occur in the combination that produces the most adverse net financial position for the entity, determined—

(A) without regard to probability, expected value, historical correlation, regulatory risk weighting, or anticipated governmental assistance;

(B) by reference to the maximum legally enforceable obligations and valuation consequences that may arise in that state; and

(C) after recognizing only offsets, hedges, collateral, netting rights, and other protections permitted under subsection (c).

(b) Systemic solvency requirement.—

(1) General rule.—Except as provided in subsection (f), each limited liability entity shall maintain systemic solvency.

(2) Prohibited actions.—Subject to subsection (f), a limited liability entity may not take any action if, immediately after giving effect to the action, the entity would not be systemically solvent, including—

(A) issuing, assuming, renewing, extending, or materially modifying a liability or financial contract;

(B) providing a guarantee, indemnity, liquidity commitment, repurchase commitment, value support arrangement, or other financial support;

(C) making a dividend, distribution, redemption, repurchase, return of capital, or other transfer to an owner or holder of an equity interest;

(D) selling, transferring, pledging, encumbering, or otherwise disposing of a real asset;

(E) merging, consolidating, dividing, reorganizing, or transferring assets or liabilities; or

(F) entering into any other transaction or arrangement that creates, increases, transfers, or materially changes a liability or financial exposure.

(3) Effects to be included.—In applying paragraph (2), the limited liability entity shall take into account all direct, indirect, fixed, contingent, on-balance-sheet, and off-balance-sheet effects that may arise under the legal terms of the action, without regard to the accounting characterization, form, label, or expected probability of those effects.

(4) No reliance on future relief.—A determination of systemic solvency may not rely on—

(A) expected future earnings;

(B) an anticipated refinancing, rollover, renewal, capital contribution, or asset sale that is not legally binding and fully funded;

(C) anticipated governmental assistance, emergency lending, regulatory forbearance, or public loss absorption; or

(D) discretionary support from an affiliate or other person that is not recognized under subsection (c)(8).

(5) Ordinary equity financing preserved.—Nothing in this section shall prohibit a limited liability entity from issuing an equity interest that does not require redemption, repurchase, a fixed or guaranteed return, value support, or any other payment or performance that constitutes a liability under this section, if the issuance does not otherwise cause or increase a systemic solvency shortfall.

(c) Valuation of liabilities in the worst financial state.—

(1) General rule.—For purposes of determining systemic solvency, each liability of a limited liability entity shall be identified and valued as of the same date in accordance with this subsection, whether or not the liability is recognized, disclosed, reserved against, or recorded under generally accepted accounting principles or another accounting, regulatory, or reporting standard.

(2) Fixed and noncontingent liabilities.—A fixed or noncontingent liability shall be valued at the amount required, as of the date of determination, to satisfy or extinguish the liability in accordance with its legal terms, including outstanding principal, accrued interest, mandatory fees, and any then applicable termination or prepayment amount.

(3) Liabilities contingent on real events.—

(A) In general.—A liability contingent solely on 1 or more real events shall be valued at the greater of—

(i) the amount required to be maintained or recognized as a reserve under applicable law; or

(ii) the amount determined under generally accepted actuarial principles or another sound and consistently applied method prescribed by the Office.

(B) Probability permitted.—A valuation under this paragraph may take into account probability, expected value, historical experience, diversification of independent real risks, and the expected timing of payment.

(C) Financial component.—To the extent that the amount or existence of a liability described in subparagraph (A) also depends on a financial event, that portion of the liability shall be valued under paragraph (4).

(4) Liabilities contingent on financial events.—A liability contingent in whole or in part on a financial event shall be valued at the maximum amount that the limited liability entity may be legally obligated to pay, transfer, deliver, or perform in the worst financial state, without discount for probability, expected value, historical correlation, diversification, regulatory risk weighting, or anticipated governmental or private assistance.

(5) Financial contracts recorded as assets.—If a financial contract recorded or treated as an asset may require the limited liability entity to make a payment, transfer property, deliver a financial asset, or otherwise perform in the worst financial state—

(A) the contract shall be treated as a liability to the extent of the maximum net obligation arising in that state; and

(B) no positive accounting or market value assigned to the contract shall be treated as a real asset.

(6) Unbounded or indeterminate exposure.—

(A) In general.—If the maximum obligation arising from a liability contingent in whole or in part on a financial event, or from a financial contract, is unbounded, indeterminate, or incapable of being reduced to a finite amount under its legal terms, the resulting liability shall be treated as unlimited.

(B) Effect.—A limited liability entity with a liability described in subparagraph (A) shall be deemed not systemically solvent unless the exposure is completely and legally eliminated by an offset recognized under paragraph (8).

(C) No statistical cap.—A confidence interval, value-at-risk measure, stress-test percentile, historical maximum, or other statistical estimate may not be used to establish a finite value for an obligation that is legally unbounded.

(7) Single internally consistent state.—

(A) Portfolio-wide determination.—The worst financial state shall be determined across all liabilities, financial contracts, financial assets, offsets, hedges, and collateral of the limited liability entity using a single internally consistent combination of financial events.

(B) Consistent variables.—The same price, rate, index, default status, market condition, or other financial variable may not be assigned inconsistent values for different positions in the same determination.

(C) No selective scenarios.—A limited liability entity may not select different adverse states for different positions for the purpose or effect of reducing the aggregate value of its liabilities.

(8) Offsets, hedges, collateral, and netting.—

(A) General requirements.—An offset, hedge, collateral position, netting right, guarantee, or other protection may be recognized only to the extent that—

(i) it is valid and legally enforceable in the worst financial state, including during insolvency, bankruptcy, receivership, or resolution;

(ii) it is legally and operationally available to satisfy the relevant liability and is not subject to a conflicting claim, transfer restriction, or discretionary refusal that would prevent performance in that state;

(iii) its value, availability, and performance are determined in the same internally consistent state used to value the liability;

(iv) any obligation of another person relied upon as protection is supported, in that same state, by real assets sufficient to permit performance after satisfaction of the other liabilities of that person, or is fully collateralized by assets available under clauses (i) through (iii); and

(v) the same asset, contract, payment claim, collateral, or other protection is not counted more than once.

(B) Matched financial positions.—A financial asset or financial contract may offset a liability to the extent that—

(i) the asset or contract is legally deliverable in satisfaction of the liability; or

(ii) its value necessarily changes in a manner that offsets the liability in the same worst financial state.

(C) Netting.—A right of setoff, close-out netting, payment netting, or termination netting may be recognized only to the extent that the right—

(i) applies between the same legally obligated parties or pursuant to a legally enforceable multilateral arrangement;

(ii) remains enforceable notwithstanding insolvency, bankruptcy, receivership, resolution, or the imposition of a stay; and

(iii) does not depend on discretionary performance by the limited liability entity or another person.

(D) Collateral.—

(i) General rule.—Collateral shall be valued in the same worst financial state as the liability it supports.

(ii) Financial collateral.—Financial collateral may reduce the value of a liability to the extent permitted under subparagraph (A), but shall not be treated as a real asset.

(iii) Interest in real collateral owned by another person.—A perfected and legally enforceable interest in identifiable real collateral owned by another person may be recognized as a collateral position, but not as a real asset of the limited liability entity, only to the extent of the lesser of—

(I) the unpaid amount of the obligation secured by the collateral; or

(II) the net amount reasonably expected to be realized by the limited liability entity through enforcement of its interest within a commercially reasonable period in the same worst financial state, after deducting legally superior interests, taxes, carrying costs, enforcement costs, disposition costs, completion or stabilization costs, and adjustments for physical condition, incomplete construction, legal or operational delay, transfer restrictions, market depth, and uncertainty.

(iv) Aggregate recognition.—Collateral positions described in clause (iii) may be recognized on an aggregate basis across one or more liabilities, except that—

(I) the aggregate amount by which liabilities are reduced may not exceed the aggregate amount recognized under clause (iii);

(II) the aggregate amount shall be further reduced as necessary to reflect concentration or correlation among collateral, obligors, markets, geographic areas, purchasers, or uses, simultaneous enforcement or disposition, limited market capacity, or another condition that would reduce aggregate recovery;

(III) pooling, diversification, securitization, tranching, or a credit rating may not, by itself, increase the amount recognized; and

(IV) no collateral, interest, or value may be counted more than once.

(v) No duplicate treatment.—A real asset recognized under subsection (d) may not also be used to reduce the value of a liability under this paragraph.

(E) No assumed transactions.—An offset may not be based on an assumed refinancing, rollover, future purchase or sale, discretionary margin payment, voluntary capital contribution, or other transaction that is not legally binding and fully funded as of the date of determination.

(9) Guarantees, indemnities, and financial support.—

(A) Provider.—A guarantee, indemnity, liquidity commitment, repurchase commitment, value support arrangement, or similar financial support shall be valued as a liability of the provider at the maximum amount for which the provider may be responsible in the worst financial state.

(B) Beneficiary.—A beneficiary may recognize an arrangement described in subparagraph (A) as an offset only to the extent permitted under paragraph (8), and may not assume that the provider will receive governmental assistance, affiliate support, refinancing, or other relief in order to perform.

(10) Regulatory methodologies.—The Office shall prescribe standardized methodologies for applying this subsection, including methodologies for evaluating linked, circular, or recursive obligations of multiple persons, but no methodology may—

(A) substitute statistical probability, expected loss, historical correlation, or regulatory risk weighting for maximum legal exposure to a financial event;

(B) treat an unenforceable, unavailable, or unfunded protection as an offset; or

(C) permit inconsistent assumptions concerning the same financial event.

(d) Valuation of real assets.—

(1) General rule.—For purposes of determining systemic solvency, a real asset shall be valued at its independently realizable value as of the same date used to value liabilities under subsection (c), using conservative, verifiable, and consistently applied methods.

(2) Tangible property.—The value of land, structures, equipment, machinery, inventory, commodities, and other tangible property shall—

(A) reflect the amount reasonably obtainable in an arm's-length transaction within a commercially reasonable period;

(B) account for physical condition, depreciation, obsolescence, location, legal restrictions, disposition costs, and the depth and reliability of the relevant market; and

(C) exclude any value attributable solely to the continued operation, reputation, organization, or expected future profitability of the limited liability entity.

(3) Productive assets in use.—A real asset need not be sold or removed from productive use in order to be recognized, but its value shall be based on the independently realizable value of the asset itself and not on goodwill, going concern value, anticipated synergies, or projected earnings of the enterprise.

(4) Intangible property.—A patent, copyright, trade secret, license, or other intangible property may be recognized as a real asset only to the extent that—

(A) the property is legally enforceable;

(B) the property is separately transferable or licensable apart from the continued operation or reputation of the limited liability entity;

(C) the limited liability entity possesses the legal authority necessary to transfer or license the property; and

(D) the assigned value is supported by verifiable arm's-length transactions, enforceable licensing arrangements, or another conservative valuation method prescribed by the Office.

(5) Commercial receivables.—

(A) In general.—A bona fide commercial receivable described in subsection (a)(15)(B)(iii) shall be valued at the amount reasonably expected to be collected, reduced by allowances for nonpayment, dispute, return, offset, warranty obligation, collection cost, and delay.

(B) Performance required.—A receivable may not be recognized as a real asset unless the goods have been delivered or made available under the sale or lease, or the nonfinancial services have been performed, to the extent giving rise to the receivable.

(C) Financing excluded.—A receivable arising principally from an extension of credit, financing arrangement, deferred payment investment, or transaction structured for the purpose or effect of creating a financial asset shall not be treated as a real asset.

(6) Money of the United States.—

(A) An amount of Treasury Dollar Bills shall be valued at par.

(B) United States coins and currency shall be valued at face value.

(C) No amount may be added for anticipated interest, appreciation, exchange value, scarcity, or resale value.

(7) Encumbrances and interests of other persons.—

(A) A lien or security interest securing a liability fully included under subsection (c) shall not, solely by reason of securing that liability, reduce the value of the real asset.

(B) The value of a real asset shall be reduced by the value of any ownership interest, beneficial interest, superior claim, use restriction, or other interest of another person that—

(i) limits the amount the limited liability entity may realize from the asset; and

(ii) is not otherwise included as a liability under subsection (c).

(C) A fractional or partial interest shall be recognized only to the extent of the limited liability entity's legally enforceable interest.

(8) Financial assets and offsets.—

(A) A financial asset shall not be valued as a real asset.

(B) A financial asset may be recognized only as an offset under subsection (c)(8).

(C) No asset, value, contractual claim, collateral position, or other protection may be counted both—

(i) as a real asset under this subsection; and

(ii) as an offset reducing a liability under subsection (c).

(9) Impairment and uncertainty.—The value of a real asset shall be reduced as necessary to reflect—

(A) illiquidity or the absence of a reliable market;

(B) technological, legal, physical, or economic obsolescence;

(C) pending litigation, contamination, remediation duties, title defects, or transfer restrictions;

(D) concentration or correlation among assets, obligors, markets, geographic areas, purchasers, or uses, including impairment arising from simultaneous enforcement or disposition;

(E) uncertainty concerning ownership, enforceability, condition, collectability, or transferability; and

(F) any other factor that materially reduces independently realizable value.

(10) No double counting.—A real asset or portion of a real asset may not be counted more than once by the same limited liability entity, by different members of an enterprise group, or through direct ownership, beneficial ownership, a participation interest, a trust, a special purpose vehicle, or another arrangement.

(11) Documentation, appraisal, and valuation independence.—

(A) Records.—A limited liability entity shall maintain records sufficient to establish the existence, ownership, condition, valuation method, and independently realizable value of each material real asset and each material collateral position.

(B) Independent review.—The Office may require an independent appraisal or valuation for a class of assets or collateral positions or for an asset or collateral position exceeding a threshold established by rule.

(C) Independence.—An appraisal or valuation relied upon under this section may not be prepared, directed, or compensated under an arrangement in which compensation, continued engagement, or another benefit depends on—

(i) the amount of the valuation;

(ii) completion of a loan, financing, securitization, acquisition, disposition, or other transaction; or

(iii) attainment of a requested or predetermined result.

(D) Prohibited influence.—A person engaged in origination, sales, underwriting, or transaction structuring may not direct or control the conclusion of an appraisal or valuation, and no interested person may coerce, influence, or attempt to influence such a conclusion.

(E) Office authority.—An appraisal or valuation shall not bind the Office. The Office may reject an appraisal or valuation, require an additional appraisal or valuation, apply a standardized benchmark or conservative adjustment, or recognize an amount less than the appraised or stated value if necessary to carry out this section.

(12) Valuation rules.—The Office shall prescribe standardized rules, valuation intervals, documentation requirements, impairment standards, and conservative valuation adjustments necessary to carry out this subsection, including rules governing aggregation of collateral positions, correlated stress, simultaneous enforcement or disposition, market capacity, and the independence of appraisals and valuations.

(e) Standalone and consolidated application.—

(1) Standalone compliance.—Each limited liability entity shall determine and maintain systemic solvency on a separate entity basis without regard to the systemic solvency of an affiliate, owner, parent, subsidiary, or other member of an enterprise group.

(2) Enterprise group compliance.—In addition to the requirement under paragraph (1), each enterprise group shall be systemically solvent on a consolidated basis.

(3) Scope of consolidation.—A consolidated determination under paragraph (2) shall include—

(A) each limited liability entity in the enterprise group;

(B) each special purpose vehicle, trust, partnership, fund, contractual arrangement, or other person through which a member of the enterprise group owns or controls assets, incurs or supports liabilities, transfers financial risk, or conducts financial activity;

(C) each domestic or foreign affiliate to the extent that—

(i) a member of the enterprise group directly or indirectly bears the risk of loss or obligation of performance of the affiliate;

(ii) the affiliate directly or indirectly guarantees, supports, or provides liquidity for a member of the enterprise group;

(iii) assets or liabilities have been transferred between the affiliate and a member of the enterprise group under circumstances indicating continuing economic integration or risk sharing; or

(iv) exclusion of the affiliate would materially understate the assets, liabilities, financial exposure, or systemic solvency shortfall of the enterprise group; and

(D) any other person or arrangement that the Office determines, based on economic substance, is used to hold, transfer, guarantee, insure, conceal, or allocate assets, liabilities, or financial exposure of the enterprise group.

(4) Natural persons and governments.—A natural person or governmental entity excluded under subsection (a)(13)(B) shall not be included in an enterprise group, except to the extent that—

(A) property of the person or governmental entity is legally pledged and available to satisfy a liability of the enterprise group; or

(B) a member of the enterprise group is legally obligated with respect to a liability, guarantee, or commitment of the person or governmental entity.

(5) Economic substance.—The Office shall determine the scope of an enterprise group and the treatment of assets and liabilities based on control, economic integration, allocation of risk, legally enforceable support arrangements, and the person that ultimately bears the risk of loss or obligation of performance, without regard to—

(A) formal ownership;

(B) accounting consolidation or nonconsolidation;

(C) corporate, contractual, trust, or partnership form;

(D) the location or jurisdiction of organization of a person; or

(E) whether an asset, liability, or arrangement is recorded on a balance sheet.

(6) Intercompany items.—

(A) In general.—In a consolidated determination under paragraph (2), an obligation and corresponding claim between members of the same enterprise group may be eliminated only to the extent that—

(i) the obligation and claim represent the same legally enforceable amount;

(ii) no person outside the enterprise group bears any portion of the associated risk of loss or obligation of performance; and

(iii) the elimination does not conceal or reduce an external liability, guarantee, support arrangement, or financial exposure.

(B) Standalone treatment preserved.—An elimination under subparagraph (A) shall not affect the separate entity determination required under paragraph (1).

(7) No double counting.—

(A) A real asset, financial asset, equity interest, offset, hedge, collateral position, guarantee, or other protection may not be counted more than once within an enterprise group.

(B) Ownership of an equity interest in a member of an enterprise group shall not be treated as a real asset of another member of the enterprise group in a consolidated determination.

(C) A transfer of a real asset within an enterprise group shall not increase the aggregate value of real assets recognized for the enterprise group.

(8) Deficiencies at either level.—A limited liability entity is not systemically solvent if—

(A) the entity fails the separate entity requirement under paragraph (1); or

(B) the enterprise group of which the entity is a member fails the consolidated requirement under paragraph (2).

(9) Rules.—The Office shall prescribe rules governing consolidation, allocation of assets and liabilities, intercompany eliminations, foreign affiliates, jointly controlled entities, minority interests, special purpose vehicles, and other matters necessary to carry out this subsection.

(f) Transition to systemic solvency.—

(1) New entities.—A limited liability entity organized after the date of enactment of this Act shall be systemically solvent before commencing operations, issuing a financial instrument, incurring a liability, or entering into a financial contract.

(2) Existing entities without a shortfall.—A limited liability entity in existence on the date of enactment of this Act that does not have a systemic solvency shortfall on the initial measurement date under paragraph (4) shall comply with subsection (b) beginning on that date and may not thereafter rely on the transition provided under this subsection to create or increase a systemic solvency shortfall.

(3) Existing entities with a shortfall.—A limited liability entity in existence on the date of enactment of this Act that has a systemic solvency shortfall on the initial measurement date shall achieve full systemic solvency not later than January 1, 2035, in accordance with this subsection.

(4) Initial measurement and remediation plan.—

(A) Initial measurement date.—The initial measurement date shall be June 1, 2027.

(B) Initial determination and submission.—

(i) Determination required.—Not later than July 1, 2027, each limited liability entity in existence on the date of enactment of this Act shall determine its systemic solvency shortfall and compliance ratio as of the initial measurement date.

(ii) Complete filing.—Not later than July 1, 2027, a limited liability entity shall file the determination under clause (i) with the Office and each appropriate functional regulator if the entity—

(I) is required to file under subsection (g)(2)(A);

(II) determines that it has a systemic solvency shortfall; or

(III) is not eligible to use the simplified compliance method under subsection (g)(11).

(iii) Simplified electronic certification.—A limited liability entity not required to file under clause (ii) shall submit the electronic certification required under subsection (g)(11)(C) according to the last digit of the Federal taxpayer identification number assigned to or used by the entity, as follows:

(I) For a number ending in 0 or 1, not later than July 31, 2027.

(II) For a number ending in 2 or 3, not later than August 31, 2027.

(III) For a number ending in 4 or 5, not later than September 30, 2027.

(IV) For a number ending in 6 or 7, not later than October 31, 2027.

(V) For a number ending in 8 or 9, not later than November 30, 2027.

(iv) Retention and production.—An entity submitting a certification under clause (iii) shall retain the complete determination and supporting records and shall provide them to the Office or an appropriate functional regulator upon request.

(C) Remediation plan.—Each limited liability entity described in paragraph (3) shall, not later than January 1, 2028, submit to the Office and each appropriate functional regulator a remediation plan for achieving systemic solvency not later than January 1, 2035.

(D) Requirements.—A remediation plan shall—

(i) identify each action the entity expects to take to reduce liabilities, acquire or retain real assets, raise equity, cap or terminate financial exposure, or otherwise achieve compliance;

(ii) include annual and quarterly milestones consistent with paragraphs (5) and (6); and

(iii) not depend on anticipated governmental assistance, regulatory forbearance, or public loss absorption.

(E) Annual updates.—A limited liability entity that has a systemic solvency shortfall shall update and resubmit its remediation plan with each annual determination required under subsection (g)(1) until the entity achieves systemic solvency.

(F) Preservation of records.—Beginning on the date of enactment of this Act, each limited liability entity shall preserve records reasonably necessary to determine its financial condition and systemic solvency on the initial measurement date.

(G) Use of fiscal year records.—For its initial determination, a limited liability entity may use records prepared as of the end of its most recently completed fiscal year to the extent that the entity identifies and accounts for each material change occurring between the end of that fiscal year and the initial measurement date.

(H) Initial valuation safe harbor.—A civil penalty may not be imposed solely because of an error in an initial classification or valuation that was made using reasonable, documented, and consistently applied methods and corrected not later than 90 days after notice from an enforcing authority. This subparagraph shall not apply to knowing or reckless falsification, concealment, evasion, double counting, or omission of material information.

(5) Minimum progress.—

(A) Cumulative annual reduction.—By the beginning of each calendar year, a limited liability entity shall have eliminated, in the aggregate, not less than the percentage of the systemic solvency shortfall existing on the initial measurement date specified in the following table:

(i) On January 1, 2028, 4 percent.

(ii) On January 1, 2029, 14 percent.

(iii) On January 1, 2030, 26 percent.

(iv) On January 1, 2031, 38 percent.

(v) On January 1, 2032, 52 percent.

(vi) On January 1, 2033, 66 percent.

(vii) On January 1, 2034, 82 percent.

(viii) On January 1, 2035, 100 percent.

(B) Compliance ratio.—The compliance ratio of a limited liability entity may not be less than—

(i) the compliance ratio of the entity on the initial measurement date; or

(ii) the minimum ratio required under the progressively increasing schedule prescribed under paragraph (6), whichever is greater.

(C) No nominal expansion of shortfall.—The systemic solvency shortfall of a limited liability entity may not exceed the maximum shortfall permitted under subparagraph (A), subject only to an adjustment for inflation prescribed by the Office using a broad measure of prices in the United States.

(D) Earlier compliance.—Nothing in this subsection prohibits the Office or another regulator acting within its jurisdiction from requiring more rapid remediation when necessary to address concealment, evasion, unsafe expansion of financial exposure, or a material threat to creditors, counterparties, or the public.

(6) Progressive compliance schedule.—

(A) Initial schedule.—Not later than October 30, 2027, the Board, in consultation with the Director, shall prescribe a schedule of progressively increasing minimum compliance ratios applicable during the transition period. The schedule shall take effect on January 1, 2028.

(B) The schedule shall—

(i) establish thresholds not less frequently than quarterly;

(ii) require continuous and reasonably even progress toward full systemic solvency;

(iii) prohibit backloading of material remediation to the final portion of the transition period; and

(iv) require a compliance ratio of not less than 1 on January 1, 2035.

(C) Once a threshold takes effect, the Board may not reduce, waive, suspend, or delay that threshold.

(7) Actions during transition.—On and after January 1, 2028, a limited liability entity described in paragraph (3) may take an action described in subsection (b)(2) only if, immediately after giving effect to the action—

(A) the entity satisfies each applicable threshold and milestone under this subsection;

(B) except as provided in paragraph (12), the action does not increase the systemic solvency shortfall of the entity or reduce its compliance ratio;

(C) the action is consistent with the remediation plan required under paragraph (4); and

(D) the action does not create an unbounded or indeterminate exposure prohibited under paragraph (8).

(8) Unbounded or indeterminate exposures.—

(A) New exposures prohibited.—On and after the date of enactment of this Act, no limited liability entity may issue, assume, renew, extend, or materially modify a liability or financial contract for which the maximum obligation is unbounded, indeterminate, or incapable of being reduced to a finite amount under its legal terms.

(B) Existing exposures.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, a limited liability entity shall terminate, novate, cap, restructure, fully offset, or otherwise remediate each outstanding liability or financial contract described in subparagraph (A).

(C) No grandfathering.—A liability or financial contract shall not be permissible solely because it was entered into before the date of enactment of this Act.

(9) Distributions and asset transfers.—During any period in which a limited liability entity has a systemic solvency shortfall, the entity may not make a dividend, equity redemption, stock repurchase, return of capital, transfer to an owner or affiliate, or other discretionary distribution of value unless—

(A) the distribution is expressly included in the remediation plan;

(B) the entity remains in compliance with paragraph (5) after the distribution; and

(C) the distribution does not increase the systemic solvency shortfall or reduce the compliance ratio of the entity or its enterprise group.

(10) Failure to satisfy transition requirements.—A failure to satisfy a threshold, milestone, or requirement under this subsection constitutes a violation of this section and is subject to enforcement under subsection (j). A limited liability entity that has such a failure shall—

(A) notify the Office and each appropriate functional regulator without delay;

(B) cease any action prohibited under subsection (b)(2) unless expressly authorized as part of a remediation order; and

(C) submit a revised remediation plan not later than 30 days after the failure.

(11) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to—

(A) require the liquidation of a particular real asset;

(B) prohibit the raising of ordinary equity; or

(C) prohibit a nonfinancial business activity otherwise permitted by law.

(12) Successors, restructurings, and required divestitures.—

(A) Definitions.—In this paragraph:

(i) Covered transaction.—The term "covered transaction" means a merger, consolidation, division, spin-off, sale, transfer, assignment, reorganization, bankruptcy restructuring, or other transaction or series of related transactions that materially transfers, divides, or reallocates a business, operation, asset, liability, financial exposure, or systemic solvency obligation of a limited liability entity.

(ii) Required divestiture.—The term "required divestiture" means a divestiture required by an Act of Congress or by a final order of a Federal agency or court.

(iii) Reviewing authority.—The term "reviewing authority" means each Federal agency or court responsible for ordering, reviewing, or approving a required divestiture, including an appropriate functional regulator, the Federal Trade Commission, or the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice, as applicable.

(iv) Transaction party.—The term "transaction party" means a limited liability entity that transfers, receives, retains, or assumes a material business, operation, asset, liability, financial exposure, or systemic solvency obligation in a covered transaction.

(B) General rule.—A covered transaction may allocate a systemic solvency position among resulting entities but may not erase, conceal, reset, postpone, or double count a systemic solvency shortfall or remediation obligation.

(C) Pretransaction determination.—Immediately before a covered transaction, each transaction party shall determine, in accordance with this section—

(i) its real assets;

(ii) its liabilities in the worst financial state;

(iii) its systemic solvency shortfall and compliance ratio;

(iv) the cumulative reduction in shortfall required as of the transaction date;

(v) its remaining milestones and remediation obligations; and

(vi) its position within any enterprise group.

(D) Allocation according to economic substance.—

(i) Each asset, liability, guarantee, liquidity commitment, financial support arrangement, contingent exposure, collateral position, customer obligation, and other protection shall be allocated among the resulting entities according to legal responsibility and economic substance.

(ii) In making an allocation under clause (i), the transaction parties and the Office shall consider—

(I) the entity that receives or retains an asset;

(II) the entity that assumes, retains, or remains legally obligated for a liability;

(III) the entity that conducts the activity or receives the economic benefit;

(IV) the entity that bears the risk of loss or obligation of performance;

(V) each guarantee, indemnity, support arrangement, and contingent exposure;

(VI) each legally enforceable collateral position and priority interest;

(VII) each customer, policyholder, depositor, investor, employee, and contractual obligation associated with the transferred business; and

(VIII) the personnel, systems, licenses, facilities, contracts, and operating capacity necessary to conduct the transferred business.

(E) Preservation of aggregate position.—Except to the extent of an approved transaction adjustment under subparagraph (H), immediately after a covered transaction—

(i) the aggregate systemic solvency shortfall of the resulting entities may not exceed the aggregate systemic solvency shortfall of the transaction parties immediately before the transaction;

(ii) the aggregate amount of shortfall required to have been eliminated as of the transaction date may not be reduced;

(iii) the aggregate remaining remediation obligation may not be reduced or postponed;

(iv) no liability, financial exposure, or adverse obligation may be treated as extinguished solely because it was transferred or reallocated;

(v) no real asset, collateral position, offset, guarantee, or other protection may be counted by more than 1 person; and

(vi) new equity or other qualifying real resources contributed in connection with the transaction shall be recognized in accordance with this section.

(F) Successor treatment.—

(i) Each resulting entity shall inherit the portion of the initial systemic solvency shortfall, cumulative reduction requirement, and remaining remediation obligation allocated to it under this paragraph.

(ii) Each inherited portion shall remain subject to the transition schedule and final deadline that applied to the applicable transaction party immediately before the covered transaction.

(iii) A limited liability entity organized to receive a business, operation, asset, or liability in a covered transaction shall not be treated as a new entity under paragraph (1) with respect to an inherited shortfall allocated under this paragraph.

(iv) No resulting entity may receive a new transition period or a deadline extending beyond January 1, 2035.

(G) Allocation plan and systemic solvency impact determination.—

(i) Submission required.—Before consummating a covered transaction, the transaction parties shall submit a systemic solvency allocation plan to the Office and each appropriate functional regulator if—

(I) the transaction is a required divestiture;

(II) any transaction party has a systemic solvency shortfall; or

(III) the transaction exceeds a materiality threshold prescribed by the Office.

(ii) Contents.—The allocation plan shall include—

(I) the determinations required under subparagraph (C);

(II) the proposed allocation under subparagraph (D);

(III) the projected systemic solvency shortfall and compliance ratio of each resulting entity;

(IV) each proposed transfer of real assets, liabilities, collateral, guarantees, support arrangements, or financial exposure;

(V) each proposed capital contribution, reserve, escrow, financing arrangement, or transitional service; and

(VI) any proposed transaction adjustment under subparagraph (H).

(iii) Office determination.—The Office shall issue a written systemic solvency impact determination that—

(I) determines whether the proposed allocation complies with this section;

(II) identifies the systemic solvency effect of the transaction on each transaction party and resulting entity;

(III) determines the amount and cause of any proposed transaction adjustment;

(IV) identifies any double counting, concealed exposure, unsupported valuation, or other inconsistency; and

(V) specifies any correction necessary to calculate compliance accurately.

(iv) Effect.—The determination under clause (iii) shall be binding for purposes of calculating compliance with this section but shall not independently authorize, prohibit, delay, or condition the covered transaction.

(v) Required divestiture.—For a required divestiture, the Office shall provide the determination to each reviewing authority in sufficient time for consideration before the reviewing authority issues its final decision.

(H) Approved transaction adjustment.—

(i) In general.—Notwithstanding subparagraph (E) and paragraphs (5)(B), (5)(C), and (7)(B), a reviewing authority may approve a temporary increase in systemic solvency shortfall or reduction in compliance ratio directly and reasonably necessary to complete a required divestiture.

(ii) Permissible causes.—An adjustment under clause (i) may include an amount directly attributable to—

(I) establishing separate facilities or operating locations;

(II) separating or duplicating information, accounting, compliance, payroll, recordkeeping, risk management, cybersecurity, or other operational systems;

(III) obtaining separate personnel, licenses, permits, insurance, contracts, or professional services;

(IV) providing necessary working capital;

(V) reasonable separation and transaction costs; or

(VI) acquisition financing reasonably necessary to transfer the divested business to an operationally independent person.

(iii) Exclusions.—An approved transaction adjustment may not include an amount attributable to—

(I) a dividend, stock repurchase, equity redemption, return of capital, or other discretionary distribution;

(II) an insider payment or compensation enhancement;

(III) asset stripping or dissipation of real assets;

(IV) a transaction premium or financing cost that is not reasonably necessary to complete the required divestiture;

(V) a payment or obligation incurred primarily to transfer value to an owner, affiliate, officer, or director; or

(VI) evasion, concealment, false valuation, double counting, or another violation of this section.

(iv) Required findings.—A reviewing authority may approve an adjustment only after considering the Office determination and finding in writing that—

(I) the adjustment is necessary to complete the required divestiture;

(II) the adjustment is no greater than reasonably necessary;

(III) no reasonably practicable alternative structure would materially reduce the adjustment;

(IV) each resulting entity will be operationally viable and capable of satisfying its remediation obligations;

(V) the transaction does not create an unbounded or indeterminate exposure;

(VI) the transaction does not depend on anticipated governmental assistance, public loss absorption, or regulatory forbearance; and

(VII) the adjustment will be eliminated under the supplemental remediation plan required under subparagraph (I).

(I) Supplemental remediation plan.—

(i) An entity receiving an approved transaction adjustment shall submit a supplemental remediation plan to the Office and each appropriate functional regulator before consummation or at such earlier time as the reviewing authority requires.

(ii) The plan shall—

(I) identify the approved adjustment separately from each inherited shortfall;

(II) specify the real assets, equity, liability reductions, retained earnings, or other measures by which the adjustment will be eliminated;

(III) establish annual and quarterly milestones requiring continuous and reasonably even progress;

(IV) prohibit backloading of material remediation;

(V) eliminate the adjustment as soon as reasonably practicable; and

(VI) eliminate the adjustment in full not later than January 1, 2035.

(iii) The supplemental remediation plan shall be updated with each annual determination until the adjustment is eliminated.

(J) Effect on violations and penalties.—

(i) The creation of an approved transaction adjustment in accordance with this paragraph shall not, solely by reason of the adjustment, constitute a violation of this section or give rise to a civil penalty.

(ii) Clause (i) does not waive, limit, suspend, or delay—

(I) any other substantive requirement or restriction under this section;

(II) any inherited milestone or remediation obligation;

(III) the distribution restrictions under paragraph (9);

(IV) any remediation order or restriction otherwise applicable to a transaction party or resulting entity; or

(V) any penalty or remedy for conduct other than creation of the approved adjustment.

(iii) An entity violates this section if the entity—

(I) exceeds the amount of the approved adjustment;

(II) uses the adjustment for a purpose not approved under this paragraph;

(III) fails to satisfy a milestone or requirement of the supplemental remediation plan;

(IV) conceals or materially misstates an asset, liability, exposure, cost, or transaction term; or

(V) otherwise fails to comply with this section.

(iv) No transaction adjustment may remain outstanding on or after January 1, 2035.

(K) Restrictions on transaction parties.—

(i) Each resulting entity that has an inherited systemic solvency shortfall or an approved transaction adjustment remains subject to paragraph (9) and every other applicable restriction under this section until the shortfall or adjustment is eliminated.

(ii) A divesting entity remains subject to the allocation plan until each capital contribution, transfer of real assets, assumption or retention of liabilities, reserve, escrow, or other obligation assigned to that entity has been completed.

(iii) Until the Office confirms completion of the obligations described in clause (ii), no transaction party may—

(I) make a discretionary distribution of transaction proceeds; or

(II) transfer transaction proceeds or other transaction value to an owner, affiliate, officer, or director, except for ordinary compensation or a bona fide payment for goods or services provided in the ordinary course on arm's-length terms.

(iv) After the obligations assigned to a divesting entity have been completed, that entity shall not remain responsible solely by reason of the covered transaction for a subsequent failure by an operationally independent resulting entity, unless the divesting entity remains legally obligated through a guarantee, support arrangement, retained liability, or other obligation.

(L) Operational independence.—

(i) A covered transaction may not preserve or create a continuing guarantee, liquidity commitment, shared capital arrangement, loss-sharing arrangement, or financial support arrangement that recreates common control, economic integration, or common financial risk inconsistent with the purpose of the transaction.

(ii) Clause (i) does not prohibit—

(I) a finite and fully disclosed transitional service provided on arm's-length terms;

(II) a legally enforceable obligation that is fully recognized and valued under this section; or

(III) another temporary arrangement approved by the applicable reviewing authority that does not recreate common control or permit double counting.

(M) Proportional administration.—The Office shall prescribe rules to carry out this paragraph, including—

(i) materiality thresholds;

(ii) forms and procedures for allocation plans and impact determinations;

(iii) standards for transaction adjustments and supplemental remediation plans;

(iv) procedures coordinated with review under section 256 and other Federal divestiture provisions; and

(v) a simplified electronic certification for a covered transaction below the applicable materiality threshold if every transaction party and resulting entity is systemically solvent.

Nothing in this subparagraph authorizes an exemption from the substantive allocation, no-double-counting, anti-evasion, or final compliance requirements of this section.

(g) Certification, reporting, and auditing.—

(1) Annual determination.—Each limited liability entity shall, not less frequently than annually—

(A) determine its systemic solvency, systemic solvency shortfall, and compliance ratio on a standalone basis and, if applicable, on a consolidated enterprise group basis;

(B) maintain records sufficient to reproduce each material assumption, valuation, classification, scenario, offset, and calculation used in the determination; and

(C) obtain a certification from each responsible officer that the determination is complete and accurate after reasonable inquiry.

(2) Filing requirement.—

(A) In general.—A limited liability entity shall file the determination and certification required under paragraph (1) with the Office and each appropriate functional regulator if the entity—

(i) is required to file reports under section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934;

(ii) is a financial institution, insurance company, investment bank, Government corporation, or issuer of securities offered to the public;

(iii) is a parent or material member of an enterprise group described in clause (i) or (ii);

(iv) has assets, liabilities, financial exposure, or annual revenues exceeding a threshold prescribed by the Office; or

(v) is designated by the Office based on complexity, leverage, contingent exposure, interconnectedness, use of off-balance-sheet arrangements, or a material risk of noncompliance.

(B) Other entities.—A limited liability entity not required to file under subparagraph (A) shall retain the determination and certification required under paragraph (1) and provide them to the Office or an appropriate functional regulator upon request.

(C) Filing frequency.—A filing under this paragraph shall be made not later than 90 days after the end of the fiscal year of the entity, or at such earlier time as the Office may prescribe for a class of entities.

(3) Quarterly reporting.—The Office may require quarterly reporting from a limited liability entity or class of limited liability entities described in paragraph (2)(A) based on size, financial activity, leverage, contingent exposure, systemic importance, prior noncompliance, or another risk factor established by rule.

(4) Material-change notice.—A limited liability entity required to file under paragraph (2)(A) shall notify the Office and each appropriate functional regulator not later than 5 business days after the entity knows or reasonably should know of—

(A) a systemic solvency shortfall;

(B) a material reduction in its compliance ratio;

(C) a material increase in a liability contingent on a financial event;

(D) the creation or discovery of an unbounded or indeterminate exposure;

(E) the loss, impairment, unavailability, or unenforceability of a material real asset, hedge, offset, guarantee, netting right, or collateral position relied upon for compliance; or

(F) another material event that would reasonably be expected to affect systemic solvency.

(5) Independent audit.—

(A) Audit required.—A limited liability entity required to file under paragraph (2)(A) shall obtain an annual examination of its systemic solvency determination by an independent public accountant or other qualified independent auditor meeting standards prescribed by the Office.

(B) Scope.—The examination shall evaluate—

(i) the existence and valuation of material real assets;

(ii) the completeness and valuation of liabilities;

(iii) the determination of the worst financial state;

(iv) the legal enforceability and operational availability of material offsets, hedges, collateral, netting rights, guarantees, and other protections;

(v) standalone and consolidated treatment under subsection (e);

(vi) compliance with subsection (f), if applicable; and

(vii) the adequacy of internal controls supporting the determination.

(C) Opinion.—The auditor shall issue an opinion stating whether the determination is fairly presented, in all material respects, in accordance with this section and rules prescribed under this section.

(D) Reliance on legal expertise.—An auditor may rely on an opinion of qualified legal counsel concerning whether a contract, netting arrangement, collateral interest, guarantee, or other legal protection is enforceable, but such reliance shall not excuse an unreasonable or knowing failure to identify a material inconsistency or omission.

(6) Auditor reporting duty.—

(A) An auditor that identifies a material violation, material misstatement, unbounded exposure, or substantial doubt concerning systemic solvency shall notify the responsible officers and governing body of the limited liability entity without delay.

(B) If the entity does not provide satisfactory evidence of correction or notification to the Office and each appropriate functional regulator not later than 10 business days after receiving notice under subparagraph (A), the auditor shall notify the Office and each appropriate functional regulator directly.

(C) A contractual or professional duty of confidentiality may not prohibit a notification required under this paragraph.

(7) Record retention.—A limited liability entity shall retain the records required under this subsection for not less than 7 years after the date of the applicable determination, or for such longer period as the Office may prescribe for a material contract, asset, liability, investigation, or enforcement matter.

(8) Standardized reporting and use of existing information.—

(A) The Office shall prescribe standardized forms, data definitions, electronic filing methods, and audit standards necessary to carry out this subsection.

(B) In administering this subsection, the Office and appropriate functional regulators shall comply with subsection (i)(11) and, to the maximum extent practicable, permit incorporation by reference of reliable information contained in an existing regulatory filing.

(9) Proportional administration.—In prescribing thresholds and reporting requirements under this subsection, the Office shall minimize unnecessary burden on smaller and nonfinancial entities, but may not exempt any limited liability entity from the substantive systemic solvency requirement or from maintaining records sufficient to demonstrate compliance.

(10) Confidentiality and public reporting.—

(A) Information filed under this subsection that constitutes trade secrets, confidential commercial or financial information, personal information, or supervisory information shall be exempt from disclosure under section 552 of title 5, United States Code.

(B) The Office shall publish aggregate and anonymized information sufficient to describe trends in systemic solvency, financial exposure, real assets, and compliance without identifying confidential information of a particular limited liability entity.

(11) Simplified compliance and electronic certification.—

(A) Eligible entity.—This paragraph applies to a limited liability entity that—

(i) is not required to file under paragraph (2)(A);

(ii) has no unbounded or indeterminate exposure; and

(iii) has no material liability contingent on a financial event.

(B) Simplified method.—The Office shall prescribe a simplified method for an eligible entity. The method may rely on ordinary course financial statements, tax records, appraisals, and officer certifications and may not require scenario modeling beyond that necessary to identify and value a material financial event exposure.

(C) Initial electronic certification.—The Office shall establish a secure electronic system through which an eligible entity that determines it has no systemic solvency shortfall may submit a brief certification stating that—

(i) the entity completed the determination required under subsection (f)(4);

(ii) the entity determined that it had no systemic solvency shortfall as of the initial measurement date;

(iii) the entity is eligible to use the simplified method under subparagraph (A);

(iv) the certification is complete and accurate after reasonable inquiry; and

(v) the entity will retain and, upon request, provide the determination and supporting records.

(D) Authentication and existing information.—The electronic system under subparagraph (C) shall, to the maximum extent practicable—

(i) authenticate an entity using the Federal taxpayer identification number assigned to or used by the entity or another existing Federal identification number associated with the entity;

(ii) permit use of credentials already issued by the Internal Revenue Service or another Federal agency;

(iii) permit incorporation by reference or automatic population of reliable information contained in an existing Federal filing; and

(iv) provide an electronic confirmation of submission.

(E) No exemption or limitation on review.—Submission of a certification under this paragraph does not—

(i) exempt an entity from the substantive requirements of this section;

(ii) constitute approval of the determination by the Office or an appropriate functional regulator;

(iii) limit the authority to require production of the determination or supporting records; or

(iv) limit correction, examination, audit, or enforcement relating to an inaccurate, incomplete, or false certification.

(h) Office of Systemic Solvency.—

(1) Establishment.—There is established within the Board an office to be known as the Office of Systemic Solvency.

(2) Director.—

(A) Appointment.—The Office shall be headed by a Director appointed by a majority of the Board. Not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Board shall appoint the initial Director or designate an acting Director under subparagraph (E).

(B) Qualifications.—The Director shall be appointed on the basis of demonstrated expertise in accounting, auditing, financial contracts, actuarial science, financial regulation, corporate finance, insolvency, risk management, or another field directly relevant to the administration of this section.

(C) Term.—The Director shall serve for a term of 6 years and may be reappointed.

(D) Removal.—The Director may be removed by a majority of the Board. The Board shall publish a written statement of the reasons for removal not later than 7 days after the removal.

(E) Vacancy.—A vacancy in the position of Director shall not affect the authority of the Office. The Board may designate an acting Director until a successor is appointed.

(3) Independence and reporting.—

(A) The Director shall report directly to the Board.

(B) In carrying out the duties of the Office, the Director shall not be subject to the supervision or direction of an individual member, officer, employee, or component of the Federal Reserve System except through an action of the Board or as expressly provided by law.

(C) No officer or employee of the Federal Reserve System may prevent or prohibit the Director from communicating directly with Congress concerning the administration or enforcement of this section.

(4) Duties.—The Office shall—

(A) administer and implement this section;

(B) develop and maintain uniform methodologies and reporting standards for determining the worst financial state, valuing real assets and liabilities, recognizing protections, applying standalone and consolidated requirements, and calculating systemic solvency shortfalls and compliance ratios;

(C) recommend rules to the Board and issue forms, instructions, interpretations, and supervisory guidance consistent with those rules;

(D) receive, analyze, and verify reports, certifications, audits, and remediation plans and conduct examinations, reviews, and investigations authorized under this section;

(E) coordinate appropriate functional regulators and identify and address evasion, concealment, double counting, inconsistent valuation, and transfers of financial exposure; and

(F) maintain the personnel, data systems, technical capacity, and proportional procedures necessary to carry out this section.

(5) Powers.—In carrying out this section, the Office may—

(A) require the production of records, contracts, valuations, models, legal opinions, audit workpapers, data, and other information reasonably necessary to determine compliance;

(B) conduct or direct examinations and require an independent appraisal, audit, legal analysis, actuarial analysis, or other expert review when reasonably necessary;

(C) require a limited liability entity to conduct or submit, or permit the Office to conduct, a supervisory stress evaluation, reclassification of assets or liabilities, or consolidated analysis reasonably necessary to verify compliance, except that no stress evaluation may substitute for the worst financial state determination required under subsection (c);

(D) enter into information sharing, coordinated supervision, joint examination, and enforcement arrangements with appropriate functional regulators and obtain details of Federal personnel on a reimbursable basis;

(E) contract for professional and technical services; and

(F) exercise such other lawful powers as are necessary and appropriate to carry out this section.

(6) Availability of Federal Reserve information.—The Board and each Federal Reserve Bank shall make available to the Office, without reimbursement, any supervisory, regulatory, examination, market, or other data or information that the Director determines is reasonably necessary to carry out this section, subject to applicable confidentiality and information security requirements. The sharing of information under this paragraph shall not waive any privilege or protection from public disclosure.

(7) Personnel.—The Director may appoint and fix the compensation of such officers and employees as are necessary to carry out this section and shall establish qualifications for personnel performing accounting, auditing, actuarial, legal, valuation, data, financial contract, examination, and enforcement functions.

(8) Annual report.—

(A) Not later than April 1 of each year, the Director shall submit to Congress and make available to the public a report on the administration of this section during the preceding calendar year.

(B) Each report shall include—

(i) aggregate trends in systemic solvency, systemic solvency shortfalls, compliance ratios, real assets, liabilities, and financial event exposure;

(ii) the number and general categories of limited liability entities subject to filing, audit, remediation, examination, and enforcement requirements;

(iii) material forms of evasion, concealment, valuation abuse, or unbounded exposure identified by the Office;

(iv) progress toward compliance during the transition period;

(v) coordination activities with appropriate functional regulators;

(vi) an accounting of the expenses, assessments, staffing, and contracts of the Office; and

(vii) recommendations for legislative or administrative action.

(C) A report under this paragraph may not disclose trade secrets, confidential commercial or financial information, personal information, or protected supervisory information concerning a particular limited liability entity.

(9) Funding.—

(A) Startup advance.—During the first 3 fiscal years beginning after the date of enactment of this Act, the Board shall make available to the Office, from amounts otherwise available to the Board and without further appropriation, not more than $500,000,000 in aggregate for the organization, staffing, rulemaking, data infrastructure, and initial operations of the Office.

(B) Annual assessments.—Beginning not later than the second fiscal year beginning after the date of enactment of this Act, the Board shall, on the recommendation of the Director, collect annual assessments from limited liability entities required to file under subsection (g)(2)(A) in amounts sufficient to recover the reasonable expenses of administering this section.

(C) Allocation.—An assessment under subparagraph (B) shall be allocated among assessed entities based on—

(i) total assets;

(ii) the value of liabilities in the worst financial state;

(iii) the amount and complexity of financial event exposure;

(iv) membership in and complexity of an enterprise group;

(v) the reporting, examination, and supervisory resources reasonably attributable to the entity; and

(vi) the ability of the entity to pay the assessment without materially impairing compliance with this section.

(D) Minimum thresholds and exemptions.—The Board may establish minimum thresholds and exempt a class of smaller entities from assessments if the cost of collection would be disproportionate to the amount collected, but no exemption under this subparagraph shall affect substantive compliance, recordkeeping, reporting, examination, or enforcement under this section.

(E) Repayment of startup advance.—Amounts collected under subparagraph (B) shall first be used, in such proportions as the Board determines appropriate, to reimburse the amounts advanced under subparagraph (A). The advance shall be fully reimbursed not later than 7 years after the date of enactment of this Act.

(F) Separate accounting.—Amounts collected under this paragraph shall—

(i) be maintained in a separate account;

(ii) remain available until expended;

(iii) be used only to administer and enforce this section; and

(iv) not be used for monetary policy operations, assistance to a limited liability entity, or another activity of the Board unrelated to this section.

(i) Coordination with functional regulators.—

(1) Administration within existing jurisdiction.—

(A) Federal regulators.—Except as provided in this subsection, each appropriate functional regulator that is a Federal agency shall administer, examine, supervise, and enforce compliance with this section with respect to each limited liability entity and activity within the existing jurisdiction of that regulator.

(B) State regulators.—A State appropriate functional regulator may administer, examine, supervise, or enforce compliance with this section pursuant to State law or a memorandum of understanding under paragraph (8). Nothing in this section shall be construed to require a State or an officer or agency of a State to administer or enforce Federal law.

(2) Uniform Federal standard.—

(A) The substantive requirements, definitions, valuation rules, methodologies, and minimum reporting standards prescribed under this section shall apply uniformly without regard to which appropriate functional regulator supervises a limited liability entity.

(B) An appropriate functional regulator may prescribe additional procedures, reporting requirements, examination standards, or remedial measures that are consistent with and not less protective than this section.

(C) An appropriate functional regulator may not authorize, approve, waive, or tolerate conduct that would cause or increase a systemic solvency shortfall in violation of this section.

(3) Office coordination authority.—The Office shall—

(A) establish uniform supervisory and examination manuals for implementation of this section;

(B) coordinate examinations and information requests involving more than 1 appropriate functional regulator;

(C) provide technical assistance and interpretations to appropriate functional regulators;

(D) identify inconsistent applications of this section and recommend corrective action;

(E) maintain a secure system through which appropriate functional regulators may exchange information necessary to carry out this section; and

(F) convene appropriate functional regulators as necessary to address enterprise groups, cross-market exposures, financial contracts, or transactions that cross jurisdictional boundaries.

(4) Backstop authority.—The Office may directly examine, supervise, investigate, or enforce compliance with this section if—

(A) no other appropriate functional regulator has jurisdiction over the limited liability entity or material activity;

(B) an enterprise group, transaction, or financial exposure crosses the jurisdiction of multiple regulators and no single regulator can effectively address the matter;

(C) an appropriate functional regulator has failed to take timely and effective action after receiving written notice from the Office of a material violation or risk of violation;

(D) the Office reasonably determines that an entity, affiliate, special purpose vehicle, contractual arrangement, or other person is being used to evade, conceal, delay, or obscure compliance; or

(E) immediate action is necessary to prevent the creation or material increase of an unbounded exposure, systemic solvency shortfall, fraudulent transfer, concealment of liabilities, or dissipation of real assets.

(5) Notice before backstop action.—

(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), before exercising authority under paragraph (4)(C), the Office shall—

(i) provide the appropriate functional regulator with written notice describing the apparent violation and the action the Office considers necessary; and

(ii) allow the regulator not fewer than 30 days to take or commit to effective corrective action.

(B) The Office may act without prior notice or before expiration of the period under subparagraph (A)(ii) if delay would materially increase the likelihood of loss, concealment, dissipation of assets, unbounded exposure, or evasion.

(C) The Office shall notify the appropriate functional regulator promptly after taking an action under subparagraph (B).

(6) Lead regulator for enterprise groups.—

(A) If an enterprise group is subject to the jurisdiction of more than 1 appropriate functional regulator, the Office shall designate a lead functional regulator that is a Federal agency or a consenting State agency for purposes of coordinated examination and supervision under this section.

(B) In making a designation under subparagraph (A), the Office shall consider—

(i) the nature and location of the principal activities of the enterprise group;

(ii) the regulator with authority over the parent or principal operating entity;

(iii) the amount and location of financial event exposure;

(iv) the distribution of real assets and liabilities among members of the enterprise group; and

(v) the ability of the regulator to conduct effective consolidated supervision.

(C) Designation of a lead functional regulator shall not eliminate the jurisdiction of another appropriate functional regulator or the backstop authority of the Office.

(7) Information sharing.—

(A) The Office and each appropriate functional regulator shall share information reasonably necessary to administer and enforce this section.

(B) The sharing of information under subparagraph (A) shall not constitute a waiver of any privilege, confidentiality protection, or limitation on public disclosure.

(C) The Office and appropriate functional regulators shall establish safeguards against unauthorized use or disclosure of confidential information.

(D) An appropriate functional regulator may rely on information, examination findings, audit work, or analysis produced by the Office or another appropriate functional regulator if the regulator determines that such reliance is reasonable.

(8) Memoranda of understanding.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this Act, the Office shall enter into memoranda of understanding with appropriate Federal functional regulators and shall offer substantially similar agreements to State functional regulators concerning—

(A) allocation of examination and supervisory responsibilities;

(B) coordinated reporting and data standards;

(C) information sharing and confidentiality;

(D) designation of lead regulators;

(E) referral and coordination of enforcement matters;

(F) avoidance of duplicative examinations and information requests; and

(G) resolution of interpretive and jurisdictional disagreements.

(9) Resolution of inconsistent interpretations.—

(A) The Board, acting through rules prescribed under this section, shall have final authority concerning the interpretation of—

(i) systemic solvency;

(ii) the worst financial state;

(iii) the classification and valuation of real assets and liabilities;

(iv) recognition of offsets, hedges, collateral, netting rights, guarantees, and other protections;

(v) standalone and consolidated compliance; and

(vi) the calculation of systemic solvency shortfalls and compliance ratios.

(B) Nothing in subparagraph (A) shall limit the authority of an appropriate functional regulator to interpret or enforce another law within the jurisdiction of that regulator.

(10) Preservation of State authority.—

(A) Nothing in this section shall preempt or limit a State law, regulation, order, reserve requirement, capital requirement, solvency requirement, insurance requirement, corporate law restriction, or other protection that is consistent with and more stringent than this section.

(B) A State law or regulatory action may not authorize a limited liability entity to engage in conduct prohibited by this section.

(C) Nothing in this section shall displace the authority of a State insurance regulator over insurance contracts, reserves, rates, market conduct, receivership, or insurer solvency, except that the valuation and systemic solvency requirements of this section shall constitute a Federal minimum.

(11) Nonduplication.—The Office and appropriate functional regulators shall, to the maximum extent practicable—

(A) use information already collected under other Federal or State law;

(B) coordinate examinations and information requests;

(C) accept joint or common filings;

(D) avoid imposing inconsistent reporting formats or valuation dates; and

(E) avoid duplicative supervisory or enforcement actions that do not materially improve compliance.

(12) Other authority preserved.—Nothing in this subsection shall limit an authority, duty, remedy, enforcement power, capital standard, reserve requirement, or solvency requirement otherwise available to the Office, the Board, or an appropriate functional regulator under another provision of Federal or State law.

(j) Enforcement and remediation.—

(1) Authority.—

(A) In general.—An enforcing authority may administer, examine, investigate, and enforce compliance with this section with respect to a limited liability entity within the jurisdiction of the enforcing authority.

(B) Existing and additional powers.—In carrying out this subsection, an enforcing authority may—

(i) exercise any examination, investigative, supervisory, administrative, or enforcement authority otherwise available to the enforcing authority;

(ii) require the production of books, records, contracts, financial statements, audit workpapers, valuations, models, legal opinions, data, and other information reasonably necessary to determine compliance;

(iii) issue a subpoena for testimony or documentary evidence, if the enforcing authority is otherwise authorized by Federal or State law to issue a subpoena;

(iv) issue an order requiring compliance, remediation, restitution, correction of records, preservation of assets, or cessation of an unlawful practice;

(v) impose a civil penalty authorized under this subsection; and

(vi) commence a civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction to enforce this section or an order issued under this section.

(2) Determination of noncompliance.—

(A) Written determination.—If an enforcing authority determines that a limited liability entity has violated, is violating, or is reasonably likely to violate this section, the enforcing authority shall issue a written determination that—

(i) identifies the conduct, transaction, condition, calculation, valuation, omission, or exposure giving rise to the determination;

(ii) states the factual and legal basis for the determination;

(iii) identifies any systemic solvency shortfall, unbounded exposure, reporting deficiency, or other material condition requiring correction; and

(iv) specifies the corrective action or further proceeding required.

(B) Opportunity to respond.—Except as provided in paragraph (3), before issuing a final order, the enforcing authority shall provide the limited liability entity with notice and a reasonable opportunity to submit evidence and argument.

(C) No delay from disputed accounting treatment.—A disagreement concerning accounting characterization, regulatory classification, reporting treatment, or corporate form shall not delay enforcement if the economic substance and legal exposure are sufficient to establish noncompliance.

(3) Temporary and emergency orders.—

(A) Authority.—An enforcing authority may issue a temporary order taking immediate effect if the enforcing authority reasonably determines that delay would create a material risk of—

(i) an increase in a systemic solvency shortfall;

(ii) the creation, renewal, concealment, or transfer of an unbounded or indeterminate exposure;

(iii) dissipation, transfer, concealment, encumbrance, or material impairment of a real asset;

(iv) payment of a dividend, redemption, repurchase, affiliate transfer, or other distribution prohibited under this section;

(v) destruction, alteration, concealment, or removal of material records; or

(vi) evasion of this section.

(B) Contents.—A temporary order may prohibit or condition a transaction, preserve or restrict the transfer of an asset, require retention of records, suspend a distribution, or impose another temporary restriction reasonably necessary to prevent the harm described in subparagraph (A).

(C) Review.—A limited liability entity subject to a temporary order may request an expedited hearing. The enforcing authority shall commence such hearing not later than 10 business days after receiving the request unless the entity agrees to a later date.

(D) Duration.—A temporary order shall remain in effect until modified, terminated, or replaced by a final order, except that, unless the limited liability entity consents to a longer period or a court grants an extension for good cause, the order shall expire 60 days after commencement of the hearing under subparagraph (C) if no final order has been issued.

(4) Remediation order.—

(A) Order required.—Upon a final determination of material noncompliance, the enforcing authority shall issue an order requiring the limited liability entity to restore compliance within a specified period.

(B) Required measures.—A remediation order may require the limited liability entity to—

(i) cease issuing, assuming, renewing, extending, guaranteeing, or materially modifying liabilities or financial contracts;

(ii) terminate, novate, cap, restructure, collateralize, or fully offset a financial exposure;

(iii) retain earnings, raise ordinary equity, reduce liabilities, or acquire or preserve real assets;

(iv) suspend discretionary distributions or compensation;

(v) correct a valuation, classification, report, certification, financial statement, or public disclosure;

(vi) revise and implement a remediation plan;

(vii) obtain an independent audit, appraisal, actuarial analysis, legal opinion, valuation, or review;

(viii) establish or improve internal controls, data systems, governance procedures, and risk management systems;

(ix) retain an independent monitor approved by the enforcing authority; and

(x) take such other lawful action as is necessary to restore and maintain compliance.

(C) Terms.—A remediation order shall establish measurable milestones, reporting requirements, responsible officers, and a final compliance date.

(D) No dependence on public assistance.—A remediation order may not depend on public funds, governmental guarantees, emergency lending, regulatory forbearance, or public absorption of losses.

(5) Restrictions during noncompliance.—Until a limited liability entity has corrected a material violation and complied with each applicable remediation order, the entity may not—

(A) take an action prohibited under subsection (b)(2), except as expressly authorized by the enforcing authority as necessary to restore compliance or prevent a greater loss;

(B) make a discretionary distribution of value to an owner, officer, director, affiliate, or holder of an equity interest;

(C) increase the amount of its systemic solvency shortfall;

(D) reduce its compliance ratio; or

(E) transfer a real asset outside the ordinary course of business unless the transfer is approved under the remediation order and the proceeds remain available to satisfy liabilities.

(6) Civil penalties.—

(A) General violation.—A limited liability entity that violates this section, a rule prescribed under this section, or an order issued under this section may be subject to a civil penalty of not more than $100,000 for each violation.

(B) Aggravated violation.—For a violation that is knowing, reckless, fraudulent, concealed, repeated, or undertaken for the purpose or effect of evading this section, the civil penalty may not exceed the greater of—

(i) $1,000,000;

(ii) 3 times the financial gain obtained or loss avoided as a result of the violation;

(iii) 3 times the amount by which the violation created or increased a systemic solvency shortfall; or

(iv) 3 times the greatest reasonably ascertainable amount of the obligation, transaction, assets, or consideration involved in the violation.

(C) Continuing violation.—Each day that a violation continues after the limited liability entity receives written notice of the violation shall constitute a separate violation.

(D) Factors.—In determining the amount of a civil penalty, the enforcing authority shall consider—

(i) the gravity and duration of the violation;

(ii) the amount of financial exposure or systemic solvency shortfall involved;

(iii) the degree of knowledge, recklessness, concealment, or cooperation;

(iv) the financial resources and ability to pay of the person subject to the penalty;

(v) any history of prior violations;

(vi) any loss or risk imposed on creditors, counterparties, employees, consumers, or the public; and

(vii) such other matters as justice may require.

(E) Use of penalties.—A civil penalty collected by a Federal enforcing authority under this paragraph shall be deposited into the general fund of the Treasury.

(7) Individual accountability.—

(A) Prohibited conduct.—An officer, director, manager, responsible officer, auditor, attorney, appraiser, actuary, or other person may not knowingly or recklessly—

(i) cause or participate in a material violation of this section;

(ii) certify, approve, prepare, or submit a materially false or misleading determination, report, valuation, audit, legal opinion, or record required under this section;

(iii) conceal, destroy, alter, falsify, or withhold material information;

(iv) authorize a prohibited distribution, transfer, financial contract, or liability;

(v) obstruct an examination, investigation, audit, or remediation required under this section; or

(vi) aid or abet another person in conduct described in clauses (i) through (v).

(B) Remedies.—A person that violates subparagraph (A) may be subject to—

(i) a civil penalty under paragraph (6);

(ii) restitution or disgorgement;

(iii) removal from the position held with the limited liability entity;

(iv) an order prohibiting the person, for a period not exceeding 10 years, from serving as an officer, director, manager, responsible officer, auditor, or other controlling person of an entity subject to the jurisdiction of the enforcing authority; and

(v) any other remedy available under applicable law.

(C) Professional duties preserved.—Nothing in this paragraph shall limit a professional, fiduciary, ethical, or reporting duty otherwise imposed by law.

(8) Referrals and resolution.—

(A) Criminal and professional referrals.—An enforcing authority shall refer evidence of a possible criminal violation, professional misconduct, fraud, obstruction, or knowing false statement to the Department of Justice, an appropriate licensing authority, or another agency with jurisdiction.

(B) Failure to remediate.—If a limited liability entity fails to restore systemic solvency within the period required by a final remediation order, or if the enforcing authority determines that restoration is no longer reasonably achievable without an orderly insolvency proceeding, the enforcing authority shall take any action within its authority, and make any referral authorized by law, to commence or facilitate conservatorship, receivership, resolution, liquidation, bankruptcy, or another applicable insolvency proceeding.

(C) Applicable proceeding.—A referral under subparagraph (B) shall be made—

(i) for an investment bank, in accordance with section 255;

(ii) for an insured depository institution or credit union, in accordance with applicable Federal or State resolution law;

(iii) for an insurance company, to the appropriate State insurance regulator or receivership authority;

(iv) for a Government corporation, in accordance with the law governing that corporation; and

(v) for another limited liability entity, in accordance with title 11, United States Code, or other applicable insolvency law.

(D) No rescue authority.—Nothing in this paragraph authorizes an enforcing authority to provide or arrange public funds, guarantees, capital support, asset purchases, loss sharing, or other financial assistance to prevent or delay an applicable insolvency proceeding.

(9) Judicial enforcement and review.—

(A) Enforcement.—Upon application by a Federal enforcing authority, a district court of the United States may issue an injunction, order compliance, enforce a subpoena or administrative order, preserve assets or records, appoint a receiver if otherwise authorized by law, or grant such other equitable relief as may be appropriate.

(B) Review.—A final order issued by a Federal enforcing authority shall be subject to judicial review under chapter 7 of title 5, United States Code.

(C) No automatic stay.—The commencement of judicial review shall not automatically stay a temporary order, final order, restriction, or remediation requirement issued under this subsection.

(D) Stay standard.—A court may stay an action described in subparagraph (C) only upon a clear and convincing showing that—

(i) the applicant is likely to prevail on the merits;

(ii) the applicant will suffer irreparable harm absent a stay;

(iii) the stay will not materially increase a systemic solvency shortfall, unbounded exposure, dissipation of real assets, or risk of evasion; and

(iv) the public interest favors the stay.

(10) No discretionary forbearance based on consequences.—An enforcing authority may not waive, suspend, delay, or decline enforcement of a material requirement of this section on the basis that enforcement may—

(A) reduce the market value of a financial asset;

(B) impose losses on an owner, creditor, counterparty, or holder of a financial instrument;

(C) adversely affect a particular market or institution;

(D) reveal that an entity is large, interconnected, systemically important, or difficult to resolve; or

(E) create political, economic, or administrative inconvenience.

(k) Anti-evasion.—

(1) General rule.—No person may, directly or indirectly, use an entity, transaction, instrument, relationship, or course of conduct for the purpose or effect of evading, concealing, delaying, or materially reducing compliance with this section.

(2) Substance over form.—Compliance with this section shall be determined according to economic substance, legal exposure, control, allocation of risk, and the person that ultimately bears the obligation of performance or risk of loss, without regard to form, label, accounting treatment, jurisdiction, balance sheet presentation, or the use of multiple persons or transactions.

(3) Corrective treatment.—If an enforcing authority determines that an arrangement violates this subsection, the enforcing authority may—

(A) disregard, recharacterize, or aggregate related persons, transactions, assets, liabilities, or financial contracts;

(B) attribute an asset, liability, obligation, guarantee, or financial exposure to the person that bears the economic benefit, risk of loss, or obligation of performance;

(C) require consolidation or disallow a valuation, offset, hedge, collateral position, netting right, guarantee, or other protection; and

(D) restate a systemic solvency shortfall or compliance ratio and order such corrective treatment as is necessary to apply this section according to economic substance.

(4) Records.—A limited liability entity shall maintain and, upon request, provide records sufficient to establish the economic substance, lawful business purpose, legal enforceability, funding, risk allocation, and systemic solvency treatment of each material arrangement.

(5) Lawful transactions preserved.—Nothing in this subsection prohibits a transaction having independent economic substance and a bona fide commercial purpose merely because the transaction affects systemic solvency, if the transaction is fully and accurately accounted for and does not violate another provision of this section.

(l) Rulemaking, implementation, and construction.—

(1) Temporary guidance.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Office shall publish temporary guidance addressing the initial identification of limited liability entities, liabilities, real assets, financial event exposures, unbounded exposures, enterprise groups, and reporting obligations.

(2) Interim and final rules.—

(A) Interim final rules.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Board, acting on the recommendation of the Director, shall issue interim final rules sufficient to implement this section, including the transition schedule required under subsection (f)(6).

(B) Effect.—The interim final rules shall take effect upon publication in the Federal Register, shall have the force and effect of law, and may be issued without regard to section 553 of title 5, United States Code.

(C) Public comment and final rules.—The Board shall provide a public comment period of not less than 90 days after publication of the interim final rules and shall issue final rules not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act.

(D) Consultation.—Before prescribing a rule of general applicability, the Board and the Office shall consult with appropriate functional regulators, accountants, auditors, actuaries, valuation professionals, representatives of nonfinancial businesses, labor organizations, consumer and public interest organizations, and other persons with relevant expertise.

(3) Failure to issue rules.—

(A) No delay.—A failure to issue guidance or rules by a deadline under this subsection shall not delay a prohibition, duty, or authority expressly applicable before issuance of the guidance or rules.

(B) New entities.—Before applicable rules take effect, a limited liability entity described in subsection (f)(1) shall determine and maintain systemic solvency using reasonable, documented, and consistently applied methods that conform as closely as practicable to the text and purposes of this section.

(C) Enforcement before rules.—The absence of a rule may not be asserted as a defense to—

(i) failure of a new entity to comply with subsection (f)(1);

(ii) the issuance, assumption, renewal, extension, or material modification of an unbounded or indeterminate exposure prohibited under subsection (f)(8);

(iii) failure to preserve records required under subsection (f)(4)(F); or

(iv) a violation of subsection (k).

(4) Reporting, audits, and existing obligations.—

(A) Reporting and audit requirements.—A reporting, filing, or independent audit requirement under subsection (g) shall first apply on the date specified in the applicable interim final or final rule, except that such date may not be later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act.

(B) Existing obligations.—Except as provided in subsection (f), this section does not require an existing liability or financial contract to be terminated solely because the liability or contract existed before the date of enactment of this Act.

(5) Relation to other law.—

(A) Federal minimum.—This section establishes a Federal minimum and shall not be construed to limit a capital, reserve, solvency, fiduciary, disclosure, corporate governance, insurance, securities, banking, consumer protection, or other requirement imposed under another provision of Federal or State law.

(B) Stricter protections preserved.—A person shall comply with any other applicable law that provides stricter protection against insolvency, leverage, financial exposure, concealment, asset dissipation, or risk transfer.

(C) Insolvency law preserved.—Except as expressly provided in this section, nothing in this section shall alter the priority, avoidance, setoff, netting, receivership, conservatorship, resolution, liquidation, or bankruptcy rules otherwise applicable to a limited liability entity.

(6) Protection of innocent contracting parties.—

(A) No automatic invalidation.—Except as expressly provided by this section or another provision of law, a violation of this section shall not automatically render a financial contract or other agreement void or unenforceable against a person that—

(i) did not know and had no reasonable cause to know of the violation; and

(ii) did not cause, participate in, or materially benefit from the violation.

(B) Enforcement preserved.—Subparagraph (A) shall not limit—

(i) an order terminating, capping, restructuring, transferring, or otherwise remediating a financial exposure;

(ii) avoidance, restitution, disgorgement, rescission, or other relief available under applicable law;

(iii) enforcement against a person that caused, participated in, knew of, or knowingly benefited from the violation; or

(iv) the authority to disregard or recharacterize an arrangement under subsection (k).

(7) No governmental guarantee or public loss absorption.—

(A) No governmental guarantee.—Compliance with this section, approval of a remediation plan, acceptance of a filing, completion of an audit, or action or inaction by an enforcing authority shall not constitute—

(i) a determination that a limited liability entity or financial instrument is safe or free from risk;

(ii) an obligation or guarantee of the United States, a State, an Indian Tribe, or any agency or instrumentality thereof;

(iii) a commitment to provide liquidity, capital, insurance, loss absorption, or financial assistance; or

(iv) a defense to a claim under another provision of law.

(B) No rescue authority.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize—

(i) an appropriation, expenditure, loan, guarantee, asset purchase, capital contribution, insurance payment, or other use of public funds to satisfy or support a liability of a limited liability entity;

(ii) the creation or issuance of Treasury Dollar Bills for the benefit of a limited liability entity;

(iii) Federal Reserve credit, emergency lending, or monetary support for the purpose of preventing losses on a financial instrument; or

(iv) regulatory forbearance based on the anticipated consequences of enforcing this section.

(1) Prohibition.—It shall be unlawful for any officer, employee, agency, or instrumentality of the United States to provide public funds, credit facilities, capital contributions, guarantees, asset purchases, loss-sharing arrangements, or other financial assistance for the purpose of preventing, delaying, or mitigating losses borne by an investment bank or a holder of an investment instrument.

(2) No exception based on systemic importance.—No investment bank shall be deemed too big to fail, too interconnected to fail, or too strategic to fail.

(3) Exceptions.—Paragraph (1) does not prohibit—

(A) payment at fair market value for goods or services procured for a bona fide public purpose; or

(B) a generally applicable fiscal measure that is not directed to the rescue or support of a particular investment bank or investment instrument.

(c) Applicability and relationship to other law.—

(1) Exclusive applicability.—Notwithstanding any other provision of Federal or State law, this section shall exclusively govern the resolution of an investment bank and the administration of its receivership estate.

(2) Separate entities.—An affiliate of an investment bank shall not be placed into resolution under this section solely because of common ownership or control, unless the affiliate independently satisfies the definition of an investment bank and a trigger under subsection (d).

(3) Relationship to systemic solvency rule.—

(A) Before appointment of the receiver, section 254 shall govern systemic solvency supervision, examination, remediation, and enforcement with respect to an investment bank.

(B) Upon appointment of the receiver, this section shall govern administration and resolution of the investment bank, except that records, valuations, findings, orders, and other information developed under section 254 may be used in the resolution.

(C) Appointment of the receiver shall not terminate or limit an investigation, enforcement action, or claim against an officer, director, controlling person, affiliate, auditor, or other person arising from conduct occurring before appointment.

(d) Resolution triggers and referral.—

(1) Mandatory appointment.—The Board shall appoint a receiver for an investment bank upon the written recommendation of the Director and a finding that—

(A) the investment bank is not systemically solvent under section 254 and has failed to restore compliance within the period required by a final remediation order;

(B) the Office has determined under section 254(j)(8)(B) that restoration of systemic solvency is no longer reasonably achievable outside an orderly resolution proceeding; or

(C) the investment bank has failed to satisfy a material obligation when due and cannot promptly cure the failure without violating section 254 or receiving assistance prohibited under subsection (b).

(2) Referral by Federal financial regulator.—

(A) An appropriate Federal financial regulator may refer an investment bank to the Office upon identifying facts indicating that a trigger under paragraph (1) has occurred or is imminent.

(B) The Office shall promptly evaluate a referral and submit to the Board either—

(i) a recommendation for appointment of a receiver; or

(ii) a written determination explaining why appointment is not warranted.

(3) Emergency appointment.—

(A) The Board may appoint a receiver before completion of otherwise applicable notice or remediation procedures if the Director certifies in writing that—

(i) a trigger under paragraph (1) has occurred or is substantially certain to occur; and

(ii) delay would materially increase losses, permit dissipation or concealment of assets, impair payment obligations, or frustrate an orderly resolution.

(B) The Board shall issue final written findings supporting an appointment under subparagraph (A) not later than 5 business days after the appointment.

(4) Insufficient grounds.—A decline in market value, the systemic importance of an investment bank, or anticipated adverse market consequences shall not, standing alone, constitute a trigger for resolution under this subsection.

(e) Appointment and authority of receiver.—

(1) Appointment.—Upon a finding under subsection (d), the Board shall appoint the Office, acting through the Director, as receiver for the investment bank.

(2) Succession.—Upon appointment, the receiver shall succeed by operation of law to all rights, titles, powers, and privileges of the investment bank and of its officers, directors, managers, and equity holders with respect to the investment bank and its property.

(3) Exclusive resolution authority.—

(A) The receiver shall have exclusive authority to administer and resolve the investment bank and its receivership estate.

(B) After appointment of the receiver, no bankruptcy, conservatorship, receivership, liquidation, or other insolvency proceeding concerning the investment bank may be commenced or continued under Federal or State law except as authorized by this section.

(C) An appropriate Federal financial regulator may continue to exercise authority over violations of law, responsible persons, and entities outside the receivership estate, but may not direct or control administration of the receivership.

(4) General powers.—The receiver may—

(A) take possession and control of the property, books, records, contracts, systems, and operations of the investment bank;

(B) preserve, operate, suspend, terminate, transfer, or sell an activity, business line, asset, or liability as necessary to carry out this section;

(C) collect obligations owed to the investment bank and enforce or repudiate contracts, subject to this section and other applicable limitations of law;

(D) determine claims against the receivership estate and distribute proceeds in accordance with this section;

(E) exercise any right or power of the investment bank and appoint such agents and professionals as are reasonably necessary to administer the receivership; and

(F) sue and be sued in the name of the receiver.

(5) Administrative expenses and limitations.—

(A) Appropriation and use.—There is appropriated to the Board, out of amounts in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, $500,000,000, to remain available until expended, for use by the Office to pay reasonable and necessary expenses of administering receiverships under this section. Use of amounts appropriated under this subparagraph shall not constitute financial assistance prohibited under subsection (b). An amount paid under this subparagraph shall be an administrative expense of the receivership estate and shall be reimbursed from the estate to the extent assets are available. An amount reimbursed under this subparagraph shall be deposited into the general fund of the Treasury.

(B) Funds may not be used under subparagraph (A) to satisfy a preappointment obligation of the investment bank, provide capital or liquidity to the investment bank, or preserve the value of an investment instrument.

(C) Except for an expenditure authorized under subparagraph (A), a liability incurred by the receiver in administering the receivership shall be payable solely from the receivership estate and shall not constitute a debt or obligation of the United States.

(f) Immediate actions and continuation of essential operations.—

(1) Immediate actions.—Upon appointment, the receiver shall—

(A) take control of the investment bank and suspend the authority of its officers, directors, managers, and equity holders;

(B) prohibit dividends, distributions, redemptions, repurchases, transfers to affiliates, and other discretionary payments;

(C) secure and preserve the property, books, records, data, systems, and communications of the investment bank; and

(D) prevent the transfer, concealment, destruction, dissipation, or material impairment of property of the receivership estate.

(2) Management and personnel.—

(A) The receiver may remove or retain an officer, employee, contractor, or other agent as necessary to preserve value, maintain essential operations, or complete the resolution.

(B) A person retained under subparagraph (A) shall act under the direction of the receiver and shall have no authority except as delegated by the receiver.

(3) Essential operations.—The receiver may continue an operation or perform an obligation only to the extent reasonably necessary to—

(A) preserve or realize the value of property;

(B) protect customer or custodial property;

(C) maintain critical records, systems, security, or settlement functions;

(D) complete an orderly transfer or sale; or

(E) prevent a greater loss to the receivership estate.

(4) No continuation for rescue.—An operation may not be continued to rescue or perpetuate the investment bank, protect the value of an investment instrument, or delay loss recognition. This paragraph does not prohibit temporary continuation solely to preserve value for a prompt sale or transfer under subsection (j).

(g) Customer, custodial, and other nonestate property.—

(1) Exclusion from estate.—Property in the possession or control of the investment bank that is beneficially owned by another person shall not constitute property of the receivership estate, including—

(A) customer owned or custodial property;

(B) property held in trust, agency, or fiduciary capacity;

(C) collateral required by law or contract to be held in segregation;

(D) Treasury Dollar Bills or other property held for the account of another person; and

(E) property of a legally separate fund or entity that is not beneficially owned by the investment bank.

(2) Identification and segregation.—The receiver shall promptly identify, secure, and segregate property described in paragraph (1) from property of the receivership estate.

(3) Return or transfer.—Subject to verification of ownership and any valid lien or other legally enforceable interest, the receiver shall return property described in paragraph (1) to its owner or transfer the property to a qualified custodian or successor designated by the owner.

(4) Shortfall or dispute.—

(A) If property claimed under this subsection is missing, commingled, deficient, or subject to a material ownership dispute, the receiver shall determine the claimant's interest using available books, records, transaction data, and other reliable evidence.

(B) A verified claim for property that cannot be specifically returned shall be allowed under subsection (i) as a customer property deficiency claim entitled to priority under subsection (l)(1)(C).

(5) No use for estate obligations.—The receiver may not sell, pledge, transfer, or otherwise use property excluded under paragraph (1) to satisfy an obligation of the investment bank or the receivership estate.

(h) Temporary stay.—

(1) Automatic stay.—Upon appointment of the receiver, and until 5 p.m. eastern time on the second business day after the appointment, no person may, without the consent of the receiver—

(A) terminate, accelerate, or enforce a contract solely because of the appointment of the receiver or the financial condition of the investment bank;

(B) foreclose on, seize, or exercise control over property of the receivership estate;

(C) exercise a right of setoff or netting against the investment bank; or

(D) commence or continue an action to collect, recover, or enforce a claim against the investment bank or its property.

(2) Exclusions.—Paragraph (1) shall not—

(A) prevent the return or transfer of property excluded from the receivership estate under subsection (g);

(B) stay a criminal, regulatory, or enforcement action against a person other than the investment bank or the receivership estate; or

(C) prohibit an action authorized by the receiver.

(3) Limited extension.—A court of competent jurisdiction may extend the stay for not more than 5 additional business days upon a showing by the receiver that the extension is necessary to prevent material loss, preserve property, or complete an imminent transfer and will not provide financial support prohibited under subsection (b).

(4) Actions after expiration.—Except as otherwise provided by this section, an action prohibited under paragraph (1) may be taken upon expiration of the stay.

(i) Claims determination and asset valuation.—

(1) Notice and submission of claims.—The receiver shall publish notice of the receivership and establish a reasonable period and procedure for the submission of claims against the receivership estate.

(2) Determination of claims.—

(A) The receiver shall allow or disallow each claim according to applicable law as of the date of appointment.

(B) A contingent, unmatured, or unliquidated claim may be estimated at the amount reasonably necessary to permit an orderly distribution.

(C) Allowance of a claim under this paragraph shall not determine the priority of the claim under subsection (l).

(3) Asset valuation.—The receiver shall value property of the receivership estate using a commercially reasonable method appropriate to its disposition, taking into account current market conditions, enforceable contractual rights, disposition costs, and the value reasonably obtainable through a competitive sale.

(4) Use of section 254 information.—A valuation, classification, report, audit, finding, order, or other record developed under section 254 may be relied upon by the receiver as evidence but shall not conclusively bind the receiver in determining ownership, claims, asset value, or recoveries in resolution.

(5) Independent review.—The receiver may obtain an independent appraisal, audit, legal opinion, or other expert review when reasonably necessary to resolve a material valuation, ownership, or claims issue.

(6) Records of determination.—The receiver shall maintain a written record of each material claims and valuation determination and the basis for that determination.

(j) Competitive sales and auctions.—

(1) Initiation.—Not later than 72 hours after appointment, the receiver shall initiate one or more public auctions or other open competitive processes for the sale of all or substantially all property of the receivership estate.

(2) Manner of disposition.—The receiver may sell the investment bank business as a whole or divide the property into business lines, asset pools, contracts, or other commercially reasonable units if the receiver determines that separate dispositions are likely to increase aggregate recovery or facilitate an orderly resolution.

(3) Timing.—

(A) The receiver shall complete each disposition as expeditiously as practicable and presumptively not later than 30 days after appointment.

(B) The receiver may extend the period under subparagraph (A) to a date not later than 60 days after appointment upon a written public determination that the extension is reasonably necessary to increase aggregate recovery, resolve a material ownership or claims issue, or complete an imminent transfer.

(C) A court of competent jurisdiction may authorize a further extension, in periods not exceeding 30 days, upon clear and convincing evidence that—

(i) the receiver is proceeding diligently;

(ii) the extension is necessary to prevent a material reduction in net recovery or resolve a material ownership or claims issue; and

(iii) the extension will not result in financial assistance prohibited under subsection (b).

(4) Competitive procedures.—The receiver shall provide reasonable notice, equal access to material information, and a fair opportunity to submit bids under uniform procedures, taking into account the need for prompt resolution and protection of confidential information.

(5) Selection of bids.—The receiver shall accept the qualified bid or combination of qualified bids that the receiver determines will produce the greatest aggregate recovery, after accounting for execution risk, required conditions, disposition costs, and compliance with this section.

(6) Public disclosure.—Promptly after consummation of a disposition, the receiver shall publish the identity of the purchaser, the property transferred, the consideration received, and the material terms of the transaction.

(7) Prohibited public support.—Neither the Board, a Federal Reserve Bank, the Department of the Treasury, nor any other Federal entity may—

(A) submit or finance a bid;

(B) guarantee, backstop, subsidize, or insure a bidder or disposition;

(C) purchase property for the purpose of supporting the sale price; or

(D) assume a loss arising from a disposition under this subsection.

(k) Bidder eligibility and compliance with section 256.—

(1) Uniform criteria.—The receiver shall establish uniform, objective eligibility criteria concerning financial capacity, operational capability, legal eligibility, and ability to consummate the proposed transaction without public financial assistance.

(2) Discrete assets.—Subject to paragraph (1), any person may bid on a discrete asset or asset pool that does not by itself constitute an investment bank business or confer control over such a business.

(3) Investment bank business.—The receiver may not consummate a sale or transfer of an investment bank business, a controlling interest in an investment bank, or substantially all operating assets necessary to conduct capital markets intermediation unless—

(A) the purchaser is authorized to engage in the acquired activity;

(B) the acquisition complies with section 256; and

(C) the acquisition does not create, continue, or facilitate prohibited common ownership, control, affiliation, or engagement in more than 1 financial services vertical.

(4) Indirect acquisitions.—Paragraph (3) applies to an acquisition made directly or indirectly, through an affiliate, intermediary, common-control arrangement, contractual relationship, or series of related transactions.

(5) Rejection of bid.—The receiver shall reject a bid that fails to satisfy this subsection or is conditioned on financial assistance prohibited under subsection (b).

(l) Distribution of property and proceeds.—

(1) Order of distribution.—After compliance with subsection (g), property and proceeds of the receivership estate shall be distributed in the following order:

(A) reasonable and necessary expenses incurred in administering the receivership, payable from unencumbered property;

(B) valid secured claims, to the extent of the value of the collateral remaining after payment of expenses described in paragraph (2)(A);

(C) verified customer property deficiency claims determined under subsection (g)(4);

(D) unpaid wages, salaries, and employee-benefit contributions earned before appointment;

(E) tax claims and other claims entitled to priority under Federal law;

(F) general unsecured claims other than claims arising from investment instruments;

(G) senior investment instruments;

(H) subordinated investment instruments; and

(I) any remaining value to equity holders.

(2) Secured claims.—

(A) Reasonable and necessary expenses incurred to preserve or dispose of collateral shall be paid from the proceeds of that collateral before payment of the secured claim.

(B) A secured claim shall be paid from the remaining value of the collateral securing the claim.

(C) The portion of a secured claim exceeding the remaining value of the collateral shall be treated as an unsecured claim in the class otherwise applicable to the obligation.

(3) Equal treatment.—Claims within the same class shall be paid pro rata unless a valid contractual subordination provision requires a lower priority.

(4) Limitation on recovery.—No claimant may receive more than the allowed amount of the claim, and no investment instrument shall be redeemed or satisfied at par unless property of the receivership estate is sufficient to pay all claims of equal or higher priority in full.

(5) Losses borne by investors.—Losses allocated to an investment instrument or equity interest may not be imposed on a depositor, a holder of an account or other liability payable on demand at par and usable to make payments or transfers, a holder of Treasury Dollar Bills, the Federal Reserve System, the Department of the Treasury, or the public fisc.

(m) Management and individual accountability.—

(1) Preservation of claims.—The receiver shall preserve, investigate, and, when appropriate, pursue any claim of the investment bank or receivership estate against an officer, director, controlling person, auditor, contractor, or other responsible person whose act or omission contributed to a loss, violation of law, dissipation of assets, false valuation, or failure of the investment bank.

(2) Available remedies.—In pursuing a claim under paragraph (1), the receiver may seek damages, restitution, disgorgement, avoidance of a fraudulent or preferential transfer, recovery of compensation or distributions, or other relief otherwise available under law.

(3) No estate funded indemnification.—The receiver may not use property of the receivership estate to indemnify or reimburse a person for liability arising from fraud, knowing misconduct, gross negligence, breach of fiduciary duty, or a violation of this section or section 254.

(4) Relationship to other enforcement.—This subsection does not limit any civil, administrative, or criminal investigation, action, penalty, or remedy available under section 254 or any other provision of law.

(n) Judicial review.—

(1) Expedited review.—A person adversely affected by the appointment of the receiver, an authorization of a sale or transfer that determines or materially impairs the legal interest of the person, or a final action of the receiver may, not later than 30 days after the appointment, authorization, or final action, as applicable, seek judicial review in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia or the district in which the investment bank had its principal place of business. The court shall consider the action on an expedited basis.

(2) No automatic stay.—The commencement of an action under paragraph (1) shall not stay, enjoin, or delay the appointment of the receiver, administration of the receivership, or a sale or transfer under this section.

(3) Temporary relief.—A court may grant temporary relief before consummation of a sale or transfer only upon clear and convincing evidence that—

(A) the challenged action is plainly contrary to this section;

(B) the applicant is likely to suffer irreparable harm that cannot be remedied by monetary relief; and

(C) the relief will not materially impair an orderly resolution or increase losses to the receivership estate.

(4) Finality of completed transactions.—A sale or transfer consummated in good faith under this section may not be stayed, rescinded, reversed, or otherwise unwound by a court.

(5) Monetary relief.—

(A) If a court determines that the Board, the Office, or the receiver acted unlawfully, the United States waives sovereign immunity with respect to a claim under this paragraph, and the court may award monetary relief for actual loss directly caused by the unlawful action.

(B) A final judgment under subparagraph (A) shall be paid under section 1304 of title 31, United States Code, and not from the receivership estate or by a purchaser.

(C) A court may not award relief that protects an investment instrument from a loss properly allocated under this section or requires the rescue, recapitalization, or continued operation of the investment bank.

(o) Rulemaking and systemwide stabilization.—

(1) Rulemaking.—

(A) In general.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Board, in consultation with the Director and appropriate Federal financial regulators, shall issue rules necessary to carry out this section, including rules governing—

(i) implementing the temporary stay under subsection (h);

(iii) preserving legally enforceable netting, setoff, collateral, and credit-enhancement rights except to the extent expressly limited by this section;

(iv) requiring that, with respect to a person that is a party to 1 or more qualified financial contracts with the investment bank, all qualified financial contracts between the person or any affiliate of the person and the investment bank, together with all claims, property, collateral, security arrangements, and credit enhancements related to those contracts, be transferred to the same transferee, or that none be transferred, and prohibiting selective enforcement or repudiation within an integrated master agreement or netting set; and

(iii) protection of property located in the United States and claims arising under United States law;

(iv) prevention of duplicative proceedings, inconsistent transfers, double recovery, or evasion of this section; and

(v) standards prohibiting the transfer of a qualified financial contract, netting agreement, collateral arrangement, security arrangement, credit enhancement, or related property to a foreign person unless the receiver determines that the applicable contractual, netting, collateral, security, and credit-enhancement rights will remain enforceable to substantially the same extent as under this section.

(D) Limitations.—A rule, agreement, recognition, transfer, or cooperative arrangement under this paragraph may not—

(i) authorize financial assistance prohibited under subsection (b);

(ii) subordinate customer or custodial property protected under subsection (g);

(iii) transfer a loss to the United States, the Federal Reserve System, the Department of the Treasury, a holder of Treasury Dollar Bills, or the public fisc;

(iv) protect an investment instrument from a loss otherwise allocable under this section; or

(v) authorize an ownership arrangement, affiliation, or acquisition prohibited under section 256.

(2) Self-executing authority.—A failure to issue a rule under paragraph (1) shall not delay or prevent the appointment of a receiver or the exercise of authority expressly granted by this section when a trigger under subsection (d) has occurred.

(3) Systemwide stabilization.—In the event of systemwide financial stress, stabilization shall be accomplished through generally applicable fiscal measures authorized by law, including direct public spending or per capita distributions, and not through financial assistance directed to an individual investment bank, purchaser, creditor, equity holder, or investment instrument.

(4) Construction.—Nothing in this section authorizes an activity, acquisition, ownership arrangement, or affiliation prohibited under section 256.

(B) Application of chapter 7.—Chapter 7 of title 5, United States Code, shall apply to a petition under subparagraph (A). For purposes of such chapter—

(C) Expedited consideration.—The court shall expedite consideration of a petition filed under subparagraph (A) to the greatest extent practicable.

(B) Antitrust review.—The Commission and the Antitrust Division shall review the effect on competition, concentration, independent market access, conflicts of interest, and the public interest—

(i) of the divestiture; and

(ii) of the subsequent acquisition of the divested business, assets, entities, operations, licenses, contracts, or interests by the acquiring person.

(D) Acquiring person.—

(i) A divestiture plan that identifies a proposed acquiring person may be approved only if the following requirements are satisfied—

(II) the proposed acquisition would not materially harm competition, increase concentration, recreate integrated control across financial services verticals, or otherwise undermine the purposes of this section;

(III) each resulting enterprise will be financially viable, operationally independent, and adequately protect depositors, borrowers, customers, clients, investors, and policyholders; and

(IV) each statutory reporting, waiting period, licensing, supervisory, or approval requirement applicable to the proposed acquisition will be satisfied before consummation.

(ii) A divestiture plan may be submitted and reviewed without identifying a proposed acquiring person, but no sale, transfer, assignment, or other disposition to an acquiring person may be consummated if the lead financial regulator, the Commission, or the Antitrust Division disapproves in writing.

(E) Notice of decision.—Not later than the end of the review period, the lead financial regulator shall notify the person in writing—

(i) whether the plan is approved, approved with conditions, or disapproved; and

(ii) the reasons for any disapproval or conditions.

(F) Approval standard.—A divestiture plan shall be treated as approved only if, before the end of the review period, the lead financial regulator has approved the plan in writing, whether unconditionally or subject to conditions accepted in writing by the person submitting the plan, and neither the Commission nor the Antitrust Division has disapproved the plan in writing.

(3) Revised plan following disapproval.—If a plan is disapproved under paragraph (2), the person shall submit a revised divestiture plan not later than 60 days after receipt of the disapproval notice.

(A) Review deadline.—Not later than 150 days after receipt of a revised plan, but in no case later than May 1, 2028, the reviewing agencies shall review the revised plan under the procedures set forth in paragraph (2).

(4) No tolling.—No submission, resubmission, agency review, negotiation, request for additional information, waiting period, court proceeding, or other matter shall toll or extend any deadline under this section.

(5) Consequences of noncompliance.—A person required to divest under subsection (c) shall be subject to subsection (e)(3), subsection (e)(4), or both, if such person fails to—

(A) submit a divestiture plan under paragraph (1);

(E) conclude the divestiture required by subsection (c).

(6) Blocking of actions.—The lead financial regulator, the Commission, and the Antitrust Division, jointly or separately, may bring a civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction to block any action that would materially increase financial risk, harm competition, recreate integrated control across financial services verticals, or otherwise undermine the purposes of this section.

(e) Enforcement.—

(1) Civil enforcement.—When the Commission, the Antitrust Division, a lead financial regulator, an appropriate Federal financial regulator, or an attorney general of a State has reason to believe that a person is in violation of this section or a rule promulgated under this section, such agency or attorney general may bring a civil action in an appropriate district court of the United States.

(2) Injunctive and equitable relief.—In any action described in paragraph (1), the applicable court, on a finding that a person is in violation of this section or a rule promulgated under this section, shall issue an order requiring such person—

(A) to cease and desist from such violation and, if applicable, divest such interests as are necessary to come into compliance with this section; and

(B) to pay an amount equal to the profits derived from any business, asset, operation, or interest subject to divestiture during the period of the violation.

(3) Penalties.—

(A) Written determination and transfer.—If a person knowingly and willfully fails to comply with a milestone specified under subsection (b)(3)(D), the lead financial regulator, an appropriate Federal financial regulator with primary jurisdiction over the missed milestone, or the Commission and the Antitrust Division acting jointly shall issue a written determination identifying the missed milestone, the month for which escrow is required, the amount required to be transferred, and the method used to calculate such amount. Beginning not later than 15 days after receipt of such written determination, the person shall transfer into escrow on a monthly basis 10 percent of the profits of the person, to be—

(i) returned to the person if divestiture occurs by the deadline under subsection (c); or

(i) Not later than 15 days after the end of each month for which a transfer is required, the person shall submit to the lead financial regulator, the Chair of the Commission, and the Antitrust Division a certification, signed by the chief executive officer and chief financial officer, attesting to the calculation of profits and gross revenues for such month and the amount transferred.

(ii) Not later than 120 days after the end of each fiscal year, the person shall submit a reconciliation based on audited financial statements and shall pay any underpayment, together with interest on the underpayment from the date the underpayment was required to be transferred into escrow, at the underpayment rate determined under section 6621(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and compounded daily under section 6622(a) of such Code, or receive a return of any overpayment, as applicable.

(C) Judicial review.—A person subject to a transfer requirement under subparagraph (A) may, not later than 30 days after notice of such requirement, petition for review in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. The filing of a petition for review shall not stay any obligation to transfer amounts into escrow unless the court orders otherwise.

(4) Trustee.—The lead financial regulator, the Commission, or the Antitrust Division may apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a divestiture trustee.

(A) Authority.—The divestiture trustee shall have the authority, at the expense of the person required to divest, to take such actions as are necessary to effectuate the divestiture required under this section, including selling, transferring, assigning, or otherwise disposing of the business, assets, entities, operations, licenses, contracts, or interests required to be divested.

(B) Cooperation.—The person required to divest shall cooperate fully with the divestiture trustee and shall take no action to interfere with, delay, or impede the divestiture.

(C) Approval.—Any proposed sale by the divestiture trustee shall be subject to approval under subsection (d).

(D) Duty of trustee.—The divestiture trustee shall act in the interest of effectuating prompt compliance with this section, preserving financial stability and operational continuity, and restoring competition, and shall not be required to maximize the value received by the person required to divest.

(5) Deposit.—Any amount paid under paragraph (2)(B) shall be deposited into the general fund of the Treasury.

(6) Other relief.—In addition to any relief obtained under paragraph (1) or (2), the court may grant any other equitable relief necessary to redress and prevent recurrence of the violation.

(f) Anti-circumvention.—It shall be unlawful for any person to evade or attempt to evade this section, including by entering into an agreement or contract, engaging in a transaction, structuring an entity, sharing capital, liquidity, guarantees, personnel, data, systems, or risk, or recreating through contractual means the common ownership, control, conflicts of interest, or financial integration prohibited under subsection (b).

(g) Rulemaking authority.—The Council, the Commission, and the Antitrust Division shall, in consultation with the appropriate Federal financial regulators and appropriate State insurance regulators, jointly promulgate regulations to carry out this section.

(h) Reports required.—The Chairperson of the Council, the Chair of the Commission, and the Antitrust Division shall submit to the appropriate congressional committees quarterly reports on compliance with this section, including the status of any divestitures required under this section.

Subtitle F—Toward a Uniform Bankruptcy Code

SEC. 261. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) Article I, Section 8, Clause 4 of the Constitution of the United States directs Congress to establish uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States.

(2) The requirement of uniformity in bankruptcy law reflects a Constitutional judgment that relief from debt and the orderly resolution of insolvency must not vary arbitrarily based on creditor power, debtor status, or financial sophistication.

(3) Bankruptcy law has historically served two complementary purposes: providing a fresh start for honest but unfortunate debtors, and ensuring the fair and orderly reorganization or liquidation of distressed enterprises for the benefit of all stakeholders.

(4) Over time, amendments to the Bankruptcy Code and changes in bankruptcy practice have produced nonuniform outcomes in which similarly situated debtors are treated differently based on the type of debt incurred, the identity of creditors, or the procedural posture of a case.

(5) Certain categories of educational debt have been rendered effectively nondischargeable absent a showing of undue hardship, creating a deviation from uniform bankruptcy principles and imposing long-term financial burdens on individuals regardless of good faith efforts to repay.

(6) Amendments enacted in 2005 to chapter 7 of title 11, United States Code, replaced discretionary judicial standards with mechanical presumptions of abuse, shifted burdens onto individual debtors, and eliminated the historical presumption in favor of granting relief, thereby impairing the uniform availability of a fresh start.

(7) At the same time, sophisticated financial actors have increasingly employed chapter 11 procedures, including expedited asset sales under section 363 of title 11, United States Code, to retain control of distressed enterprises while shedding obligations to workers, retirees, and unsecured creditors.

(8) The use of insider transactions, credit bidding, and expedited sales in chapter 11 cases has, in some instances, undermined confidence in the fairness and integrity of the bankruptcy system and produced outcomes inconsistent with equitable treatment.

(9) Congress has a continuing responsibility to ensure that bankruptcy law operates in a uniform, fair, and transparent manner, consistent with Constitutional authority, and that neither individual debtors nor institutional actors are subject to special rules that distort outcomes or evade accountability.

SEC. 262. ADDRESSING STUDENT LOANS.

(a) Discharge of educational debt permitted.—Section 523(a) of title 11, United States Code, is amended by striking paragraph (8).

(b) Repayment by certain institutions.—Section 524 of title 11, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(n) (1) In this subsection:

"(A) The term 'cohort repayment rate', with respect to a covered institution of higher education or a category of student borrowers at such institution, means the percentage of student borrowers in the applicable cohort who are making at least some progress paying down their student loans within 3 years of entering repayment.

"(B) The term 'covered institution of higher education' means an institution of higher education (as defined in section 102 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1002)) that—

"(i) is a participant in the Federal Direct Loan Program under part D of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1087a et seq.); and

"(ii) has an enrollment in which not less than 33 percent of students have received a loan made, insured, or guaranteed under title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1070 et seq.).

"(i) the first payment on which became due before the 10-year period (exclusive of any applicable suspension of the repayment period) ending on the date of the filing of the petition; and

"(ii) used by the debtor to make a payment to a covered institution of higher education on behalf of the debtor for the purpose of attaining an educational benefit.

"(D) The term 'Federal Direct PLUS Loan' means a Federal Direct PLUS Loan under part D of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1087a et seq.).

"(2) Institutional reimbursement.—If a covered student loan is discharged in a bankruptcy case under this title, the covered institution of higher education to which the debtor made a payment with the covered student loan shall pay to the Department of Education an amount equal to the applicable reimbursement percentage of the amount of the covered student loan that is discharged.

"(A) Applicable reimbursement percentage.—The applicable reimbursement percentage is the greater of—

"(i) the default-rate percentage determined under subparagraph (B); and

"(ii) the repayment-rate percentage determined under subparagraph (C).

"(B) Default-rate percentage.—Using the lowest cohort default rate of the covered institution of higher education, as determined under section 435(m) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1085(m)), for the 3 fiscal years preceding the date on which the first payment on the covered student loan became due, the default-rate percentage is—

"(i) 50 percent, if such rate was equal to or more than 25 percent;

"(ii) 30 percent, if such rate was equal to or more than 20 percent but less than 25 percent;

"(iii) 20 percent, if such rate was equal to or more than 15 percent but less than 20 percent; and

"(iv) 0 percent, if such rate was less than 15 percent.

"(C) Repayment-rate percentage.—

"(i) General rule.—Except as provided in clause (ii), based on the cohort repayment rate of the covered institution of higher education with respect to borrowers other than those described in clause (ii), the repayment-rate percentage is—

"(I) 50 percent, if such rate was equal to or less than 20 percent;

"(II) 30 percent, if such rate was more than 20 percent but equal to or less than 25 percent;

"(III) 20 percent, if such rate was more than 25 percent but equal to or less than 30 percent; and

"(IV) 0 percent, if such rate was more than 30 percent.

"(ii) Graduate and professional PLUS loans.—With respect to a covered student loan that is a Federal Direct PLUS Loan received by a graduate or professional student for enrollment at the institution, based on the cohort repayment rate of the institution with respect to such borrowers, the repayment-rate percentage is—

"(I) 50 percent, if such rate was equal to or less than 35 percent;

"(II) 30 percent, if such rate was more than 35 percent but equal to or less than 40 percent;

"(III) 20 percent, if such rate was more than 40 percent but equal to or less than 45 percent; and

"(IV) 0 percent, if such rate was more than 45 percent.

"(3) Administration and collection.—

"(A) Notice.—After the discharge of a covered student loan becomes final and is no longer subject to appeal, the Secretary of Education shall determine the amount due under paragraph (2) and notify the covered institution of higher education of that amount.

"(B) Payment deadline.—The covered institution of higher education shall pay the amount due not later than 90 days after receiving notice under subparagraph (A).

"(C) Collection.—An amount not paid when due under subparagraph (B) shall constitute a debt owed to the United States, shall be subject to subchapter II of chapter 37 of title 31, and may be collected by administrative offset or any other lawful means.".

(1) take effect January 1, 2027; and

"(ii) allowance of the bid would impair employee and retiree obligations or the equitable treatment of unsecured creditors;

"(iii) the bid would enable an insider or an affiliate of an insider to retain or regain control of the debtor or its business without paying fair value; or

"(iv) the claim is subject to a bona fide dispute or a substantial challenge concerning allowance, validity, priority, extent, avoidance, or subordination.

"(C) Alternative bidding procedures.—If credit bidding is limited or denied under this paragraph, the court shall require bidding procedures reasonably designed to elicit fair market value through cash or cash-equivalent consideration immediately available to the estate.

"(4) Protection of employees and retirees.—

"(A) General rule.—The court may not approve a significant sale unless—

"(i) the purchaser and the terms of the sale provide for the assumption, continuation, cure, or satisfaction, as applicable, of employee and retiree obligations, including obligations protected under sections 1113 and 1114; or

"(ii) the proponent of the sale demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that no feasible alternative transaction or reorganization would preserve such obligations to a greater extent while preserving comparable going concern value.

"(B) Comparative consideration.—In determining whether an alternative is feasible and whether a significant sale is in the best interests of the estate, the court shall give priority consideration to the long-term interests of employees and retirees and the equitable treatment of unsecured creditors. A greater immediate recovery for a financial creditor, standing alone, shall not be sufficient to reject an alternative that better preserves those interests.

"(C) Expedition.—A need to conduct a significant sale promptly shall not reduce the burden of proof or any substantive requirement under this subsection.

"(5) Specific findings.—The court shall make specific findings on the record concerning each requirement applicable under paragraphs (2) through (4). Consent to a significant sale or the absence of an objection shall not relieve the court of the duty to make such findings.

"(6) Application to plan sales.—This subsection applies to a significant sale provided for under a plan under chapter 11. For purposes of such a sale, a reference in this subsection to the proponent of the sale includes the proponent of the plan.".

(b) Confirmation of plans providing for significant sales.—Section 1129(a) of title 11, United States Code, as amended by section 265(e)(3) of this Act, is further amended—

(1) in paragraph (17), by striking the period at the end and inserting "; and"; and

(2) by adding at the end the following:

"(18) if the plan provides for a sale to which section 363(s) applies, the requirements of such section are satisfied.".

(c) Duties of United States trustees.—Section 586(a)(3) of title 28, United States Code, is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (H), by striking "and" at the end;

(2) in subparagraph (I), by striking the semicolon at the end and inserting "; and"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(J) monitoring proposed sales under section 363(b) of title 11 or under a plan under chapter 11 of such title, including expedited sales, significant sales under section 363(s) of such title, and sales involving credit bidding, and, whenever the United States trustee determines it to be appropriate—

"(i) filing comments or objections concerning compliance with subsections (q), (r), and (s) of section 363 of title 11, the best interests of the estate, the fairness of the sale process, and the treatment of employees, retirees, and unsecured creditors;

"(ii) seeking limitations on or denial of credit bidding for cause under section 363(k) or 363(s) of title 11; and

"(iii) appearing and being heard under section 307 of title 11 and participating, including as amicus curiae, in appellate proceedings involving the interpretation or application of section 363 or 1129 of title 11;".

(d) Duties of bankruptcy administrators.—The Judicial Conference of the United States shall require each bankruptcy administrator appointed under section 302(d)(3)(I) of the Bankruptcy Judges, United States Trustees, and Family Farmer Bankruptcy Act of 1986 (Public Law 99–554; 100 Stat. 3123) to perform the duties specified in section 586(a)(3)(J) of title 28, United States Code, as added by subsection (c), in the same manner and to the same extent as a United States trustee.

(e) Application.—

(1) Pending and future cases.—The amendments made by this section shall apply in any case under title 11, United States Code, filed or pending on or after the date of enactment of this Act with respect to a sale or plan for which a final order authorizing the sale or confirming the plan was not entered before such date.

(2) Completed sales.—Nothing in this section or the amendments made by this section shall affect the validity of a sale or transfer consummated before the date of enactment of this Act.

Subtitle G—Public Ownership and Voluntary Value Sharing

SEC. 271. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Human history reveals that many cultures have developed traditions of voluntary sharing, redistribution, gift giving, potlatch, jubilee, mutual aid, and public generosity to reduce excessive concentrations of wealth and simultaneously strengthen social bonds.

(2) Modern corporations and other business entities are legal persons created by law and granted special privileges by the people; these privileges are justified by the capacity of these entities to serve the public good, empower citizens to pool resources toward collective goals, build productive capacity, and create value for the communities and nation that make their existence and success possible.

(3) In the 21st century, the United States has the ability to recreate the ancient social function of voluntary value sharing utilizing a digital monetary system. This subtitle establishes a public channel through which business entities and natural persons may express gratitude to the country and community, repair or acknowledge public or private harms, or share windfall gains.

(4) Public reporting and recognition of voluntary value sharing can promote friendly competition among business entities and financial institutions while encouraging civic responsibility.

(5) An annual distribution of the aggregate value shared during each fiscal year also parallels another human tradition: the autumn harvest festival and the sharing of the year's abundance among the community. A mid-October distribution will offer citizens a potluck of choices, including civic participation, meeting family needs, holiday spending, building savings, or repaying debts.

(b) Purpose.—The purpose of section 272 is to establish a voluntary value sharing mechanism for the citizens of the United States through their Treasury transaction accounts.

SEC. 272. VOLUNTARY VALUE SHARING.

(a) Voluntary value sharing by eligible entities.—Subchapter A of chapter 7 of subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as added by section 862 of this Act, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"Sec. 1604. Voluntary value sharing.

"(a) Definitions.—In this section:

"(1) Applicable base.—The term 'applicable base' means—

"(A) for a business entity described in paragraph (2)(A), gross profits determined under this chapter; and

"(B) for a financial institution described in paragraph (2)(B), the financial activities tax base determined under chapter 50C.

"(2) Eligible entity.—The term 'eligible entity' means—

"(A) a business entity subject to this chapter; or

"(B) a financial institution subject to chapter 50C.

"(3) Fund.—The term 'Fund' means the Voluntary Value Sharing Fund established under section 1399b of title 42, United States Code.

"(b) Voluntary value sharing.—

"(1) In general.—An eligible entity may elect to share an amount in excess of the requirements of this chapter or chapter 50C, as applicable, by making a declaration of voluntary value sharing for a taxable year at any time, but may not declare an effective rate lower than the rate specified in section 1602(b) or section 5000G(b), as applicable.

"(2) Declarations.—A declaration shall be effective only for the taxable year for which it is made. The Secretary shall promulgate rules to enable declarations—

"(A) as a percentage of applicable base;

"(B) as a total dollar amount, if the amount exceeds the tax otherwise due under this chapter or chapter 50C, as applicable;

"(C) as a dollar amount in excess of the tax otherwise due under this chapter or chapter 50C, as applicable; or

"(D) in any other form provided in regulations.

"(c) Declarations to have force of law.—

"(1) In general.—A declaration under subsection (b) shall be binding on the eligible entity for the taxable year for which the declaration is made.

"(2) Percentage declarations.—In the case of a declaration made as a percentage of applicable base, the tax liability under this section shall be computed by substituting the declared percentage for the rate in section 1602(b) or section 5000G(b), as applicable.

"(3) Dollar declarations.—In the case of a declaration made as a dollar amount, the declared amount shall be assessed and collected in the same manner as a tax imposed under section 1602 or chapter 50C, as applicable, at such time and in such manner as the Secretary shall prescribe.

"(4) Deposit of excess.—The Secretary shall deposit the voluntary value sharing amount in the Fund.

"(d) Reports and recognition.—

"(1) In general.—The Secretary shall—

"(A) not later than October 15, 2027, and annually thereafter, issue a report on the voluntary value sharing amounts deposited in the Voluntary Value Sharing Fund under this section during the previous fiscal year;

"(B) maintain a publicly searchable database of eligible entities that have made declarations or payments pursuant to this section, including the effective rate, voluntary value sharing amount, and taxable year for each declaration or payment; and

"(C) establish and publicize ranked lists of the 200 eligible entities with the highest voluntary value sharing amounts for the previous year, in the following categories:

"(i) by percentage rounded to the nearest hundredth, among eligible entities with applicable bases—

"(I) less than $1,000,000;

"(II) greater than or equal to $1,000,000, but less than $100,000,000;

"(III) greater than or equal to $100,000,000, but less than $500,000,000; and

"(IV) greater than or equal to $500,000,000; and

"(ii) by total voluntary value sharing amount.

"(2) No vacancies.—Beginning with the 2029 fiscal year, if the number of eligible entities participating in voluntary value sharing is less than 200 in any category described in paragraph (1)(C), the Secretary shall fill the ranked list for that category with the eligible entities reporting the highest applicable bases and state that the voluntary value sharing amount was zero.

"(e) Effective date.—This section shall take effect on the date of enactment of the POPULIST Act. Before the first taxable year to which section 1602 or chapter 50C applies to an eligible entity, no liability shall arise under this section unless the eligible entity makes a declaration under subsection (b).".

(b) Voluntary value sharing.—Chapter 7 of title 42, United States Code, as amended by section 811 of this Act, is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"Subchapter XXIII—Voluntary Value Sharing

"SEC. 1399a. Definitions.

"(2) Eligible citizen.—The term 'eligible citizen' means a natural person who—

"(A) is a citizen of the United States;

"(B) has been assigned a Treasury transaction account under section 623(b)(1) of the POPULIST Act; and Amounts in the Fund shall be available for annual citizen distributions under section 1399c and may not be obligated, expended, transferred, or distributed except as provided in this subchapter.

"(b) Contributions.—Any person may make a contribution to the Fund in such amount, form, manner, and frequency as the Secretary may prescribe. A contract, agreement, settlement, or other instrument purporting to require a natural person to make a future contribution to the Fund shall be unenforceable.

"(c) Deposit in Fund.—The Secretary shall deposit in the Fund all contributions made under this section and all voluntary value sharing amounts paid under section 1604 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986.

"(d) Privacy.—The Secretary may not publicly disclose the identity, account information, address, contribution amount, or other identifying information of a person who makes or does not make a contribution to the Fund, except—

"(1) with the affirmative consent of such person; or

"(2) as necessary for administration or enforcement of Federal law.

"(e) No tax benefit.—No deduction, credit, exclusion, basis increase, or other tax benefit shall be allowed by reason of a contribution to the Fund unless expressly provided by another provision of law.

"(f) Regulations.—The Secretary may issue regulations to prevent coercion, fraud, duplication, erroneous contributions, or misuse of contribution mechanisms under this section.

"Sec. 1399c. Annual citizen distributions.

"(a) Annual citizen distribution.—

"(1) In general.—Not later than October 15, 2027, and annually thereafter, the Secretary shall distribute from the Fund the amount available for distribution in equal shares to the Treasury transaction account of each eligible citizen.

"(2) Calculations.—

"(A) Equal share.—The equal share for each eligible citizen shall be the amount determined by dividing the amount in the Fund as of the close of the fiscal year by the number of eligible citizens and rounding the quotient down to the nearest $0.01.

"(B) Amount available for distribution.—The amount available for distribution shall be the product of the number of eligible citizens and the equal share calculated in subparagraph (A).

"(3) Residual amounts.—Any amount in the Fund in excess of the amount able to be distributed shall remain in the Fund.

"(4) Missed account claims.—

"(A) No loss due to administrative delay.—No administrative delay in assigning a Treasury transaction account under section 623(b)(1) of the POPULIST Act shall extinguish or reduce the claim of a citizen of the United States to receive a distribution under this paragraph.

"(B) Claim.—A citizen of the United States who was not treated as an eligible citizen for a fiscal year solely because the citizen had not been assigned a Treasury transaction account under section 623(b)(1) of the POPULIST Act may claim the equal share distribution amount for that fiscal year.

"(C) Payment.—The Secretary shall pay a valid claim under this paragraph in the same amount paid to eligible citizens for that fiscal year.

"(D) Source of payment.—Amounts paid under this paragraph shall be paid from the Fund and may be treated as an adjustment reducing the amount available for distribution for a subsequent fiscal year.

"(b) Acquisition of Treasury Dollar Bills for distribution.—

"(1) In general.—Before making an annual citizen distribution under this section, the Secretary shall acquire Treasury Dollar Bills for the Fund in an amount sufficient to credit the amount available for distribution under subsection (a)(2)(B) to the Treasury transaction accounts of eligible citizens.

"(2) Methods of acquisition.—The Secretary may acquire Treasury Dollar Bills for the Fund by exchange with a Federal trust fund or Federal account holding Treasury Dollar Bills, provided that—

"(A) the exchange is made dollar-for-dollar at par;

"(B) the managing trustee or other responsible officer determines that the exchange is consistent with the projected liquidity needs of the fund or account; and

"(C) the exchange does not impair the payment of any benefit or obligation payable from such fund or account.

"(3) No creation or extinguishment.—An acquisition or distribution under this subchapter shall not create or extinguish the aggregate amount of Treasury Dollar Bills.

"(c) Administration and reports.—

"(1) Tax and benefit treatment.—Nothing in this subchapter shall be construed to—

"(A) exclude a voluntary value sharing distribution from gross income; or

"(B) require a voluntary value sharing distribution to be disregarded as income, resources, or assets for purposes of determining eligibility for, or the amount of benefits or assistance under, any Federal, State, or local program.

"(2) Annual distribution report.—Not later than October 15, 2027, and annually thereafter, the Secretary shall publish a report stating—

"(A) the total amount deposited in the Fund during the previous fiscal year;

"(C) the per citizen distribution amount; and

"(D) the amount carried forward for distribution in a subsequent year.

SEC. 273. DEMOCRATIC STEWARDSHIP OF FEDERAL EQUITY INTERESTS.

(a) Democratic stewardship chapter.—Subtitle VI of title 31, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"CHAPTER 99—DEMOCRATIC STEWARDSHIP OF FEDERAL EQUITY INTERESTS

"SEC. 9901. Findings and purpose.

"SEC. 9902. Definitions.

"SEC. 9903. Public ownership principles and scope.

"SEC. 9904. Office of Federal Equity Stewardship.

"SEC. 9905. Independence of investment selection and information firewall.

"SEC. 9906. Preservation and exercise of Federal voting interests.

"SEC. 9907. National voting policy established by Congress.

"SEC. 9908. Records, disclosure, and audit.

"SEC. 9909. Conflicts of interest and unlawful interference.

"SEC. 9910. Enforcement and judicial review.

"SEC. 9911. Proposals for permanent democratic stewardship.

"SEC. 9912. Regulations and relation to other law.

"Sec. 9901. Findings and purpose.

"(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

"(1) Article IV, section 3, clause 2 of the Constitution grants Congress the power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting property belonging to the United States.

"(2) In Gibson v. Chouteau (1872), the Supreme Court described Congress's authority over the disposition of Federal property as subject to no limitations and recognized Congress's authority to prescribe the times, conditions, and mode of its disposition.

"(3) In Ashwander v. Tennessee Valley Authority (1936), the Supreme Court held that water power brought under Federal control through construction of a Federal dam, the right to convert that power into electric energy, and the resulting electric energy were property belonging to the United States subject to congressional disposition.

"(4) Investments made for Federal accounts may similarly bring under Federal control substantial voting power inherent in underlying equity interests. Such voting power is a valuable incident of Federal ownership and an instrument of economic governance.

"(5) Congress therefore has the authority and responsibility under Article IV, section 3, clause 2 of the Constitution to establish national policy governing the preservation, aggregation, direction, exercise, and disposition of voting power inherent in Federal equity interests. Under Article II of the Constitution, officers of the executive branch are responsible for faithfully administering that policy.

"(b) Purpose.—The purpose of this chapter is to preserve, aggregate, direct, and exercise the voting power inherent in Federal equity interests as an instrument of public ownership, in accordance with national policy established by Congress, for the benefit of the people of the United States.

"Sec. 9902. Definitions.

"In this chapter:

"(1) Equity index fund.—The term 'equity index fund' means a qualifying index fund described in section 9702(d)(6) or (7).

"(2) Federal equity account.—The term 'Federal equity account' means a Federal account, as defined in section 9702(a)(1), that acquires or holds an interest in an equity index fund subject to this chapter.

"(3) Federal voting interest.—The term 'Federal voting interest' means, for each issuer and matter, the voting power determined under section 9906(b) that would be attributable to the proportionate economic interest of a Federal equity account in equity securities held by an equity index fund or by a master fund or other pooled investment vehicle through which the equity index fund obtains its index exposure, without reduction for securities lending or another transfer, waiver, or delegation of voting authority. The term does not include voting power attributable to a security sold or otherwise disposed of before the applicable issuer record date.

"(4) Office.—The term 'Office' means the Office of Federal Equity Stewardship established under section 9904.

"(5) Qualifying equity fund.—The term 'qualifying equity fund' means an equity index fund that satisfies section 9906, including an international equity index fund operating under a determination made under section 9906(h).

"(6) Responsible official.—The term 'responsible official' has the meaning given the term in section 9702(a)(4).

"Sec. 9903. Public ownership principles and scope.

"(a) Scope.—This chapter applies to each interest acquired under section 9702(d)(6) or (7) on or after January 1, 2027, and to each addition made on or after that date to such an interest.

"(b) Other Federal equity interests.—This chapter applies to any other Federal equity interest expressly made subject to this chapter by an Act of Congress.

"(c) Public trust.—A Federal voting interest is a valuable incident of public ownership held by the United States in trust for the people of the United States.

"(d) No individual property interest.—Subsection (c) does not create an individual legal or equitable ownership interest, entitlement to income or proceeds, trust claim against a Federal account, or private cause of action.

"(e) National public policy.—Notwithstanding an account specific fiduciary, actuarial, or other duty, the preservation, aggregation, direction, and exercise of a Federal voting interest under this chapter shall advance the general welfare and the national public policy established by Congress. Compliance with this chapter with respect to such voting interest shall not constitute a breach of a duty otherwise applicable to a Federal equity account, responsible official, investment manager, trustee, or other person.

"(f) Separate economic attribution.—This chapter shall not alter the legal or equitable ownership, separate accounting identity, income, gain, loss, expense, corpus, principal, payment obligation, expenditure restriction, or authorized purpose of a Federal equity account.

"(g) Participant owned interests excluded.—This chapter does not apply to an interest beneficially owned by a person other than the United States, including an interest of a participant or beneficiary in the Thrift Savings Fund. Ownership by a non-Federal person of a separate interest in the same qualifying equity fund does not limit the application of this chapter to the interest of a Federal equity account or the resulting Federal voting interest.

"(h) Federal proportion disregarded for substantive ownership and control restrictions.—Solely by reason of the acquisition, holding, aggregation, direction, or exercise of a Federal voting interest under this chapter—

"(1) the Federal voting interest shall be disregarded and shall not be attributed to the United States, the Office, a Federal equity account, a responsible official, a qualifying equity fund, or a person acting ministerially under section 9906(d), for purposes of a Federal percentage limitation, ownership or control prohibition, affiliation or common control rule, licensing or approval requirement, or determination of acting in concert or group status; and

"(2) compliance with a binding instruction or mirror voting formula under this chapter shall not be treated as investment discretion or as an independent basis for control, affiliation, acting in concert, or group status.

"(i) Limitations.—Subsection (h)—

"(1) applies only to the Federal proportion and to conduct required under this chapter;

"(2) does not apply if a person possesses operational control or another independent basis for ownership, control, affiliation, acting in concert, or group status;

"(3) does not limit a disclosure, reporting, or recordkeeping requirement otherwise applicable to a private person or expressly applicable to the United States, or an anti-fraud, sanctions, or national security requirement; and

"(4) does not alter the attribution or treatment of a private interest, excuse private investment discretion, or exempt an issuer from otherwise applicable law.

"(j) No operational control.—Nothing in this chapter authorizes the United States, solely by reason of a Federal voting interest, to appoint an officer or employee of an issuer, direct the day-to-day operations of an issuer, or exercise management authority beyond that ordinarily possessed by an equity holder.

"Sec. 9904. Office of Federal Equity Stewardship.

"(a) Establishment.—There is established in the Department of the Treasury an Office of Federal Equity Stewardship.

"(b) Director.—The Office shall be headed by a Director who shall be a career appointee in the Senior Executive Service and shall be appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury from among individuals with substantial experience in public administration, corporate governance, securities markets, competition policy, labor policy, consumer protection, or democratic deliberation. The Director shall perform the functions of the Office subject to the supervision of the Secretary as provided in this chapter.

"(c) Startup authority.—Until a Director is appointed, the Secretary shall appoint a career appointee in the Senior Executive Service to serve as Acting Director and perform the functions of the Director.

"(d) Duties.—The Office shall—

"(1) maintain and aggregate records of Federal voting interests;

"(2) prescribe model terms, standard forms, and uniform technical standards necessary to implement section 9906, without adding to or subtracting from the substantive requirements of this chapter;

"(3) negotiate, approve, and administer master agreements or other binding arrangements that satisfy section 9906 for one or more Federal equity accounts;

"(4) certify, suspend, and decertify qualifying equity funds and maintain a current public list of certified funds, share classes, and arrangements;

"(5) issue binding voting instructions under this chapter;

"(6) verify execution of each instruction and administer mirror voting when required;

"(7) publish the records and reports required under this chapter; and

"(8) prepare the proposals required under section 9911.

"(e) Consultation.—The Office shall consult, as appropriate, with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Department of Justice, including the Antitrust Division, the Department of Commerce, the Department of Labor, the Comptroller General, and responsible officials. Consultation under this subsection is advisory and does not authorize a consulted agency, official, or responsible official to direct an issuer-specific instruction or to add to, subtract from, or substitute a different policy for the national voting policy established by Congress under section 9907.

"(f) No charge to accounts.—The costs of the Office and the administration of this chapter may not be charged to a Federal equity account.

"Sec. 9905. Independence of investment selection and information firewall.

"(a) Investment decisions independent of voting consequences.—A responsible official shall select, allocate among, acquire, retain, and dispose of investments under section 9702 without regard to the expected effect of the decision on the identity of issuers subject to a Federal voting interest, the amount of voting power attributable to an issuer, or the outcome of a shareholder vote.

"(b) Permissible considerations.—Subsection (a) does not prohibit consideration of the authorized purposes, payment obligations, liquidity needs, investment horizon, diversification, risk, expected return, fees, or other financial and statutory requirements of the Federal equity account.

"(c) Separation of functions.—The Office has no authority to select, allocate among, acquire, retain, or dispose of investments for a Federal equity account. The Office, the Secretary, and any other officer or employee may not direct or influence an investment decision for the purpose of changing the composition or amount of Federal voting interests. Negotiation, approval, certification, suspension, or decertification under section 9904(d) shall address compliance with this chapter only and shall not constitute a recommendation or direction to acquire, retain, or dispose of an investment.

"(d) Information firewall.—The Secretary shall maintain separate personnel, access controls, and records for investment administration and stewardship administration. Nonpublic information concerning a planned voting instruction, fund qualification action, or disposition may not be disclosed or used for investment selection, trading, or personal benefit.

"(e) Personal trading and certification.—The Secretary shall establish personal trading restrictions for Office personnel. Each responsible official shall annually certify compliance with subsection (a), and the Inspector General of the Department of the Treasury shall periodically review compliance with this section.

"Sec. 9906. Preservation and exercise of Federal voting interests.

"(a) Eligibility condition.—A responsible official may not acquire an interest in an equity index fund unless the governing documents of the fund or a binding agreement with the fund, investment manager, trustee, or other person exercising voting authority provide that—

"(1) the Federal voting interest will be identified for each issuer and matter submitted for a vote;

"(2) the fund will accept and execute a binding instruction of the Office;

"(3) no private person may determine how the Federal voting interest is exercised;

"(4) if the Office issues no valid instruction, the Federal voting interest will be voted in the same proportions among the voting choices recorded for non-Federal shares on the matter, including votes for, against, abstaining, or withholding authority, as applicable;

"(5) an independent tabulator or other neutral administrator will execute the mirror voting formula without discretion by the issuer or investment manager;

"(6) a quantity of each portfolio security sufficient to support the full Federal voting interest will remain unloaned and free from any transfer, waiver, or arrangement that would impair voting capacity; and

"(7) the fund will provide the records and certifications required under section 9908.

"(b) Measurement.—For each issuer and matter, the Federal voting interest shall be determined by reference to the securities held by the equity index fund, or by a master fund or other pooled investment vehicle through which the equity index fund obtains its index exposure, and entitled to vote as of the issuer record date and the proportionate economic interest of each Federal equity account in the fund as of the close of business on that date or the nearest preceding valuation time prescribed by the Office. The Office shall prescribe uniform rules for valuation timing and intermediated ownership consistent with this subsection.

"(c) Aggregated instruction.—For each issuer and matter, the Office shall aggregate all Federal voting interests and issue a single instruction applicable to the aggregate Federal voting interest.

"(d) Ministerial execution.—A private person may transmit or execute an instruction or mirror voting formula if that person possesses no discretion to alter, disregard, or substitute another voting policy.

"(e) Fallback voting.—

"(1) Mirror voting.—If the Office issues no valid instruction, the mirror voting formula required under subsection (a)(4) shall apply.

"(2) Residual abstention.—A Federal voting interest may remain unvoted only to the extent that execution of both a valid instruction and the mirror voting formula is legally or operationally impossible.

"(f) No waiver.—A responsible official may not waive a requirement of this section.

"(g) Loss of qualification.—

"(1) Notice and cessation of purchases.—A fund shall immediately notify the Office and each affected responsible official of a loss of a required contractual commitment, failure to execute an instruction, unauthorized private voting, impairment of voting capacity, material reporting failure, or other material noncompliance. No additional interest in the fund may be acquired for a Federal equity account after notice or discovery.

"(2) Cure period.—The fund shall have 90 days after the earlier of notice or discovery to restore full compliance.

"(3) Orderly disposition.—If compliance is not restored during the cure period, each responsible official shall dispose of the affected interest in a prudent and orderly manner not later than 1 year after the cure period ends.

"(4) Limited extension.—The Office may grant 1 extension of not more than 1 year if immediate disposition would reasonably be expected to cause a material loss to a Federal equity account or substantial market disruption.

"(5) Voting during transition.—During a cure or disposition period, the private manager may not exercise discretion over the Federal voting interest. A valid instruction shall be executed to the maximum extent possible, and the mirror voting formula shall apply to the remainder.

"(6) Continued application.—For purposes of this subsection and sections 9908 through 9910, an equity index fund and each related interest shall remain subject to this chapter and shall be treated as a qualifying equity fund and Federal voting interest, respectively, until the affected interest is disposed of.

"(h) International equity index funds.—

"(1) Limited exception.—An international equity index fund described in section 9702(d)(7) may qualify notwithstanding an inability, with respect to a particular foreign issuer or market, to fully satisfy subsection (a)(4), (5), or (6) or subsection (e), only if the Office determines in writing that—

"(A) full compliance is prevented by foreign law or unavoidable market infrastructure;

"(B) the fund has used all reasonable means, including alternative custody or voting arrangements, to preserve and execute the Federal voting interest to the maximum extent possible;

"(C) the exception is no broader than necessary and no reasonably available fund would provide materially greater compliance without materially impairing diversification or liquidity; and

"(D) each exception and the resulting amount not voted are fully disclosed under section 9908.

"(2) Impermissible grounds.—An exception may not be based on securities lending, investment manager preference, administrative convenience, or cost alone.

"(3) Domestic funds.—No exception under this subsection applies to a domestic equity index fund described in section 9702(d)(6).

"(i) Certification and common implementation.—

"(1) Certification required.—An equity index fund shall not be treated as satisfying this section unless the Office has certified in writing that the governing documents or binding agreement required under subsection (a) satisfy this section.

"(2) Scope and reliance.—A certification may apply to a fund, share class, master agreement, or other standardized arrangement and may be relied on by each responsible official while in effect.

"(3) Master agreements.—The Office may negotiate and approve a master agreement or standardized form implementing subsection (a) for one or more Federal equity accounts. A responsible official remains solely responsible for investment selection under section 9702.

"(4) Technical standards.—The Office may prescribe uniform technical standards for holdings and record-date data, calculation of Federal voting interests, voting-choice coding, authentication and transmission of instructions, mirror-vote calculations, execution certifications, reconciliation, and audit records. A technical standard under this paragraph may not alter the substantive voting policy established by section 9907(a).

"(5) Public list.—The Office shall maintain and publish a current list of each fund, share class, or arrangement certified under this subsection and the status of the certification.

"(6) Suspension or decertification.—The Office may suspend or revoke a certification upon material noncompliance. Subsection (g) shall govern cessation of purchases, cure, and disposition following such suspension or revocation.

"(j) Tiered pooled arrangements.—If an equity index fund obtains index exposure through a master fund or another pooled investment vehicle, the requirements of this section shall apply through each relevant tier to the extent necessary to identify, preserve, and execute the Federal voting interest attributable to underlying equity securities actually held. Nothing in this subsection creates a Federal voting interest with respect to synthetic exposure for which no underlying voting security is held directly or indirectly for the equity index fund.

"Sec. 9907. National voting policy established by Congress.

(a) National voting policy.—Congress establishes the following national public policy for the exercise of Federal voting interests. The Office shall administer, and each officer exercising supervisory authority under this chapter shall apply, the policy established in this subsection. A regulation, standing instruction, issuer-specific instruction, or supervisory determination under this chapter may implement but may not add to, subtract from, or substitute a different policy for the policy established in this subsection. Federal voting interests shall be exercised to—

"(1) advance the general welfare and long-term public interest of the United States;

"(2) strengthen competitive markets and oppose anticompetitive consolidation, managerial entrenchment, and abuses of market power;

"(3) support productive enterprise, responsible treatment of workers and consumers, public health and safety, civil rights, and environmental sustainability;

"(4) promote truthful disclosure, accountable governance, and responsible long-term stewardship;

"(5) oppose corporate political spending, including any proposal that would authorize, approve, ratify, or permit an issuer to make a disbursement for a political purpose within the meaning of section 10F of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934; and

"(6) promote compensation practices that reduce excessive pay disparities, including compensation structures that reduce the pay ratio described in section 11(e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and thereby reduce or avoid the tax increase imposed under that subsection; and

"(7) oppose self-dealing, corruption, undisclosed political influence, excessive extraction, and compensation practices that reward short-term value destruction.

"(b) Prioritization and standing administration.—

"(1) Resource prioritization.—The Office shall direct individualized review first to matters presenting the greatest combination of public importance and potential for the aggregate Federal voting interest to affect the outcome, taking into account the size of the Federal voting interest, the economic significance of the issuer or transaction, and the degree to which the matter implicates subsection (a).

"(2) Heightened individualized review.—To the maximum extent practicable, the Office shall conduct individualized review of a merger, consolidation, acquisition, contested election or removal of directors, material change in voting or governance rights, significant executive compensation plan, and any other matter the Office determines could materially affect competition, long-term productive capacity, or the general welfare.

"(3) Standing instructions and automated application.—The Director may establish and publish generally applicable standing instructions or automated procedures for recurring or routine matters if the instructions or procedures apply objective criteria derived from subsection (a) and regulations issued under this chapter, are periodically reviewed, and preserve the Director's responsibility for their operation. The Director shall establish a standing instruction to carry out subsection (a)(5).

"(4) Mirror voting for routine matters.—The Office may designate a routine, minor, or immaterial matter for mirror voting under section 9906(e)(1) if no standing instruction governs the matter and individualized review would not materially advance the policy established in subsection (a).

"(c) Issuer-specific instructions.—

"(1) Preparation.—Authorized career personnel of the Office shall analyze each matter selected for individualized review and prepare a proposed issuer-specific instruction by applying this chapter and regulations issued under this chapter.

"(2) Director decision.—The Director shall issue each issuer-specific instruction.

"(3) Application and rationale.—Each issuer-specific instruction shall identify the provision of subsection (a), an applicable regulation, or an applicable standing instruction on which it is based and, when issuer-specific judgment is material to the outcome, include a concise statement of reasons.

"(d) Secretary review and accountability.—

"(1) Review authority.—The Secretary may review an issuer-specific instruction before execution and may affirm, reverse, or modify the instruction only by applying this chapter and regulations issued under this chapter.

"(2) Written determination.—A reversal or modification under paragraph (1) shall be set forth in a signed written determination that identifies the applicable statutory policy and regulation, states the reasons for the decision, and is published immediately.

"(3) No prior approval required.—An issuer-specific instruction issued by the Director is effective without prior approval by the Secretary. The availability or exercise of review under this subsection may not be used to delay transmission or execution beyond the time reasonably necessary to exercise the Federal voting interest.

"(e) Direction and policy changes.—

"(1) Informal direction prohibited.—No person may informally direct or attempt to direct an issuer-specific instruction.

"(2) Policy changes.—A proposed policy change may be initiated through the rulemaking process and must be generally applicable, prospective, public, and consistent with subsection (a).

"(f) Public communication log.—The Office shall maintain and publish a log of each nonpublic communication seeking to influence an issuer-specific instruction, including the participants, date, subject, and material substance. Publicly available mass communications and ministerial transmissions need not be logged individually. The Office shall disclose the existence and general subject of a communication even when information is lawfully withheld.

"Sec. 9908. Records, disclosure, and audit.

"(a) Vote level record.—For each matter subject to a Federal voting interest, the Office shall publish, in an open and machine-readable format—

"(1) the issuer, meeting date, applicable record date, matter presented, and instruction or mirror voting treatment, including the basis required under section 9907(c)(3);

"(2) the voting interest attributable to each Federal equity account and the aggregate Federal voting interest;

"(3) the amount cast, mirrored, not cast, or unavailable, and the reason for any nonexecution; and

"(4) a certification by the person responsible for execution that full voting capacity was preserved or, if it was not preserved or fully executed, the amount and reason for each impairment, unavailability, or nonexecution.

"(b) Timing.—The Office shall publish each instruction, together with the basis and any statement of reasons required under section 9907(c)(3), not later than 5 calendar days before the shareholder meeting where practicable and shall publish the execution record not later than 7 days after the meeting. Each advance publication under this subsection shall state that the disclosure is informational and does not constitute an instruction or recommendation to any other shareholder as to how to vote.

"(c) Annual report.—Not later than March 31 of each year, the Office shall submit to Congress and publish a report summarizing Federal voting interests, voting activity, nonexecution, costs, conflicts, communications, international exceptions, and material policy questions during the preceding calendar year.

"(d) Audit.—The Comptroller General shall audit compliance with this chapter at least once every 2 years and report the results to Congress and the public.

"Sec. 9909. Conflicts of interest and unlawful interference.

"(a) Lawful advocacy.—Nothing in this section prohibits a person from publicly advocating a voting position, submitting information through a public process, or petitioning the Government for redress of grievances.

"(b) Sole public purpose.—A person administering or executing a Federal voting interest may not use that interest to advance a personal financial interest, private client, political party, candidate, officeholder, or undisclosed agreement.

"(c) Prohibited consideration.—A Federal voting instruction may not be conditioned on a campaign contribution, lobbying expenditure, gift, contract, grant, regulatory action, employment opportunity, or other thing of value.

"(d) Conflicts and recusals.—The Office shall establish public conflict of interest, disclosure, and recusal requirements for each officer, employee, contractor, adviser, and expert participating in the administration of this chapter.

"(e) Unauthorized official direction.—

"(1) Administrative remedies.—An officer or employee of the United States, other than the President or Vice President, who knowingly and willfully directs, attempts to direct, or causes an issuer-specific instruction contrary to this chapter or a rule issued under this chapter shall be subject, in accordance with otherwise applicable law, to removal or other appropriate discipline.

"(2) Civil remedies.—In a civil action brought by the Attorney General, a district court of the United States may impose on an individual described in paragraph (1) a civil penalty of not more than $100,000 and disqualify the individual from appointment to or employment in the Federal civil service for not more than 5 years.

"(3) President and Vice President.—Nothing in this subsection alters a constitutional process applicable to the President or Vice President or limits a penalty, remedy, or authority available under subsection (f) or (g) or another provision of law.

"(f) Corrupt interference.—Whoever corruptly gives, offers, solicits, or accepts a thing of value, or threatens, retaliates, or uses deception, with intent to influence an issuer-specific instruction contrary to this chapter shall be fined under title 18, imprisoned not more than 5 years, or both.

"(g) Election interference.—If an offense under subsection (f) is committed with intent to interfere with or affect the nomination or election of a candidate for Federal office, the maximum term of imprisonment shall be 10 years.

"(h) Other law.—The penalties under this section are cumulative of penalties under any other provision of law.

"Sec. 9910. Enforcement and judicial review.

"(a) Civil enforcement.—The Office or the Attorney General may bring a civil action for declaratory relief, injunctive relief, specific performance, restitution, or recovery of losses to enforce this chapter or an agreement required under section 9906.

"(b) Contractual remedies.—Each agreement required under section 9906 shall provide that a material violation is enforceable by the United States and may result in suspension or loss of qualification and termination of the agreement.

"(c) Records.—The Office may require records and certifications reasonably necessary to determine compliance with this chapter.

"(d) No private cause of action.—This chapter does not create a private cause of action.

"(e) Review of general rules.—A person adversely affected by a final rule of general applicability may, not later than 60 days after publication, file a petition for review in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, which shall have exclusive jurisdiction to affirm, set aside, or remand the rule.

"(f) issuer-specific instructions.—A court may not enjoin, stay, or otherwise delay a shareholder meeting or vote based on a challenge to an issuer-specific instruction. Relief on such a challenge shall be prospective or declaratory only.

"Sec. 9911. Proposals for permanent democratic stewardship.

"(a) Proposals required.—Not later than January 1, 2028, the Secretary of the Treasury, acting through the Office and in consultation with the agencies and officials described in section 9904(e) and the public, shall submit to Congress and publish a report and complete proposed legislative text for each model described in subsection (b).

"(b) Required models.—The submission shall include—

"(1) an independent professional public stewardship institution operating under statutory public ownership principles;

"(2) a citizen directed system through which citizens may select generally applicable voting policies or voluntarily delegate voting authority to qualifying representative organizations; and

"(3) a national citizens' assembly of approximately 500 compensated citizens selected by sortition and demographic stratification, supported by a professional stewardship office.

"(c) Hybrid and recommendation.—The Secretary may also submit a hybrid model and shall identify any recommended model, but a recommendation may not substitute for complete legislative text for each model required under subsection (b).

"(d) Required subjects.—Each proposal shall address selection and accountability, compensation and staffing, public deliberation and expert evidence, conflicts and lobbying, proportional voting through pooled funds, domestic and international holdings, other ownership interests, cross-market concentration and competition effects, account-specific economic effects and fiduciary treatment, judicial review, enforcement, appropriations, and implementation.

"(e) Inventory and expansion proposals.—

"(1) Government-wide inventory.—The submission shall include a government-wide inventory of each equity security, warrant, convertible security, fund interest, proxy right, consent right, veto right, board nomination or observation right, golden share, special share, and other corporate governance or ownership right held directly or indirectly by the United States or administered by an agency, instrumentality, Government corporation, or public purpose trust. For each interest, the inventory shall identify—

"(A) the issuer and class or type of interest;

"(B) the legal and beneficial owner;

"(C) the administering department, agency, instrumentality, corporation, trust, or account;

"(D) the number, value, and percentage of outstanding interests held, to the extent applicable;

"(E) each voting, consent, conversion, appointment, observation, veto, or other governance right;

"(F) each contractual, statutory, fiduciary, beneficiary, foreign law, or operational restriction on the exercise of such right;

"(G) any agreement governing how such right is exercised; and

"(H) whether the interest is held for the general benefit of the United States, for a particular public purpose, or for identified participants or beneficiaries.

"(2) Recommendations and proposed legislative text.—The submission shall include recommendations and complete proposed legislative text concerning whether and how to extend this chapter, or establish a parallel stewardship framework, for—

"(A) Federal equity interests acquired before January 1, 2027;

"(B) common stock, warrants, and other equity interests held directly by the United States, including interests in Intel Corporation held or administered by the Department of Commerce;

"(C) equity securities, pooled investment interests, and other ownership interests held or administered by the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation;

"(D) equity securities, pooled investment interests, and other ownership interests held through an investment trust, decommissioning trust, restoration trust, retirement arrangement, or other public purpose account administered by the Tennessee Valley Authority;

"(E) direct equity, private fund interests, limited partnership interests, warrants, conversion rights, consent rights, and other governance rights held or administered by the United States International Development Finance Corporation;

"(F) senior preferred stock, warrants, conservatorship-related interests, and other ownership interests or governance rights relating to the Federal National Mortgage Association or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation;

"(G) golden shares, special shares, veto rights, board appointment or observation rights, convertible preferred stock, warrants, and other ownership interests or governance rights acquired for national security, industrial policy, supply chain, or similar public purposes, including interests relating to United States Steel Corporation and MP Materials Corp.;

"(H) interests acquired through a financial rescue, conservatorship, receivership, resolution, bankruptcy, enforcement action, settlement, forfeiture, procurement agreement, grant agreement, loan agreement, or other Federal authority;

"(I) interests held in the Thrift Savings Fund and other assets beneficially owned by Federal employees, members of the uniformed services, retirees, participants, or beneficiaries, which shall be evaluated under a separate participant or beneficiary directed stewardship model; and

"(J) any other Federal ownership or governance interest identified in the inventory required under paragraph (1).

"(3) Required distinctions.—For each category described in paragraph (2), the submission shall—

"(A) distinguish among interests beneficially owned by the United States, assets held for a particular public purpose, assets beneficially owned by identified participants or beneficiaries, nonvoting economic interests, and specialized governance rights that are not equivalent to ordinary common stock voting power;

"(B) evaluate whether the interest should be subject to national aggregation under this chapter, account specific stewardship, participant or beneficiary directed stewardship, or a separate framework tailored to the nature and purpose of the interest;

"(C) identify any existing voting agreement or other restriction that would need to be amended, terminated, superseded, or preserved; and

"(D) address transition, valuation, fiduciary duties, contractual arrangements, market effects, foreign law restrictions, and constitutional or statutory limitations.

"(4) No automatic application.—Neither the inventory nor a recommendation or proposal under this subsection shall make an interest subject to this chapter except as expressly provided by a subsequent Act of Congress.

"(f) Public process.—Before submitting the proposals, the Office shall provide public notice, receive written comments for not less than 90 days, and conduct public hearings that include workers, consumers, beneficiaries of Federal programs, institutional investors, corporate issuers, public interest organizations, and experts in democratic deliberation.

"Sec. 9912. Regulations and relation to other law.

"(a) Regulations.—The Secretary of the Treasury, acting through the Office, may prescribe regulations necessary to carry out this chapter.

"(b) Initial implementation rules.—Not later than December 30, 2026, the Secretary of the Treasury, acting through the Office, shall issue an interim final rule to implement section 9907 and sections 9905(e), 9906(b), and 9909(d). The interim final rule shall take effect upon publication in the Federal Register, shall have the force and effect of law, and may be issued without regard to section 553 of title 5, United States Code. The Office shall provide a public comment period of not less than 60 days after publication. Not later than September 30, 2027, the Secretary, acting through the Office, shall issue a final rule. Failure to issue the final rule by that date shall not suspend or terminate the interim final rule. A rule under this subsection may implement but may not add to, subtract from, or substitute a different policy for the national voting policy established by Congress under section 9907(a).

"(c) Private obligations preserved.—Except as expressly provided in section 9903(e) and (h) and section 9906(d) and (e), nothing in this chapter exempts a private fund, investment manager, trustee, custodian, proxy adviser, or issuer from a requirement of the securities laws, the antitrust laws, or another provision of Federal law. A private person acting solely ministerially under section 9906(d) or (e) shall be treated as satisfying any otherwise applicable Federal duty concerning the choice of how the Federal voting interest is exercised, but remains subject to disclosure, reporting, recordkeeping, anti-fraud, and other duties unrelated to that choice.

"(d) Inability to comply.—A domestic equity index fund that cannot preserve and execute the full Federal voting interest or provide the required mirror voting mechanism is not a qualifying equity fund. An international equity index fund is subject to section 9906(h).".

(b) Clerical amendment.—The table of chapters for subtitle VI of title 31, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end the following:

"99. Democratic Stewardship of Federal Equity Interests.....9901".

(2) in subsection (d)(7), by inserting before the semicolon at the end the following: ", if the fund satisfies section 9906"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(k) Democratic stewardship of equity investments.—An investment decision under paragraph (6) or (7) of subsection (d) shall be made in accordance with section 9905, and each Federal voting interest attributable to such an investment is subject to chapter 99.".

(d) Appropriations.—

(1) Startup appropriation.—There is appropriated to the Department of the Treasury, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, $150,000,000 for fiscal year 2027, to remain available through September 30, 2029, to establish the Office of Federal Equity Stewardship and carry out startup implementation of chapter 99 of title 31, United States Code.

(2) Ongoing appropriation.—In addition to amounts appropriated under paragraph (1), there are appropriated to the Department of the Treasury, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary for fiscal year 2027 and each fiscal year thereafter to operate the Office of Federal Equity Stewardship and carry out chapter 99 of title 31, United States Code, to remain available until expended.

(e) Effective date.—The amendments made by subsection (c) shall take effect immediately after the amendments made by section 612(e).

SEC. 301. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds that—

(1) The United States spends more per person on health care than any other industrialized nation, yet tens of millions of people remain uninsured or underinsured and health outcomes often lag behind those of peer nations.

(2) Health care prices in the United States have risen faster than wages and general inflation for many families, employers, and public programs, placing growing pressure on household budgets and the general welfare of the United States.

(3) Prices for the same health care items and services vary widely across payers, providers, and geographic areas in ways that often bear little relation to quality, outcomes, or underlying cost.

(4) Concentration, consolidation, vertical integration, and market power among hospitals, physician groups, insurers, pharmacy benefit managers, drug companies, and other health care intermediaries have reduced competition and increased the ability of dominant firms to demand excessive prices and impose unfair terms.

(5) Excessive commercial health care prices are a principal driver of national health care spending growth, suppress wages, strain employer-sponsored coverage, and increase Federal and State fiscal burdens.

(6) Most patients are unable to shop effectively for health care on the basis of price because medical needs are often urgent, prices are opaque, networks are restrictive, billing practices are confusing, and consumers lack meaningful bargaining power. As a result, many Americans can do little more than watch helplessly as premiums, deductibles, copayments, drug prices, and other health care costs rise year after year.

(7) Accordingly, a reasonable person could conclude from these conditions that the health care system is stacked against them.

(b) Purpose.—The purposes of this title are—

(1) to promote the general welfare of the United States by establishing universal health care;

(2) to restrain consolidation, profiteering, and other practices that inflate health care prices and prevent people from obtaining needed care; and

(3) to unstack the health care system.

SEC. 302. RELATIVE TO EXCHANGE PREMIUM SUBSIDIES.

(a) Extension of enhanced premium assistance.—Section 36B of title 26, United States Code, is amended—

(4) in subsection (c)(1)(E), by striking "January 1, 2026" and inserting "January 1, 2029".

(b) Repeal of eligibility restriction relating to employer-sponsored coverage.—Section 5000A(f)(1)(B) of title 26, United States Code, disallowing refundable credits for health insurance through the Health Insurance Exchange under section 36B of title 26 when a minimally qualified employer-sponsored plan is available, is repealed.

SEC. 313. ESTABLISHING A PRICE CEILING ON MEDICAL SERVICES.

(a) Congress finds that—

(1) prices for identical health care items and services vary widely across payers in the United States;

(2) such price variation is primarily driven by market concentration, consolidation, and price discrimination, rather than differences in quality or outcomes;

(3) excessive commercial prices are a principal driver of national health care spending growth and employer health costs; and

(4) establishing a uniform maximum lawful price for covered health care items and services across all payers will reduce costs, improve equity, and preserve patient choice of provider.

(b) Definitions.—In this section:

(1) Ceiling price.—The term "ceiling price" means, with respect to a health care item or service, the Medicare reimbursement rate multiplied by 1.20, exclusive of any tax, duty, fee, or other charge that is imposed for remittance to a Federal, State, or local government with respect to the furnishing of, or payment for, such item or service.

(2) Health care item or service.—The term "health care item or service" means any item or service for medical, surgical, behavioral, preventive, rehabilitative, habilitative, diagnostic, therapeutic, palliative, maternity, or supportive care.

(3) Medicare reimbursement rate.—The term "Medicare reimbursement rate" means, with respect to a health care item or service—

(A) prior to January 1, 2028, the amount that would be payable for such item or service if furnished to an individual entitled to benefits under part A of title XVIII of the Social Security Act or enrolled under part B of such title pursuant to—

(i) section 1848 of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395w-4);

(ii) section 1833(t) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395l(t));

(iii) section 1886(d) of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395ww(d)); or

(iv) any other applicable payment system under title XVIII of such Act (42 U.S.C. 1395 et seq.);

(B) on and after January 1, 2028, the amount payable under the national fee schedule established under section 326(d)(1)(A); and

(C) if no amount is clearly established under subparagraph (A) or (B), an amount established by the Secretary using a comparable Federal health care payment methodology.

(4) Payer.—The term "payer" means any group health plan, health insurance issuer, employer-sponsored plan, plans or coverage subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, third-party administrator, governmental payer, or other entity that finances or reimburses health care items or services.

(5) Provider.—The term "provider" means any hospital, physician, practitioner, facility, or other person or entity that furnishes health care items or services.

(6) Secretary.—The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Health and Human Services.

(c) Establishment and review of Medicare reimbursement rates.—

(1) In general.—The Secretary shall ensure that a Medicare reimbursement rate is established and in effect for all health care items and services for purposes of this title.

(2) Pediatric and children's services.—In carrying out paragraph (1), the Secretary shall affirmatively review and, as necessary, establish or update Medicare reimbursement rates for health care items and services primarily or disproportionately furnished to infants, children, or adolescents, including neonatal, pediatric, and adolescent care.

(3) Methodology.—In establishing or updating Medicare reimbursement rates under this subsection, the Secretary may—

(A) apply Medicare payment methodologies under title XVIII of the Social Security Act;

(B) apply Medicaid or Children's Health Insurance Program payment methodologies under title XIX or title XXI of such Act;

(C) use relative value, diagnosis-related group, or prospective payment principles consistent with Federal health care payment systems; and

(D) make such adjustments as are necessary to ensure access to care and the continued operation of essential providers.

(d) Single-price requirement.—

(1) In general.—Beginning July 1, 2027, a provider may not charge, and a payer may not pay, an amount in excess of the applicable ceiling price for any health care item or service. In determining whether such ceiling price has been exceeded, the total amount charged or paid, directly or indirectly, for a health care item or service shall be aggregated without regard to form, timing, recipient, or allocation.

(2) Balance billing prohibited.—A provider furnishing a health care item or service may not bill, charge, seek, collect, or receive from an individual, or from any other person on behalf of an individual, any amount in excess of the ceiling price, except for cost-sharing expressly permitted under Federal law.

(3) Contract terms void.—Any contract, agreement, or arrangement that purports to authorize payment or collection in excess of the ceiling price for a health care item or service shall be void as against public policy and unenforceable to the extent of such excess. The remainder of the contract shall remain enforceable.

(4) Preemption.—This section shall supersede any provision of State law, contract, or other agreement to the extent that such provision permits the charging or payment of an amount in excess of the applicable ceiling price, or otherwise frustrates the application of this section.

(5) Anti-evasion.—It shall be a violation of this subsection for a provider or payer, directly or indirectly, to evade or attempt to evade the requirements of this section.

(6) Rulemaking.—The Secretary shall issue interim final rules to carry out this section not later than March 31, 2027. The interim final rules shall take effect upon publication in the Federal Register, shall have the force and effect of law, and may be issued without regard to section 553 of title 5, United States Code.

(A) Public comment and final rules.—The Secretary shall provide a public comment period of not less than 60 days after publication of the interim final rules and shall issue final rules not later than 2 years after the date on which the interim final rules are issued.

(B) No delay.—A delay in issuance or finalization of rules under this paragraph shall not delay, limit, extinguish, or reduce any protection, prohibition, or duty established by this section beginning July 1, 2027.

(e) Enforcement and penalties.—

(1) Overpayment recovery.—Any amount paid in excess of the applicable ceiling price for a health care item or service shall be unlawful and treated as an overpayment. The Secretary may order restitution, refunds, and other appropriate monetary relief, including—

(A) reimbursement to a payer of any amount paid in excess of the ceiling price;

(B) refund to an individual, or to any other person who made payment on behalf of an individual, of any amount paid in excess of the ceiling price; and

(C) payment of interest on such excess amount, calculated from the date of payment at a rate determined by the Secretary.

(2) Civil monetary penalties.—

(A) In general.—The Secretary may impose on a provider or payer that violates subsection (d) a civil monetary penalty not to exceed the greater of—

(i) $10,000 for each claim, bill, or transaction involved in the violation; or

(ii) 3 times the amount charged or paid above the applicable ceiling price.

(B) Continuing violation.—A failure to provide a required refund or otherwise correct a violation after notice from the Secretary shall constitute a separate violation for each day during which the failure continues, subject to a penalty not exceeding $10,000 for each such day.

(C) Enhanced penalties.—The maximum amounts under subparagraphs (A) and (B) shall be doubled for a repeated, reckless, or knowing violation.

(3) Equitable relief.—The Secretary may bring a civil action in an appropriate United States district court to obtain temporary, preliminary, or permanent injunctive relief, specific performance, rescission, reformation, disgorgement, restitution, or such other equitable relief as may be appropriate to enforce this section.

(4) FTC enforcement.—Any repeated, reckless, or knowing violation of subsection (d) shall constitute an unfair, deceptive, abusive act or practice in or affecting commerce under section 5(a) of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 45(a)). The Federal Trade Commission shall enforce this paragraph in the same manner, by the same means, and with the same jurisdiction, powers, and duties as though all applicable terms and provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act were incorporated into and made a part of this section.

(5) Audits and compliance authority.—The Secretary may conduct audits, inspect and copy records, require the submission of data, compel responses to interrogatories, require corrective action plans, and take such other actions as are necessary to monitor and secure compliance with this section.

(6) Complaints process.—The Secretary shall establish a process through which individuals, payers, employers, employees, contractors, and other persons may submit complaints, information, and documentary evidence regarding violations of this section. The Secretary may keep the identity of a complainant confidential to the extent practicable and consistent with law.

(7) Whistleblower and anti-retaliation protections.—A provider, payer, or other person may not discharge, demote, suspend, threaten, harass, deny payment to, refuse to contract with, discriminate against, or otherwise retaliate against any employee, contractor, agent, patient, enrollee, or other person because such person—

(A) provided information to the Secretary, the Federal Trade Commission, a State attorney general, or any other Federal or State agency concerning a possible violation of this section;

(B) testified, assisted, or participated in an investigation, audit, administrative proceeding, or judicial proceeding concerning a possible violation of this section; or

(C) refused to participate in conduct that such person reasonably believed would violate this section.

(f) Global budget carveout.—Beginning January 1, 2028, this section shall not apply to any health care item or service furnished by an institutional provider to the extent payment for such item or service is made under section 326(c) of the POPULIST Act.

(g) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to amend, modify, or otherwise affect the operation of the Medicare program under title XVIII of the Social Security Act.

Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act), a public health emergency, or other similar or unexpected catastrophe or similar situation).

"(vii) Application of certain provisions.—The provisions of section 1128A (other than subsections (a) and (b) of such section) shall apply to a civil monetary penalty imposed under this subparagraph in the same manner as such provisions apply to a civil monetary penalty imposed under subsection (a) of such section.

SEC. 401. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Since the COVID-19 pandemic, rent and housing prices have increased by 30–40 percent. Surveys in 2024 found that 67 percent of Americans believed homeownership is an unrealistic milestone for young people, and that 54 percent of renters who could not afford to buy a home believed they were unlikely ever to be able to do so. In short, millions of citizens have rationally concluded the housing system is stacked against them.

(2) The United States faces a persistent shortfall of housing, estimated to be more than 4,000,000 dwellings. Good public policy must expand supply while curbing market practices that artificially inflate housing costs, including large-scale housing acquisitions by institutional investors. The New York Times has reported: "In 2025, investors accounted for 30.2 percent of all home purchases, a surge from 16.1 percent in 2020."

(3) The use of algorithmic systems and data-sharing arrangements to coordinate rents or occupancy can constitute anticompetitive conduct in violation of long-standing public policy.

(4) Financial literacy support and counseling can help struggling households being pushed into avoidable foreclosure, eviction, or financial distress by extractive economic factors. Inaccurate home valuations can also block wealth-building and distort local housing markets; consumers should have meaningful processes to seek reconsideration and accountability.

(5) Public housing is a critical national asset that has been chronically underfunded, languished under the Faircloth Amendment, and exposed to privatization pressures. Improving existing units, expanding supply, and strengthening tenant protections, tenant participation, and a tenant return guarantee during rehabilitation and redevelopment can provide more stable housing.

(6) Rural housing preservation and farmworker housing are essential to economic stability and food systems, yet rural affordability is being lost. Federal policy can revitalize aging housing stock and preserve affordability.

(7) Federal housing policy can remove bottlenecks that slow building, inflate costs, or lock scarce housing into red tape, including by accelerating repairs, enabling construction, modernizing reviews, and aligning incentives so communities that add housing are rewarded rather than punished.

(8) Supply strategies should include converting underused structures into housing, including by piloting programs that turn blight into attainable homes while protecting safety and habitability.

(9) Manufactured and modular construction can lower costs, reduce waste, and speed delivery, but fragmented rules, financing barriers, and outdated definitions constrain scale; Federal policy can modernize standards, expand financing pathways, and support offsite construction where it improves affordability and quality.

(10) Building abundant housing at scale may require new models of Federal production and leasing that are insulated from speculative resale dynamics, support community formation and mobility, and can recoup public investment over time through predictable lease revenue.

(11) To truly generate an abundance of housing in a post-jubilee framework, the United States should study the feasibility of building a modern metropolis in the heartland of the country. Such a city could provide a symbol of the United States' manufacturing ability and productive capacity for the 21st century.

(b) Purpose.—The purpose of this title is to unstack the system of housing in the United States.

SEC. 402. FEASIBILITY STUDY FOR A NEW MODERN METROPOLIS.

(a) In general.—The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, in coordination with the Secretary of Transportation, the Secretary of Energy, the Secretary of Defense, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and other appropriate Federal officials, shall conduct a comprehensive study on the feasibility of establishing a newly planned city in the vicinity of North Platte, Nebraska.

(b) Purpose.—The study shall evaluate the feasibility of constructing a large-scale, purpose-built metropolitan area designed to advance national resilience, economic productivity, technological innovation, democratic governance, and long-term human sustainability.

(c) Areas of evaluation.—The study shall evaluate, at a minimum, the following:

(1) Geographic suitability, including climate stability, water access, agricultural capacity, seismic and environmental risk, and long-term habitability.

(2) Transportation connectivity, including the feasibility of constructing high-speed rail connections radiating from the site to major metropolitan areas, including Atlanta, Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, Minneapolis, New York City, Phoenix, San Francisco, Seattle, St. Louis, and Washington, D.C.

(3) The feasibility of constructing an international airport capable of serving as a primary continental aviation hub, including dual-use infrastructure capable of supporting aerospace launch facilities.

(4) Energy infrastructure, including the development of a fully electrified grid powered by advanced nuclear, geothermal, solar, wind, and energy storage systems sufficient to operate the city with net-zero or net-positive emissions.

(5) Water infrastructure, including aquifer sustainability, large-scale recycling, and closed-loop water systems.

(6) Digital infrastructure, including universal fiber connectivity, public data utilities, secure communications architecture, and resilient cybersecurity systems.

(7) Housing and urban design, including high-density walkable districts, modular construction systems, public transit integration, and integration with American Union housing models.

(8) Industrial and economic development capacity, including siting of public production facilities, cooperative enterprises, research laboratories, and advanced manufacturing centers.

(9) Agricultural integration, including surrounding arable land sufficient to partially support regional food production and integration with regenerative agriculture systems.

(10) Governance models, including options for charter structures, municipal autonomy, direct democratic mechanisms, and coordination with Federal authorities.

(11) Public health infrastructure, including integrated hospital systems, medical research facilities, and distributed medical manufacturing capability.

(12) National security implications, including strategic redundancy of coastal population centers and critical infrastructure decentralization.

(13) International engagement potential, including the feasibility of hosting global institutions, scientific assemblies, and international organizations.

(14) The feasibility of such city serving as a future national capital.

(d) Phased development.—The study shall evaluate phased construction scenarios, including initial development for 250,000 residents, expansion to 1,000,000 residents, and long-term capacity beyond 5,000,000 residents.

(e) Cost and financing.—The study shall evaluate estimated capital costs, financing mechanisms including potential financing through the National Infrastructure Bank established under section 642 of this Act, revenue generation models, and long-term fiscal sustainability.

(f) Report.—Not later than January 1, 2028, the Secretary shall submit to Congress and make publicly available a report containing findings, cost estimates, risk assessments, and legislative recommendations.

Subtitle B—Public Housing Protection and Revitalization

SEC. 421. FINDINGS.

Congress finds the following:

(1) The public housing stock of the United States, authorized under section 9 of the United States Housing Act of 1937, is a critical national resource that provides stable, deeply affordable housing to more than 1,000,000 households.

(2) For decades, Congress has failed to provide sufficient capital and operating assistance to maintain section 9 housing in a safe, sanitary, and habitable condition, resulting in a national capital-needs backlog exceeding tens of billions of dollars and widespread health and safety hazards including mold, lead, asbestos, failing heating and cooling systems, and structural deterioration.

(3) The Faircloth Amendment has prevented the construction of any net-new public housing units since 1999, even as the national population has grown and the shortage of deeply affordable housing has worsened, leaving millions of households cost-burdened or at risk of homelessness.

(4) The Rental Assistance Demonstration program and other privatization tools, including section 18 demolition and disposition authorities, have resulted in the permanent removal of section 9 units, displacement of tenants, diminished democratic control, and the transfer of public assets into private hands.

(5) A comprehensive national strategy to restore, expand, and modernize public housing is necessary to guarantee safe, healthy, climate-resilient, permanently affordable homes for all current and future residents.

(6) Investment in public housing creates high-quality jobs, stabilizes neighborhoods, reduces environmental harms, improves public health outcomes, and strengthens social trust by ensuring that all residents, regardless of income, have access to secure and dignified housing.

(7) Congress therefore declares that it is the policy of the United States to rehabilitate existing public housing, to construct new public housing at scale, to prevent displacement of current residents, to ensure tenant participation in planning and oversight, to provide a tenant return guarantee following redevelopment, and to maintain public ownership and permanent affordability of all housing units developed or modernized under this subtitle.

(a) Moratorium.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no public housing agency, and no officer, employee, contractor, or agent acting on its behalf, may initiate, apply for, enter into, execute, or carry out any conversion, section 18 action, demolition, disposition, or transfer of assistance with respect to any public housing unit or development prior to January 1, 2029.

(b) Prohibited actions.—Actions prohibited under subsection (a) include any of the following:

(c) Application to ROAD amendments.—During the moratorium period described in subsection (a), section 212 of the 21st Century ROAD to Housing Act (Public Law 119–101), and any amendment made by that section, shall not authorize the Secretary, a public housing agency, or any owner, contractor, developer, lender, or other party to initiate, apply for, enter into, execute, carry out, or cause to take effect any conversion, section 18 action, demolition, disposition, or transfer of assistance prohibited under this section. No property right, owner right, contract right, approval, financing expectation, or administrative authority preserved or recognized under such section 212 may be construed to override, limit, delay, or narrow the moratorium established under this section.

(d) Limited exception for emergency conditions.—The Secretary may authorize a temporary relocation of residents and related repairs if the Secretary determines that such action is necessary for the immediate protection of life, health, or safety. If the Secretary determines in writing, based on an independent engineering assessment, that repair of a building presenting an imminent threat to life, health, or safety is physically infeasible, the Secretary may authorize demolition and replacement of the building. Any demolition and replacement authorized under this subsection shall comply with the tenant relocation, return, and one-for-one replacement requirements of section 425. Any action authorized under this subsection shall not result in permanent displacement, a net reduction in public housing units, or permanent removal of the affected housing or replacement housing from assistance under section 9.

(e) Effect on existing agreements.—No agreement, contract, or approval previously issued that would otherwise permit an action prohibited under subsection (a) may take effect during the moratorium period unless the Secretary determines that such action is strictly necessary to address an imminent threat to life, health, or safety under subsection (d).

(f) Enforcement.—Any violation of this section shall be subject to the enforcement authorities of the Secretary, including the suspension or withholding of assistance, imposition of corrective action plans, and any additional remedies authorized under the United States Housing Act of 1937.

"(vi) a description of any area of the appraisal report that may be unsupported, may be deficient due to an unacceptable appraisal practice, or may reflect discrimination;

"(vii) any additional information or data, including not more than 5 alternative comparable properties and the related data sources that the consumer would like the appraiser to consider;

"(viii) an explanation of why the new information, data, or comparable properties support the reconsideration of value;

"(ix) a definition of turn-time expectations for the appraiser to communicate the reconsideration of value results back to the creditor;

"(x) instructions for delivering the reconsideration of value response as part of a revised appraisal report that includes commentary on conclusions regardless of the outcome; and

"(xi) a reference for appraisers on how to correct minor appraisal issues or nonmaterial errors not related to the reconsideration of value process.

"(3) Subsequent appraisal and referral.—

"(A) In general.—If the creditor identifies material deficiencies in the appraisal report that are not corrected or addressed by the appraiser upon request of the creditor, including through a consumer-initiated reconsideration of value, or if there is evidence of unsupported or unacceptable appraisal practices, the creditor shall—

"(i) at the request of the consumer, order a subsequent appraisal at the creditor's own expense; and

"(ii) forward the appraisal report and the creditor's summary of findings to the appropriate appraisal licensing agency or regulatory board.

"(B) Discrimination.—If the creditor has reason to believe that an appraisal report reflects discrimination, the creditor shall—

"(i) order a subsequent appraisal at the creditor's own expense;

"(ii) forward the appraisal report and the creditor's summary of findings to the appropriate local, State, or Federal enforcement agency.

"(C) Appraiser reimbursement.—Upon a final determination of discrimination by the appropriate local, State, or Federal enforcement agency, the appraiser shall reimburse the creditor for the reasonable cost of the subsequent appraisal ordered under subparagraph (B)(i).

"(D) Definition.—

"(i) In general.—Except as provided in clause (ii), in this paragraph, the term 'reason to believe' means that the creditor has reviewed the applicable law and available evidence and determined that a potential violation of Federal or State antidiscrimination law exists.

"(ii) Exception.—The term 'reason to believe' does not mean that there is a final legal determination of discrimination.

"(4) Document retention.—The creditor shall retain all documentation and written communications related to the request for reconsideration of value or subsequent appraisal in the loan file during the 7-year period beginning on the date on which the consumer submitted the credit application.

"(5) Rule of construction.—This subsection is consistent with the exceptions to the appraiser independence requirements found in subsection (c). Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to require a creditor to submit a reconsideration of value to the original appraiser before ordering a subsequent appraisal from a subsequent appraiser.".

(2) Rules and interpretative guidelines.—Section 129E(g) of the Truth in Lending Act (15 U.S.C. 1639e(g)) is amended—

(A) in paragraph (1), by striking "paragraph (2)" and inserting "paragraphs (2) and (3)"; and

(B) by adding at the end the following:

"(3) Interim final regulations.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this paragraph, the Federal Housing Finance Agency shall prescribe interim final regulations to carry out subsection (j). Such regulations shall take effect upon publication in the Federal Register. The Federal Housing Finance Agency may prescribe such regulations without regard to the notice and comment requirements of section 553 of title 5, United States Code, but shall provide a public comment period of not less than 60 days after publication. Such regulations shall be deemed to be regulations prescribed by the agencies jointly under paragraph (1).".

SEC. 444. HOUSING-FIRST PERFORMANCE SAFEGUARDS.

(a) In general.—Section 422 of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11382) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(k) Housing-first performance safeguards; due process.—

"(1) In general.—For purposes of any determination under this part that a project is underperforming or should be replaced or denied renewal, a project may be determined to be underperforming only in accordance with objective performance measures established by the Secretary by notice or regulation.

"(2) Housing-first alignment.—The measures under paragraph (1) shall prioritize outcomes related to placement into permanent housing and retention of permanent housing, and shall not condition project eligibility, participant eligibility, or continued funding on participant compliance with treatment, medication, services participation, sobriety, employment, curfews, or other behavioral requirements unrelated to health and safety.

"(3) Notice and opportunity to improve.—Before a collaborative applicant may recommend or seek the replacement or nonrenewal of a project, the collaborative applicant shall provide the project sponsor with written notice describing the basis for the determination, the data relied upon, and the actions required to remedy identified deficiencies, and shall provide not less than 90 days for the project sponsor to submit a corrective action plan and demonstrate measurable improvement, unless the Secretary determines that an imminent threat to health or safety requires immediate action.

"(4) Appeal.—A project sponsor may appeal a determination under paragraph (1) to the Secretary in accordance with procedures established by the Secretary, and the Secretary shall provide for an expedited determination for purposes of an applicable award or renewal decision.".

(b) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the Secretary from establishing performance measures that account for the differing needs and barriers of subpopulations served, including individuals with serious mental illness, substance use disorders, chronic health conditions, or high-service needs.

Subtitle E—American Union Housing

SEC. 451. FINDINGS AND PURPOSES.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) The United States faces a persistent shortage of affordable, stable housing that undermines economic security, labor mobility, family formation, and community stability.

(2) Long-term public ownership of residential housing, coupled with standardized leasing and predictable costs, can provide durable affordability without reliance on speculative real estate markets.

(3) The construction and leasing of federally owned housing can recoup public investment over time and generate stable, long-term revenue for the Federal Government.

(4) Purpose-built residential buildings that include shared community space can facilitate voluntary community formation, mutual support, democratic self-governance, and collective problem-solving.

(5) Housing is a form of essential national infrastructure, comparable to transportation, energy, and communications infrastructure, and its provision serves interstate commerce, national labor mobility, and the general welfare of the United States.

(6) A parallel Federal housing production and allocation system can expand housing supply, support geographic mobility, and complement existing housing assistance programs without replacing them.

(7) Federally owned housing developed under this subtitle can be paired with public production facilities, cooperative enterprises, educational initiatives, and reindustrialization programs to promote employment, resilience, and shared prosperity.

(b) Purposes.—The purposes of this subtitle are—

(1) to establish a Federal program for the development of standardized, affordable residential housing which will remain permanently outside speculative resale and ownership markets;

(2) to provide a mechanism for groups of individuals with a common interest or goal to coalesce and form real world communities; and

(3) to recoup public investment in housing construction and operations and generate long-term public revenue in a way that promotes the general welfare of the United States.

(c) Land acquisition.—The Director shall, to the fullest extent possible, utilize existing Federal real property for the construction of American Union housing, including any Federal real property made available for use to assist the homeless pursuant to title V of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11411 et seq.), but is authorized to purchase property if necessary.

(1) Gifts.—The Director may accept donations of real property to the Office which are conditioned on the construction of American Union housing on such property; provided that if the gift is linked to an eligible group and such housing is not for general allocation, construction shall not begin until such group reaches the front of the housing queue.

(d) Construction.—The Director shall, to the fullest extent possible, construct American Union housing utilizing the employment program established under title VIII of this Act.

(1) In general.—A lease under this section shall have an initial term of 5 years, except in the case of American Union housing built on land acquired under section 455(c)(1), in which case the Director may require a lease of up to 20 years.

(2) Renewal.—Upon expiration of the initial term, the lease shall be presumptively renewable in successive 1-year increments, subject to compliance with this subtitle.

(3) Residential lease rates.—The lease shall be at standardized rates and set by the Director by rule at an amount based on one-third of the aggregate payments payable under the American Union Jobs Program (42 U.S.C. 1398a et seq.) to or for the members of the eligible group and members of their households; provided that the Director shall establish a minimum threshold to reflect the population mix for which the building is designed, and the departure of members may not reduce the rate below such threshold.

(4) Nonresidential or commercial space.—Paragraph (3) shall not limit a separately stated charge for the lease or use of nonresidential or commercial space in a five-over-one or similar structure.

(e) Internal governance.—

(1) Autonomy.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the Director shall not regulate the internal governance, membership criteria, internal allocation of units, or internal decision making of a community occupancy group.

(2) Minimum requirements.—Each eligible group shall, prior to community occupancy, adopt internal rules addressing—

SEC. 501. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) A jubilee can restore economic agency for many millions of people by reducing the power of debt and the influence of private financial wizardry, but such agency cannot be fully secured unless ordinary people also regain control over the information systems used to shape public discourse in the United States.

(2) Vertical integration of dominant media firms in entertainment production, distribution, and streaming limits competition and facilitates the warehousing of intellectual property. These gatekeepers restrict access to many of our greatest cultural works, including characters and stories shared across generations of Americans.

(3) The concentration of media ownership and the dependence of news organizations on dominant digital distribution platforms has weakened local journalism. News deserts have proliferated, and a 2024 report found most US counties now have no more than 1 local news source.

(4) When the channels of information and public debate are controlled by a small number of private gatekeepers, the citizenry lacking the gate keys—disposable income—frequently forgo access. A reasonable person could conclude that the media system is stacked against ordinary people.

(5) Alphabet, Amazon, Apple, Meta, and Microsoft have collectively acquired more than 1,000 companies in the 21st century, echoing the anticompetitive behavior of the 19th century industrial trusts. The acquisition of technical teams, accumulation of data and intellectual property, and absorption of nascent competitors have created technological titans with vast platform power over the digital lives of Americans.

(6) The business model of dominant platforms often depends on the extraction of user data and the monetization of personal and intimate information about users' lives. Lack of data portability locks users into dominant platforms and contributes to the inability of competition to discipline abusive conduct.

(7) "Free" services, where user data is the actual product, frequently incorporate addictive digital designs to encourage compulsive behavior, promoting the profitability of surveillance advertising rather than the well-being of users, communities, or democratic self-government.

(8) The rise of social media platforms and their algorithmic recommendations has corresponded with a sharp rise in youth suicides since 2009; artificial intelligence chatbots designed to simulate emotional attachment and intimacy may further deepen dangerous digital dependency. Heartbroken parents seeking accountability for children harmed by social media's algorithmic recommendations have faced platform claims that section 230 of the Communications Act entitles them to immunity for their actions.

(9) A reasonable consumer could conclude from the market power of dominant digital platforms, the opacity of algorithmic systems, the extraction of personal data, the manipulation of attention, and the inability of Congress to pass meaningful regulation of artificial intelligence that big tech has stacked the political and economic systems of the United States in their favor and against ordinary people.

(b) Purpose.—The purposes of this title are—

(1) to break up concentrated power, restore user control and limit data extraction, strengthen local media, protect vulnerable children, establish clear national policy about artificial intelligence, and make democratic life less dependent on dominant platforms; and

(2) to unstack the media and big tech.

SEC. 502. LIMITATION ON SECTION 230 IMMUNITY FOR PROMOTED CONTENT.

(a) Limitation on immunity for promoted content.—Section 230 of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 230) is amended—

(1) in subsection (c)(1) to read as follows:

"(1) No provider or user of an interactive computer service shall be treated as the publisher or speaker of any information provided by another information content provider, except to the extent that such provider or user affirmatively acts to prioritize or promote the visibility or distribution of such information."; and

(2) in subsection (f) by inserting at the end the following new paragraphs:

"(5) Affirmatively acting to prioritize or promote.—

"(A) In general.—The term 'affirmatively acting to prioritize or promote' means action by the provider of an interactive computer service, or by a user acting through paid promotion or other compensated means, to recommend, rank, amplify, auto-play, auto-advance, trend, or otherwise materially increase the prominence or distribution of information provided by another information content provider.

"(B) Exceptions.—The term does not include—

"(i) passive presentation; or

"(ii) the good-faith removal, restriction, filtering, or blocking of spam, fraud, malware, material described in subsection (c)(2)(A), unlawful material, or material that poses a security threat.

"(6) Passive presentation.—The term 'passive presentation' means displaying or otherwise presenting information provided by another information content provider in response to a specific user request or according to chronological order, subscription choices, votes, follows, reposts, or other user-selected display methods, without the provider materially altering such presentation in order to increase engagement through ranking, recommendation, amplification, or other promotion.".

SEC. 503. TICKETING INTEGRITY AND REFUND TRANSPARENCY.

(a) Definitions.—In this section:

(1) Covered entity.—The term "covered entity" means—

(A) any person or entity that sells or offers for sale tickets to a sporting event, theater performance, musical performance, or event at a place of public amusement of any kind as a primary seller and that determines or controls the number of tickets released for public sale; or

(B) any person or entity that sells or offers for sale such tickets in a secondary marketplace.

(2) Mandatory fee.—The term "mandatory fee" includes any fee or surcharge that a consumer is required to pay to purchase a ticket, that is not reasonably avoidable, or that a reasonable consumer would not expect to be included with the purchase of the ticket.

(b) Ticketing integrity.—

(1) Ticket release disclosure.—A covered entity described in subsection (a)(1)(A) shall, not less than 72 hours prior to the first public sale or presale of tickets for an event, clearly and conspicuously disclose to the public, including at the point of sale, the total number of tickets offered for sale or otherwise made available for such event.

(2) Speculative ticketing.—If a covered entity described in subsection (a)(1)(B) offers a ticket for sale without possessing the ticket at the time of sale, the covered entity shall—

(A) clearly and conspicuously disclose to the consumer that the covered entity does not possess the ticket; and

(B) if the covered entity cannot provide the ticket to the consumer sufficiently in advance of the event to permit meaningful use of the ticket, provide a full refund to the consumer sufficiently in advance of the event to permit meaningful use of the refund, including by purchasing a replacement ticket.

(c) Refund transparency.—

(1) Disclosure of policies.—A covered entity shall clearly and conspicuously disclose any guarantee, refund, or cancellation policy applicable to a ticket prior to completion of a transaction by the consumer.

(2) Refund amount.—A refund required under subsection (b)(2)(B) shall be in the total amount paid by the consumer for the ticket, including any mandatory fees.

(d) Enforcement.—

(1) Unfair, deceptive, or abusive acts or practices.—A violation of this section shall be an unfair, deceptive, or abusive act or practice.

(2) Enforcement by the Commission.—The Federal Trade Commission shall enforce this section in the same manner, by the same means, and with the same jurisdiction, powers, and duties as though all applicable terms and provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 41 et seq.) were incorporated into and made a part of this section.

(3) Authority preserved.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the authority of the Federal Trade Commission under any other provision of law.

(4) Enforcement by States.—If the attorney general of a State has reason to believe that a covered entity has violated or is violating this section in a manner that affects the residents of that State, the State, as parens patriae, may bring a civil action in any appropriate district court of the United States to—

(A) enjoin any further violation by the covered entity;

(B) enforce compliance with this section;

(C) obtain other remedies permitted under State law; and

(D) obtain damages, restitution, or other compensation on behalf of residents of the State.

(5) Notice.—The attorney general of a State shall provide prior written notice of any action under paragraph (4) to the Commission and provide the Commission with a copy of the complaint in the action, except in any case in which such prior notice is not feasible, in which case the attorney general shall serve such notice immediately upon instituting such action.

(6) Intervention by the Commission.—Upon receiving notice under paragraph (5), the Commission may—

(A) intervene in the action;

(B) upon so intervening, be heard on all matters arising therein; and

(C) file petitions for appeal.

(7) Limitation on State action while Federal action is pending.—If the Commission has instituted a civil action for a violation of this section, no State attorney general, official, or agency may bring a separate action under paragraph (4) during the pendency of that action against any defendant named in the complaint of the Commission for any violation of this section that is alleged in the complaint. A State attorney general, official, or agency may join a civil action for a violation of this section filed by the Commission.

(8) Rule of construction.—For purposes of bringing a civil action under paragraph (4), nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the chief law enforcement officer or official or agency of a State from exercising the powers conferred on such chief law enforcement officer or official or agency of a State by the laws of the State to conduct investigations, administer oaths or affirmations, or compel the attendance of witnesses or the production of documentary or other evidence.

SEC. 504. NATIONAL DIGITAL LIBRARY ACQUISITION.

(a) Definitions.—In this section:

(P) With respect to covered data collected in accordance with this subtitle, notwithstanding this exception, to process such data as necessary to provide non-targeted first party advertising or marketing of products or services provided by the covered entity for individuals who are not covered minors.

(3) Guidance.—Not later than July 1, 2027, the Commission shall issue guidance regarding what is reasonably necessary and proportionate to comply with this subsection. Such guidance shall take into consideration—

(A) the size of, and the nature, scope, and complexity of the activities engaged in by, the covered entity, including whether the covered entity is a large data holder, nonprofit organization, covered entity meeting the requirements of section 563(e)(2), third party, or third-party collecting entity;

(B) the sensitivity of covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity;

(C) the volume of covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity; and

(D) the number of individuals and devices to which the covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity relates.

(4) Deceptive marketing.—A covered entity or service provider may not engage in deceptive advertising or marketing with respect to a product or service offered to an individual.

(5) Journalism.—Nothing in this subtitle shall be construed to limit or diminish First Amendment freedoms guaranteed under the Constitution.

(b) Loyalty duties.—Notwithstanding subsection (a) and unless an exception applies, with respect to covered data, a covered entity or service provider may not—

(1) collect, process, or transfer a Social Security number, except when necessary to facilitate an extension of credit, authentication, fraud and identity fraud detection and prevention, the payment or collection of taxes, the enforcement of a contract between parties, or the prevention, investigation, or prosecution of fraud or illegal activity, or as otherwise required by Federal, State, or local law;

(2) transfer covered data to a third party unless—

(A) the transfer is strictly necessary to provide a specific product or service requested by the individual to whom the covered data pertains;

(B) the transfer is made pursuant to the affirmative express consent of the individual;

(C) the transfer is strictly necessary to effect a purpose enumerated in subsection (a)(2)(E) through (O);

(D) with respect to a covered minor and subject to paragraph (5), the entity or service provider has knowledge that the individual is a covered minor and the transfer is made—

(i) pursuant to affirmative express consent obtained from—

(I) the covered minor, provided such minor is not a child; or

(II) the covered minor's parent; or

(ii) solely in order to submit information relating to victimization of a covered minor to law enforcement or an entity described in section 561(a)(10)(B)(iii); or

(E) the transfer is expressly required by Federal, State, Tribal, or local law;

(3) transfer covered data to a Federal, State, Tribal, territorial, or local government entity, or to any foreign governmental entity, unless—

(A) the transfer is made pursuant to a search warrant;

(B) the transfer is expressly required by Federal, State, Tribal, territorial, or local law;

(C) the transfer is strictly necessary to prevent or respond to an imminent threat of death or serious physical injury; or

(D) the transfer is strictly necessary to effect a purpose enumerated in subsection (a)(2)(E), (G), (H), (I), or (O);

provided that a transfer under this paragraph may not be made for payment or other valuable consideration, except for reimbursement of reasonable costs incurred;

(4) collect or process sensitive covered data, except where such collection or processing is strictly necessary to provide or maintain a specific product or service requested by the individual to whom the covered data pertains, or is strictly necessary to effect a purpose enumerated in subsection (a)(2)(A) through (L) and (N) through (O);

(5) transfer an individual's sensitive covered data to a third party, unless—

(A) the transfer is made pursuant to the affirmative express consent of the individual;

(B) the transfer is necessary to comply with a legal obligation imposed by Federal, State, Tribal, or local law, or to establish, exercise, or defend legal claims;

(C) the transfer is necessary to prevent an individual from imminent injury where the covered entity believes in good faith that the individual is at risk of death, serious physical injury, or serious health risk;

(D) with respect to covered data collected in accordance with this subtitle, notwithstanding this exception, a service provider acting at the direction of a government entity, or a service provided to a government entity by a covered entity, and only insofar as authorized by statute, the transfer is necessary to prevent, detect, protect against or respond to a public safety incident including trespass, natural disaster, or national security incident. This paragraph does not permit, however, the transfer of covered data for payment or other valuable consideration to a government entity;

(E) in the case of the transfer of a password, the transfer is necessary to use a designated password manager or is to a covered entity for the exclusive purpose of identifying passwords that are being reused across sites or accounts;

(F) in the case of the transfer of genetic information, the transfer is necessary to perform a medical diagnosis or medical treatment specifically requested by an individual, or to conduct medical research in accordance with subsection (a)(2)(J); or

(G) to transfer assets in the manner described in subsection (a)(2)(M); or

(6) in the case of a provider of broadcast television service, cable service, satellite service, streaming media service, or other video programming service described in section 713(h)(2) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 613(h)(2)), transfer to an unaffiliated third party covered data that reveals the video content or services requested or selected by an individual from such service, except with the affirmative express consent of the individual or pursuant to one of the permissible purposes enumerated in subsection (a)(2)(A) through (O).

(c) Privacy by design.—

(1) Policies, practices, and procedures.—A covered entity and a service provider shall establish, implement, and maintain reasonable policies, practices, and procedures that reflect the role of the covered entity or service provider in the collection, processing, and transferring of covered data and that—

(A) consider applicable Federal laws, rules, or regulations related to covered data the covered entity or service provider collects, processes, or transfers;

(B) identify, assess, and mitigate privacy risks related to covered minors (including, if applicable, with respect to a covered entity that is not an entity meeting the requirements of section 563(e)(2), in a manner that considers the developmental needs of different age ranges of covered minors) to result in reasonably necessary and proportionate residual risk to covered minors;

(C) mitigate privacy risks, including substantial privacy risks, related to the products and services of the covered entity or the service provider, including in the design, development, and implementation of such products and services, taking into account the role of the covered entity or service provider and the information available to it; and

(D) implement reasonable training and safeguards within the covered entity and service provider to promote compliance with all privacy laws applicable to covered data the covered entity collects, processes, or transfers or covered data the service provider collects, processes, or transfers on behalf of the covered entity and mitigate privacy risks, including substantial privacy risks, taking into account the role of the covered entity or service provider and the information available to it.

(2) Factors to consider.—The policies, practices, and procedures established under paragraph (1) shall correspond with, as applicable—

(A) the size of the covered entity or the service provider and the nature, scope, and complexity of the activities engaged in by the covered entity or service provider, including whether the covered entity or service provider is a large data holder, nonprofit organization, entity meeting the requirements of section 563(e)(2), third party, or third-party collecting entity, taking into account the role of the covered entity or service provider and the information available to it;

(B) the sensitivity of the covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity or service provider;

(C) the volume of covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity or service provider;

(D) the number of individuals and devices to which the covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity or service provider relates; and

(E) the cost of implementing such policies, practices, and procedures in relation to the risks and nature of the covered data.

(3) Commission guidance.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this subtitle, the Commission shall issue guidance as to what constitutes reasonable policies, practices, and procedures as required by this subsection. The Commission shall consider unique circumstances applicable to nonprofit organizations, to entities meeting the requirements of section 563(e)(2), and to service providers.

(d) Loyalty with respect to pricing.—

(1) Retaliation prohibited.—A covered entity may not retaliate against an individual for exercising any of the protections established by this subtitle, or any regulations promulgated under this subtitle, including denying goods or services, charging different prices or rates for goods or services, or providing a different level of quality of goods or services.

(2) Rules of construction.—Nothing in paragraph (1) may be construed to—

(A) prohibit the relation of the price of a service or the level of service provided to an individual to the provision, by the individual, of financial information that is necessarily collected and processed only for the purpose of initiating, rendering, billing for, or collecting payment for a service or product requested by the individual;

(B) prohibit a covered entity from offering a different price, rate, level, quality or selection of goods or services to an individual, including offering goods or services for no fee, if—

(i) the offering is in connection with an individual's voluntary participation in a bona fide loyalty program; and

(ii) the covered entity does not collect, process, or transfer covered data beyond what is strictly necessary to administer such loyalty program;

(C) require a covered entity to provide a bona fide loyalty program that would require the covered entity to collect, process, or transfer covered data that the covered entity otherwise would not collect, process, or transfer;

(D) prohibit a covered entity from offering a financial incentive or other consideration to an individual for participation in market research;

(E) prohibit a covered entity from offering different types of pricing or functionalities with respect to a product or service based on an individual's exercise of a privilege under section 563(c)(1)(C); or

(F) prohibit a covered entity from declining to provide a product or service insofar as the collection and processing of covered data is strictly necessary for such product or service.

(3) Bona fide loyalty program defined.—For purposes of this subsection, the term "bona fide loyalty program" includes rewards, premium features, discount or club card programs.

SEC. 563. CONSUMER DATA CONTROLS.

(a) Consumer awareness.—

(1) In general.—Not later than 120 days after enactment of this Act, the Commission shall publish, on the public website of the Commission, a webpage that describes each provision, protection, obligation, and requirement of this subtitle, listed separately for individuals and for covered entities and service providers, and the remedies, exemptions, and protections associated with this subtitle, in plain and concise language and in an easy-to-understand manner.

(2) Updates.—The Commission shall update the information published under paragraph (1) on a quarterly basis as necessitated by any change in law, regulation, guidance, or judicial decisions.

(3) Accessibility.—The Commission shall publish the information required to be published under paragraph (1) in the 10 languages with the most users in the United States, according to the most recent United States Census.

(b) Transparency.—

(1) In general.—Each covered entity shall make publicly available, in a clear, conspicuous, not misleading, and easy-to-read and readily accessible manner, a privacy policy that provides a detailed and accurate representation of the data collection, processing, and transfer activities of the covered entity.

(2) Content of privacy policy.—A covered entity or service provider shall have a privacy policy that includes, at a minimum, the following:

(A) The identity and the contact information of—

(i) the covered entity or service provider to which the privacy policy applies (including the covered entity's or service provider's points of contact and generic electronic mail addresses, as applicable for privacy and data security inquiries); and

(ii) any other entity within the same corporate structure as the covered entity or service provider to which covered data is transferred by the covered entity.

(B) The categories of covered data the covered entity or service provider collects or processes.

(C) The processing purposes for each category of covered data the covered entity or service provider collects or processes.

(D) Whether the covered entity or service provider transfers covered data and, if so—

(i) each category of service provider and third party to which the covered entity or service provider transfers covered data;

(ii) the name of each third-party collecting entity to which the covered entity or service provider transfers covered data; and

(iii) the purposes for which such data is transferred to such categories of service providers and third parties or third-party collecting entities.

(E) The length of time the covered entity or service provider intends to retain each category of covered data, including sensitive covered data, including, where practicable, the exact date or dates on which the covered entity or service provider expects to delete or de-identify each such category of covered data, or, if it is not possible to identify that timeframe or exact date, the criteria used to determine the length of time the covered entity or service provider intends to retain categories of covered data.

(F) A prominent description of how an individual can exercise the privileges and protections established under this subtitle.

(G) A general description of the covered entity's or service provider's data security practices.

(H) The effective date of the privacy policy.

(3) Languages.—The privacy policy required under paragraph (1) shall be made available to the public in each covered language in which the covered entity or service provider—

(A) provides a product or service that is subject to the privacy policy; or

(B) carries out activities related to such product or service.

(4) Accessibility.—The covered entity or service provider shall also provide the disclosures under this subsection in a manner that is reasonably accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities.

(5) Material changes.—

(A) Affirmative express consent.—If a covered entity makes a material change to its privacy policy or practices, the covered entity shall notify each individual affected by such material change before implementing the material change with respect to any prospectively collected covered data and, except as provided in subparagraphs (A) through (O) of section 562(a)(2), provide a reasonable opportunity for each individual to withdraw consent to any further materially different collection, processing, or transfer of previously collected covered data under the changed policy.

(B) Notification.—The covered entity shall take all reasonable electronic measures to provide direct notification regarding material changes to the privacy policy to each affected individual, in each covered language in which the privacy policy is made available, and taking into account available technology and the nature of the relationship.

(C) Clarification.—Nothing in this paragraph may be construed to affect the requirements for covered entities under section 562(b) or subsection (d).

(D) Log of material changes.—Each large data holder shall retain copies of previous versions of its privacy policy for at least 10 years beginning after the date of enactment of this subtitle and publish all such prior versions, together with a log of material changes, on a dedicated, publicly accessible webpage on its website. Such large data holder shall make publicly available, in a clear, conspicuous, and readily accessible manner, a log describing the date and nature of each material change to its privacy policy over the past 10 years. The descriptions shall be sufficient for a reasonable individual to understand the material effect of each material change. The obligations in this subparagraph shall not apply to any previous versions of a large data holder's privacy policy, or any material changes to such policy, that precede the date of enactment of this subtitle.

(6) Short-form notice to consumers by large data holders.—

(A) In general.—In addition to the privacy policy required under paragraph (1), a large data holder that is a covered entity shall provide a short-form notice of its covered data practices in a manner that is—

(i) concise, clear, conspicuous, and not misleading;

(ii) readily accessible to the individual, based on what is reasonably anticipated within the context of the relationship between the individual and the large data holder;

(iii) inclusive of an overview of individual privileges, protections, and disclosures to reasonably draw attention to data practices that may reasonably be unexpected to a reasonable person or that involve sensitive covered data, including whether covered data will be processed for purposes of algorithmic recommendation systems; and

(iv) no more than 500 words in length.

(B) Rulemaking.—The Commission shall issue a rule pursuant to section 553 of title 5, United States Code, establishing the minimum data disclosures necessary for the short-form notice required under subparagraph (A), which shall not exceed the content requirements in paragraph (2) and shall include templates or models of short-form notices.

(c) Control of data by individuals.—

(1) Access to, and correction, deletion, and portability of, covered data.—In accordance with paragraphs (2) and (3), a covered entity shall provide an individual, after receiving a verified request from the individual, with the ability to—

(A) access—

(i) in a human-readable format that a reasonable individual can understand and download from the internet, the covered data (except covered data in a backup or archival system) of the individual making the request that is collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity or any service provider of the covered entity within the 24 months preceding the request;

(ii) the categories—

(I) of any service providers to whom the covered entity has sold, or transferred for any consideration, the covered data of the individual;

(II) of sources from which the covered data was collected; and

(III) of any third party to which the covered entity transferred the covered data and, if applicable, an option to obtain the names of those third parties; and

(iii) a description of the purpose for which the covered entity transferred the covered data of the individual to a third party or service provider;

(B) correct any verifiable substantial inaccuracy or substantially incomplete information with respect to the covered data of the individual that is processed by the covered entity and instruct the covered entity to make reasonable efforts to notify all third parties or service providers to which the covered entity transferred such covered data of the corrected information;

(C) delete covered data of the individual that is processed by the covered entity and instruct the covered entity to make reasonable efforts to notify all third parties or service providers to which the covered entity transferred such covered data of the individual's deletion request;

(D) to the extent technically feasible, export to the individual or directly to another entity the covered data of the individual that is processed by the covered entity, including inferences linked or reasonably linkable to the individual but not including other derived data, without licensing restrictions that limit such transfers in—

(i) a human-readable format that a reasonable individual can understand and download from the internet; and

(ii) a portable, structured, interoperable, and machine-readable format;

(E) disable or opt out of the use of a covered algorithm to rank, order, promote, recommend, amplify, or similarly determine the delivery or display of information to the individual, unless such use is strictly necessary to provide a specific product or service expressly requested by the individual; and

(F) restrict the collection, processing, or transfer of precise geolocation information of the individual and receive clear and conspicuous notice whenever precise geolocation information of the individual is being collected, processed, or transferred.

(2) Individual autonomy.—A covered entity may not condition, effectively condition, attempt to condition, or attempt to effectively condition the exercise of a privilege described in paragraph (1) through—

(A) the use of any false, fictitious, fraudulent, or materially misleading statement or representation; or

(B) the design, modification, or manipulation of any user interface with the purpose or substantial effect of obscuring, subverting, or impairing a reasonable individual's autonomy, decision making, or choice to exercise such privilege.

(3) Timing.—

(A) In general.—Subject to paragraphs (4) and (5), each request under paragraph (1) shall be completed by any—

(i) large data holder within 45 days of such request from an individual, unless it is demonstrably impracticable or impracticably costly to verify such individual;

(ii) covered entity that is neither a large data holder nor a covered entity meeting the requirements of subsection (e)(2) within 60 days of such request from an individual, unless it is demonstrably impracticable or impracticably costly to verify such individual; or

(iii) covered entity meeting the requirements of subsection (e)(2) within 90 days of such request from an individual, unless it is demonstrably impracticable or impracticably costly to verify such individual.

(B) Extension.—A response period set forth in this paragraph may be extended once by 45 additional days when reasonably necessary, considering the complexity and number of the individual's requests, so long as the covered entity informs the individual of any such extension within the initial 45-day response period, together with the reason for the extension.

(4) Frequency and cost of access.—A covered entity—

(A) shall provide an individual with the opportunity to exercise each of the privileges described in paragraph (1); and

(B) with respect to—

(i) the first 2 times that an individual exercises any privilege described in paragraph (1) in any 12-month period, shall allow the individual to exercise such privilege free of charge; and

(ii) any time beyond the initial 2 times described in clause (i), may allow the individual to exercise such privilege for a reasonable fee for each request.

(5) Verification and exceptions.—

(A) Required exceptions.—A covered entity may not permit an individual to exercise a privilege described in paragraph (1), in whole or in part, if the covered entity—

(i) cannot reasonably verify that the individual making the request to exercise the privilege is the individual whose covered data is the subject of the request or an individual authorized to make such a request on the individual's behalf;

(ii) reasonably believes that the request is made to interfere with a contract between the covered entity and another individual;

(iii) determines that the exercise of the privilege would require access to or correction of another individual's sensitive covered data;

(iv) reasonably believes that the exercise of the privilege would require the covered entity to engage in an unfair, deceptive, or abusive practice under section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 45); or

(v) reasonably believes that the request is made to further fraud, support criminal activity, or the exercise of the privilege presents a data security threat.

(B) Additional information.—If a covered entity cannot reasonably verify that a request to exercise a privilege described in paragraph (1) is made by the individual whose covered data is the subject of the request (or an individual authorized to make such a request on the individual's behalf), the covered entity—

(i) may request that the individual making the request to exercise the privilege provide any additional information necessary for the sole purpose of verifying the identity of the individual; and

(ii) may not process or transfer such additional information for any other purpose.

(C) Permissive exceptions.—

(i) In general.—A covered entity may decline, with adequate explanation to the individual, to comply with a request to exercise a privilege described in paragraph (1), in whole or in part, that would—

(I) require the covered entity to retain any covered data collected for a single, one-time transaction, if such covered data is not processed or transferred by the covered entity for any purpose other than completing such transaction;

(II) be demonstrably impracticable or prohibitively costly to comply with, and the covered entity shall provide a description to the requestor detailing the inability to comply with the request;

(III) require the covered entity to attempt to re-identify de-identified data;

(IV) require the covered entity to maintain covered data in an identifiable form or collect, retain, or access any data in order to be capable of associating a verified individual request with covered data of such individual;

(V) result in the release of trade secrets or other privileged or confidential business information;

(VI) require the covered entity to correct any covered data that cannot be reasonably verified as being inaccurate or incomplete;

(VII) interfere with law enforcement, judicial proceedings, investigations, or reasonable efforts to guard against, detect, prevent, or investigate fraudulent, malicious, or unlawful activity, or enforce valid contracts;

(VIII) violate Federal or State law or the rights and freedoms of another individual, including under the Constitution of the United States;

(IX) prevent a covered entity from being able to maintain a confidential record of deletion requests, maintained solely for the purpose of preventing covered data of an individual from being recollected after the individual submitted a deletion request and requested that the covered entity no longer collect, process, or transfer such data;

(X) fall within an exception enumerated in the regulations promulgated by the Commission pursuant to clause (iv); or

(XI) with respect to requests for deletion—

(aa) unreasonably interfere with the provision of products or services by the covered entity to another person it currently serves;

(bb) delete covered data that relates to a public figure and for which the requesting individual has no reasonable expectation of privacy;

(cc) delete covered data reasonably necessary to perform a contract between the covered entity and the individual;

(dd) delete covered data that the covered entity needs to retain in order to comply with professional ethical obligations;

(ee) delete covered data that the covered entity reasonably believes may be evidence of unlawful activity or an abuse of the covered entity's products or services; or

(ff) for private elementary and secondary schools as defined by State law and private institutions of higher education as defined by title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965, delete covered data that would unreasonably interfere with the provision of education services by or the ordinary operation of the school or institution.

(ii) Partial compliance.—In a circumstance that would allow a denial pursuant to clause (i), a covered entity shall partially comply with the remainder of the request if it is possible and not unduly burdensome to do so.

(iii) Number of requests.—For purposes of clause (i)(II), the receipt of a large number of verified requests, on its own, may not be considered to render compliance with a request demonstrably impracticable.

(iv) Further exceptions.—The Commission may, by regulation as described in paragraph (7), establish additional permissive exceptions necessary to protect individual privacy and autonomy, alleviate undue burdens on covered entities, prevent unjust or unreasonable outcomes from the exercise of access, correction, deletion, or portability controls, or as otherwise necessary to fulfill the purposes of this subsection. In establishing such exceptions, the Commission should consider any relevant changes in technology, means for protecting privacy and other legal protections, and beneficial uses of covered data by covered entities.

(6) Large data holder metrics reporting.—A large data holder that is a covered entity shall, for each calendar year in which it was a large data holder, do the following:

(A) Compile the following metrics for the prior calendar year:

(i) The number of verified access requests under paragraph (1)(A).

(ii) The number of verified deletion requests under paragraph (1)(C).

(iii) The number of verified requests under paragraph (1)(E).

(iv) The number of verified requests under paragraph (1)(F).

(v) The number of requests in each of clauses (i) through (iv) that such large data holder complied with in whole or in part and denied.

(vi) The median or mean number of days within which such large data holder substantively responded to the requests in each of clauses (i) through (iv).

(B) Disclose by July 1 of each applicable calendar year the information compiled in subparagraph (A) within such large data holder's privacy policy required under subsection (b) or on the publicly accessible website of such large data holder that is accessible from a hyperlink included in the privacy policy.

(7) Interim final rules.—Not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Commission shall issue interim final rules as necessary to establish processes by which covered entities are to comply with this subsection. The interim final rules shall take effect upon publication in the Federal Register, shall have the force and effect of law, and may be issued without regard to section 553 of title 5, United States Code. The Commission shall provide a public comment period of not less than 60 days after publication and shall issue final rules not later than 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act. Such rules shall take into consideration—

(A) the size of, and the nature, scope, and complexity of the activities engaged in by the covered entity, including whether the covered entity is a large data holder, nonprofit organization, covered entity meeting the requirements of subsection (e)(2), third party, or third-party collecting entity;

(B) the sensitivity of covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity;

(C) the volume of covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity;

(D) the number of individuals and devices to which the covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity relates; and

(E) after consulting the National Institute of Standards and Technology, standards for ensuring the deletion of covered data under this subtitle where appropriate.

(8) Applicability.—Paragraphs (1) through (6) shall apply beginning on the date that is 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

(9) Accessibility.—A covered entity shall facilitate the ability of individuals to make requests under paragraph (1) in any covered language in which the covered entity provides a product or service. The mechanisms by which a covered entity enables individuals to make requests under paragraph (1) shall be readily accessible and usable by individuals with disabilities.

(d) Privacy by default.—

(1) Privacy by default.—It shall be unlawful for a covered entity or service provider to configure any privacy setting or option made available to an individual, with respect to the collection, processing, or transfer of covered data, to default to any such setting or option other than the most privacy-protective setting offered by such covered entity or service provider.

(2) Opt-in required for reduced privacy.—It shall be unlawful for a covered entity or service provider to apply a less protective privacy setting to an individual unless such individual has provided affirmative express consent.

(3) Targeted advertising.—It shall be unlawful for a covered entity or service provider to engage in targeted advertising, except for the dissemination of an advertisement targeted exclusively on a recognized place in accordance with section 567(b)(3).

(4) Withdrawal of consent.—A covered entity shall provide an individual with a clear and conspicuous, easy-to-execute means to withdraw any affirmative express consent previously provided by the individual that is as easy to execute by a reasonable individual as the means to provide consent.

(5) Individual autonomy.—A covered entity may not condition, effectively condition, attempt to condition, or attempt to effectively condition the exercise of any individual protection under this subsection through—

(A) the use of any false, fictitious, fraudulent, or materially misleading statement or representation; or

(B) the design, modification, or manipulation of any user interface with the purpose or substantial effect of obscuring, subverting, or impairing a reasonable individual's autonomy, decision making, or choice to exercise any such protection.

(e) Small business protections.—

(1) Establishment of exemption.—Any covered entity or service provider that can establish that it met the requirements described in paragraph (2) for the period of the 3 preceding calendar years (or for the period during which the covered entity or service provider has been in existence if such period is less than 3 years) shall—

(A) be exempt from compliance with subparagraph (D) of subsection (c)(1), subparagraphs (A) through (C) and (E) through (G) of section 564(a)(2), and section 565(a)(3); and

(B) at the covered entity's sole discretion, have the option of complying with subsection (c)(1)(B) by, after receiving a verified request from an individual to correct covered data of the individual under such subparagraph, deleting such covered data in its entirety instead of making the requested correction.

(2) Exemption requirements.—The requirements of this paragraph are, with respect to a covered entity or a service provider, the following:

(A) The covered entity or service provider's average annual gross revenues during the period did not exceed $41,000,000.

(B) The covered entity or service provider, on average, did not annually collect or process the covered data of more than 200,000 individuals during the period beyond the purpose of initiating, rendering, billing for, finalizing, completing, or otherwise collecting payment for a requested service or product, so long as all covered data for such purpose was deleted or de-identified within 90 days, except when necessary to investigate fraud or as consistent with a covered entity's return policy.

(C) The covered entity or service provider did not derive more than 50 percent of its revenue from transferring covered data during any year (or part of a year if the covered entity has been in existence for less than 1 year) that occurs during the period.

(3) Revenue defined.—For purposes of this subsection, the term "revenue" as it relates to any covered entity or service provider that is not organized to carry on business for its own profit or that of its members, means the gross receipts the covered entity or service provider received in whatever form from all sources without subtracting any costs or expenses, and includes contributions, gifts, grants, dues or other assessments, income from investments, or proceeds from the sale of real or personal property.

(f) Unified privacy mechanisms.—

(1) In general.—For the protections established under subsection (d), for the communication of a refusal or withdrawal of consent for a transfer of covered data to a third party that is not strictly necessary to provide, maintain, complete, or fulfill a specific product or service requested by the individual, and for requests under section 564(b)(2)(C)(iii), following public notice and opportunity to comment and not later than January 1, 2028, the Commission shall establish or recognize 1 or more acceptable privacy-protective, centralized mechanisms, including browser or device privacy settings, other tools offered by covered entities or service providers, and registries of identifiers, for individuals to exercise all such protections through a single interface for a covered entity or service provider to utilize.

(2) Requirements.—Any such centralized mechanism shall—

(A) require covered entities or service providers acting on behalf of covered entities to inform individuals about the mechanism and its effect;

(B) operate as the default privacy-protective setting unless the individual affirmatively chooses a different setting, and any such different setting shall clearly represent the individual's affirmative, freely given, specific, and unambiguous choice;

(C) be consumer-friendly, clearly described, and easy-to-use by a reasonable individual;

(D) permit the covered entity or service provider acting on behalf of a covered entity to have an authentication process the covered entity or service provider acting on behalf of a covered entity may use to determine if the mechanism represents a legitimate request;

(E) be provided in any covered language in which the covered entity provides products or services subject to the mechanism; and

(F) be provided in a manner that is reasonably accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities.

SEC. 564. DATA SECURITY AND REGISTRATION.

(a) Data security and protection of covered data.—

(1) Establishment of data security practices.—

(A) In general.—A covered entity or service provider shall establish, implement, and maintain reasonable administrative, technical, and physical data security practices and procedures to protect and secure covered data against unauthorized access and acquisition.

(B) Considerations.—The reasonable administrative, technical, and physical data security practices required under subparagraph (A) shall be appropriate to—

(i) the size and complexity of the covered entity or service provider;

(ii) the nature and scope of the covered entity or the service provider's collecting, processing, or transferring of covered data;

(iii) the volume and nature of the covered data collected, processed, or transferred by the covered entity or service provider;

(iv) the sensitivity of the covered data collected, processed, or transferred;

(v) the current state of the art (and limitations thereof) in administrative, technical, and physical safeguards for protecting such covered data; and

(vi) the cost of available tools to improve security and reduce vulnerabilities to unauthorized access and acquisition of such covered data in relation to the risks and nature of the covered data.

(2) Specific requirements.—The data security practices of the covered entity and of the service provider required under paragraph (1) shall include, for each respective entity's own system or systems, at a minimum, the following practices:

(A) Assess vulnerabilities.—Identifying and assessing any material internal and external risk to, and vulnerability in, the security of each system maintained by the covered entity that collects, processes, or transfers covered data, or service provider that collects, processes, or transfers covered data on behalf of the covered entity, including unauthorized access to or risks to such covered data, human vulnerabilities, access rights, and the use of service providers. With respect to large data holders, such activities shall include a plan to receive and reasonably respond to unsolicited reports of vulnerabilities by any entity or individual and to perform a reasonable investigation of such reports.

(B) Preventive and corrective action.—Taking preventive and corrective action designed to mitigate reasonably foreseeable risks or vulnerabilities to covered data identified by the covered entity or service provider, consistent with the nature of such risk or vulnerability and the entity's role in collecting, processing, or transferring the data. Such action may include implementing administrative, technical, or physical safeguards or changes to data security practices or the architecture, installation, or implementation of network or operating software, among other actions.

(C) Evaluation of preventive and corrective action.—Evaluating and making reasonable adjustments to the action described in subparagraph (B) in light of any material changes in technology, internal or external threats to covered data, and the covered entity or service provider's own changing business arrangements or operations.

(D) Information retention and disposal.—Disposing of covered data in accordance with a retention schedule that shall require the deletion of covered data when such data is required to be deleted by law or is no longer necessary for the purpose for which the data was collected, processed, or transferred, unless an individual has provided affirmative express consent to such retention. Such disposal shall include destroying, permanently erasing, or otherwise modifying the covered data to make such data permanently unreadable or indecipherable and unrecoverable to ensure ongoing compliance with this subsection. Service providers shall establish practices to delete or return covered data to a covered entity as requested at the end of the provision of services unless retention of the covered data is required by law, consistent with section 565(b)(1)(F).

(E) Training.—Training each employee with access to covered data on how to safeguard covered data and updating such training as necessary.

(F) Designation.—Designating an officer, employee, or employees to maintain and implement such practices.

(G) Incident response.—Implementing procedures to detect, respond to, or recover from security incidents, including breaches.

(3) Regulations.—The Commission may promulgate, in accordance with section 553 of title 5, United States Code, technology-neutral regulations to establish processes for complying with this subsection. The Commission shall consult with the National Institute of Standards and Technology in establishing such processes.

(b) Third-party collecting entities.—

(1) Notice.—Each third-party collecting entity shall place a clear, conspicuous, not misleading, and readily accessible notice on the website or mobile application of the third-party collecting entity (if the third-party collecting entity maintains such a website or mobile application) that—

(A) notifies individuals that the entity is a third-party collecting entity using specific language that the Commission shall develop through rulemaking under section 553 of title 5, United States Code, except that, until such language takes effect, language clearly and conspicuously identifying the entity as a third-party collecting entity shall satisfy this subparagraph;

(B) includes a link to the website established under paragraph (2)(C); and

(C) is reasonably accessible to and usable by individuals with disabilities.

(2) Third-party collecting entity registration.—

(A) In general.—Not later than January 31 of each calendar year that follows a calendar year during which a covered entity acted as a third-party collecting entity and processed covered data pertaining to more than 5,000 individuals or devices that identify or are linked or reasonably linkable to an individual, such covered entity shall register with the Commission in accordance with this subsection.

(B) Registration requirements.—In registering with the Commission as required under subparagraph (A), a third-party collecting entity shall do the following:

(i) Pay to the Commission a registration fee of $100.

(ii) Provide the Commission with the following information:

(i) A listing of all registered third-party collecting entities and a search feature that allows members of the public to identify individual third-party collecting entities.

(ii) For each registered third-party collecting entity, the information provided under subparagraph (B).

(iii) (I) A "Do Not Collect" registry link and mechanism by which an individual may easily submit a request to all registered third-party collecting entities that are not consumer reporting agencies (as defined in section 603(f) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681a(f))), and to the extent such third-party collecting entities are not acting as consumer reporting agencies (as so defined), to—

(aa) delete all covered data related to such individual that the third-party collecting entity did not collect from such individual directly or when acting as a service provider; and

(bb) ensure that the third-party collecting entity no longer collects covered data related to such individual without the affirmative express consent of such individual, except insofar as the third-party collecting entity is acting as a service provider.

(II) Each third-party collecting entity that receives such a request from an individual shall delete all covered data described in subclause (I)(aa) relating to the individual not later than 30 days after the request is received by the third-party collecting entity.

(III) Notwithstanding subclauses (I) and (II), a third-party collecting entity may decline to fulfill a "Do Not Collect" request from an individual who it has actual knowledge has been convicted of a crime related to the abduction or sexual exploitation of a child, and the data the entity is collecting is necessary to effectuate the purposes of a national or State-run sex offender registry or the congressionally designated entity that serves as the nonprofit national resource center and clearinghouse to provide assistance to victims, families, child-serving professionals, and the general public on missing and exploited children issues.

(3) Penalties.—

(A) In general.—A third-party collecting entity that fails to register or provide the notice as required under this subsection shall be liable for—

(i) a civil penalty of $5,000 for each day the third-party collecting entity fails to register or provide notice as required under this subsection, not to exceed a total of $500,000 for any year; and

(ii) an amount equal to the registration fees due under paragraph (2)(B)(i) for each year that the third-party collecting entity failed to register as required.

(B) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as altering, limiting, or affecting any enforcement authorities or remedies under this subtitle.

(c) Civil rights and algorithms.—

(1) Civil rights protections.—

(A) In general.—A covered entity or a service provider may not collect, process, or transfer covered data in a manner that discriminates in or otherwise makes unavailable the equal enjoyment of goods or services on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, or disability.

(B) Exceptions.—This paragraph shall not apply to—

(i) the collection, processing, or transfer of covered data for the purpose of self-testing to prevent or mitigate unlawful discrimination; or

(ii) any private club or group not open to the public, as described in section 201(e) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000a(e)).

(2) FTC enforcement assistance.—

(A) In general.—Whenever the Commission obtains information that a covered entity or service provider may have collected, processed, or transferred covered data in violation of paragraph (1), the Commission shall transmit such information as allowable under Federal law to any Executive agency with authority to initiate enforcement actions or proceedings relating to such violation.

(B) Annual report.—Not later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this subtitle, and annually thereafter, the Commission shall submit to Congress a report that includes a summary of—

(i) the types of information the Commission transmitted to Executive agencies under subparagraph (A) during the previous 1-year period; and

(ii) how such information relates to Federal civil rights laws.

(C) Technical assistance.—In transmitting information under subparagraph (A), the Commission may consult and coordinate with, and provide technical and investigative assistance, as appropriate, to such Executive agency.

(D) Cooperation with other agencies.—The Commission may implement this paragraph by executing agreements or memoranda of understanding with the appropriate Executive agencies.

(3) Covered algorithm impact and evaluation.—

(A) Covered algorithm impact assessment.—

(i) Impact assessment.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, not later than July 1, 2028, and annually thereafter, a large data holder that uses a covered algorithm in a manner that poses a consequential risk of harm to an individual or group of individuals, and uses such covered algorithm solely or in part, to collect, process, or transfer covered data shall conduct an impact assessment of such algorithm in accordance with clause (ii).

(ii) Impact assessment scope.—The impact assessment required under clause (i) shall provide the following:

(I) A detailed description of the design process and methodologies of the covered algorithm.

(II) A statement of the purpose and proposed uses of the covered algorithm.

(III) A detailed description of the data used by the covered algorithm, including the specific categories of data that will be processed as input and any data used to train the model that the covered algorithm relies on, if applicable.

(IV) A description of the outputs produced by the covered algorithm.

(V) An assessment of the necessity and proportionality of the covered algorithm in relation to its stated purpose.

(VI) A detailed description of steps the large data holder has taken or will take to mitigate potential harms from the covered algorithm to an individual or group of individuals, including related to—

(aa) covered minors;

(bb) making or facilitating advertising for, or determining access to, or restrictions on the use of housing, education, employment, health care, insurance, or credit opportunities;

(cc) determining access to, or restrictions on the use of, any place of public accommodation, particularly as such harms relate to the protected characteristics of individuals, including race, color, religion, national origin, sex, or disability;

(dd) disparate impact on the basis of individuals' race, color, religion, national origin, sex, or disability status; or

(ee) disparate impact on the basis of individuals' political party registration status.

(B) Algorithm design evaluation.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this subtitle, a covered entity or service provider that knowingly develops a covered algorithm that is designed, solely or in part, to collect, process, or transfer covered data in furtherance of a consequential decision shall prior to deploying the covered algorithm in interstate commerce evaluate the design, structure, and inputs of the covered algorithm, including any training data used to develop the covered algorithm, to reduce the risk of the potential harms identified under subparagraph (A)(ii).

(C) Other considerations.—

(i) Focus.—In complying with subparagraphs (A) and (B), a covered entity and a service provider may focus the impact assessment or evaluation on any covered algorithm, or portions of a covered algorithm, that will be put to use and may reasonably contribute to the risk of the potential harms identified under subparagraph (A)(ii).

(ii) Availability.—

(I) In general.—A covered entity and a service provider—

(aa) shall, not later than 30 days after completing an impact assessment or evaluation, submit the impact assessment or evaluation conducted under subparagraph (A) or (B) to the Commission;

(bb) shall, upon request, make such impact assessment and evaluation available to Congress; and

(cc) may make a summary of such impact assessment and evaluation publicly available in a place that is easily accessible to individuals.

(II) Trade secrets.—Covered entities and service providers may redact and segregate any trade secret (as defined in section 1839 of title 18, United States Code) or other confidential or proprietary information from public disclosure under this clause and the Commission shall abide by its obligations under section 6(f) of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 46(f)) in regard to such information.

(iii) Enforcement.—The Commission may not use any information obtained solely and exclusively through a covered entity or a service provider's disclosure of information to the Commission in compliance with this paragraph for any purpose other than enforcing this subtitle with the exception of enforcing consent orders, including the study and report provisions in subparagraph (F). This clause does not preclude the Commission from providing this information to Congress in response to a subpoena.

(D) Guidance.—Not later than 2 years after the date of enactment of this subtitle, the Commission shall, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce or their designee, publish guidance regarding compliance with this paragraph.

(E) Rulemaking and exemption.—The Commission shall have authority under section 553 of title 5, United States Code, to promulgate regulations as necessary to establish processes by which a large data holder—

(i) shall submit an impact assessment to the Commission under clause (ii)(I) of subparagraph (C); and

(ii) may exclude from this paragraph any covered algorithm that presents low or minimal consequential risk of harm to an individual or group of individuals.

(F) Study and report.—

(i) Study.—The Commission, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce or the Secretary's designee, shall conduct a study, to review any impact assessment or evaluation submitted under this paragraph. Such study shall include an examination of—

(I) best practices for the assessment and evaluation of covered algorithms; and

(II) methods to reduce the risk of harm to individuals that may be related to the use of covered algorithms.

(ii) Report.—

(I) Initial report.—Not later than 3 years after the date of enactment of this subtitle, the Commission, in consultation with the Secretary of Commerce or the Secretary's designee, shall submit to Congress a report containing the results of the study conducted under subclause (i), together with recommendations for such legislation and administrative action as the Commission determines appropriate.

(II) Additional reports.—Not later than 3 years after submission of the initial report under subclause (I), and as the Commission determines necessary thereafter, the Commission shall submit to Congress an updated version of such report.

SEC. 565. EXECUTIVE RESPONSIBILITY, SERVICE PROVIDERS, AND COMPLIANCE PROGRAMS.

(a) Executive responsibility.—

(1) In general.—Beginning 1 year after the date of enactment of this subtitle, an executive officer of a large data holder shall annually certify, in good faith, to the Commission, in a manner specified by the Commission by regulation under section 553 of title 5, United States Code, issued not later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this subtitle, that the entity maintains—

(A) internal controls reasonably designed to comply with this subtitle; and

(B) internal reporting structures to ensure that such certifying executive officer is involved in and responsible for the decisions that impact the compliance by the large data holder with this subtitle.

(2) Requirements.—A certification submitted under paragraph (1) shall be based on a review of the effectiveness of the internal controls and reporting structures of the large data holder that is conducted by the certifying executive officer not more than 90 days before the submission of the certification. A certification submitted under paragraph (1) is made in good faith if the certifying officer had, after a reasonable investigation, reasonable ground to believe and did believe, at the time that certification was submitted, that the statements therein were true and that there was no omission to state a material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading.

(3) Designation of privacy and data security officer.—

(A) In general.—A covered entity or service provider with more than 15 employees shall designate—

(i) 1 or more qualified employees as privacy officers; and

(ii) 1 or more qualified employees (in addition to any employee designated under clause (i)) as data security officers.

(B) Requirements for officers.—An employee who is designated by a covered entity or a service provider as a privacy officer or a data security officer pursuant to subparagraph (A) shall, at a minimum—

(i) implement a data privacy program and data security program to safeguard the privacy and security of covered data in compliance with the requirements of this subtitle; and

(ii) facilitate the covered entity or service provider's ongoing compliance with this subtitle.

(C) Additional requirements for large data holders.—A large data holder shall designate at least 1 of the officers described in subparagraph (A) to report directly to the highest official at the large data holder as a privacy protection officer who shall, in addition to the requirements in subparagraph (B), either directly or through a supervised designee or designees—

(i) establish processes to periodically review and update the privacy and security policies, practices, and procedures of the large data holder, as necessary;

(ii) conduct biennial and comprehensive audits to ensure the policies, practices, and procedures of the large data holder ensure the large data holder is in compliance with this subtitle and ensure such audits are accessible to the Commission upon request;

(iii) develop a program to educate and train employees about compliance requirements of this subtitle;

(iv) maintain updated, accurate, clear, and understandable records of all material privacy and data security practices undertaken by the large data holder; and

(v) serve as the point of contact between the large data holder and enforcement authorities.

(4) Large data holder privacy impact assessments.—

(A) In general.—Not later than July 1, 2027, or 1 year after the date on which a covered entity first meets the definition of large data holder, and biennially thereafter, each covered entity that is a large data holder shall conduct a privacy impact assessment that weighs the benefits of the large data holder's covered data collecting, processing, and transfer practices against the potential adverse consequences of such practices, including substantial privacy risks, to individual privacy.

(B) Assessment requirements.—A privacy impact assessment required under subparagraph (A) shall be—

(i) reasonable and appropriate in scope given—

(I) the nature of the covered data collected, processed, and transferred by the large data holder;

(II) the volume of the covered data collected, processed, and transferred by the large data holder; and

(III) the potential material risks posed to the privacy of individuals by the collecting, processing, and transfer of covered data by the large data holder;

(ii) documented in written form and maintained by the large data holder unless rendered out of date by a subsequent assessment conducted under subparagraph (A); and

(iii) approved by the privacy protection officer designated under paragraph (3)(C).

(C) Additional factors to include in assessment.—In assessing the privacy risks, including substantial privacy risks, the large data holder must include reviews of the means by which technologies, including blockchain and distributed ledger technologies and other emerging technologies, are used to secure covered data.

(5) Other privacy impact assessments.—

(A) In general.—Not later than 1 year after the date of enactment of this subtitle and biennially thereafter, each covered entity that is not a large data holder and does not meet the requirements for covered entities under section 563(e)(2) shall conduct a privacy impact assessment. Such assessment shall weigh the benefits of the covered entity's covered data collecting, processing, and transfer practices that may cause a substantial privacy risk against the potential material adverse consequences of such practices to individual privacy.

(B) Assessment requirements.—A privacy impact assessment required under subparagraph (A) shall be—

(i) reasonable and appropriate in scope given—

(I) the nature of the covered data collected, processed, and transferred by the covered entity;

(II) the volume of the covered data collected, processed, and transferred by the covered entity; and

(III) the potential risks posed to the privacy of individuals by the collecting, processing, and transfer of covered data by the covered entity; and

(ii) documented in written form and maintained by the covered entity unless rendered out of date by a subsequent assessment conducted under subparagraph (A).

(C) Additional factors to include in assessment.—In assessing the privacy risks, including substantial privacy risks, the covered entity may include reviews of the means by which technologies, including blockchain and distributed ledger technologies and other emerging technologies, are used to secure covered data.

(b) Service providers and third parties.—

(1) Service providers.—A service provider—

(A) shall adhere to the instructions of a covered entity and only collect, process, and transfer service provider data to the extent necessary and proportionate to provide a service requested by the covered entity, as set out in the contract required by paragraph (2), and this subparagraph does not require a service provider to collect, process, or transfer covered data if the service provider would not otherwise do so;

(B) may not collect, process, or transfer service provider data if the service provider has actual knowledge that a covered entity violated this subtitle with respect to such data;

(C) shall assist a covered entity in responding to a request made by an individual under section 563(c), by either—

(i) providing appropriate technical and organizational measures, taking into account the nature of the processing and the information reasonably available to the service provider, for the covered entity to comply with such request for service provider data; or

(ii) fulfilling a request by a covered entity to execute an individual rights request that the covered entity has determined should be complied with, by either—

(I) complying with the request pursuant to the covered entity's instructions; or

(II) providing written verification to the covered entity that it does not hold covered data related to the request, that complying with the request would be inconsistent with its legal obligations, or that the request falls within an exception to section 563(c);

(D) may engage another service provider for purposes of processing service provider data on behalf of a covered entity only after providing that covered entity with notice and pursuant to a written contract that requires such other service provider to satisfy the obligations of the service provider with respect to such service provider data, including that the other service provider be treated as a service provider under this subtitle;

(E) shall, upon the reasonable request of the covered entity, make available to the covered entity information necessary to demonstrate the compliance of the service provider with the requirements of this subtitle, which may include making available a report of an independent assessment arranged by the service provider on terms agreed to by the service provider and the covered entity, providing information necessary to enable the covered entity to conduct and document a privacy impact assessment required under subsection (a), and making available the impact assessment or evaluation required under section 564(c)(3);

(F) shall, at the covered entity's direction, delete or return all covered data to the covered entity as requested at the end of the provision of services, unless retention of the covered data is required by law;

(G) shall develop, implement, and maintain reasonable administrative, technical, and physical safeguards that are designed to protect the security and confidentiality of covered data the service provider processes consistent with section 564(a); and

(H) shall allow and cooperate with reasonable assessments by the covered entity or the covered entity's designated assessor; alternatively, the service provider may arrange for a qualified and independent assessor to conduct an assessment of the service provider's policies and technical and organizational measures in support of the obligations under this subtitle using an appropriate and accepted control standard or framework and assessment procedure for such assessments, and shall provide a report of such assessment to the covered entity upon request.

(2) Contracts between covered entities and service providers.—

(A) Requirements.—A person or entity may only act as a service provider pursuant to a written contract between the covered entity and the service provider, or a written contract between 1 service provider and a second service provider as described under paragraph (1)(D), if the contract—

(i) sets forth the data processing procedures of the service provider with respect to collection, processing, or transfer performed on behalf of the covered entity or service provider;

(ii) clearly sets forth—

(I) instructions for collecting, processing, or transferring data;

(II) the nature and purpose of collecting, processing, or transferring;

(III) the type of data subject to collecting, processing, or transferring;

(IV) the duration of processing; and

(V) the rights and obligations of both parties, including a method by which the service provider shall notify the covered entity of material changes to its privacy practices;

(iii) does not relieve a covered entity or a service provider of any requirement or liability imposed on such covered entity or service provider under this subtitle; and

(iv) prohibits—

(I) collecting, processing, or transferring covered data in contravention of paragraph (1); and

(II) combining service provider data with covered data that the service provider receives from or on behalf of another person or persons or collects from the interaction of the service provider with an individual, unless such combining is necessary to effectuate a purpose described in subparagraphs (A) through (O) of section 562(a)(2) and is otherwise permitted under the contract required by this paragraph.

(B) Contract terms.—Each service provider shall retain copies of previous contracts entered into in compliance with this paragraph with each covered entity to which the service provider provides requested products or services.

(3) Relationship between covered entities and service providers.—

(A) Determination.—Determining whether a person is acting as a covered entity or service provider with respect to a specific processing of covered data is a fact-based determination that depends upon the context in which such data is processed.

(B) Change in role.—A person that is not limited in its processing of covered data pursuant to the instructions of a covered entity, or that fails to adhere to such instructions, is a covered entity and not a service provider with respect to a specific processing of covered data. A service provider that continues to adhere to the instructions of a covered entity with respect to a specific processing of covered data remains a service provider. If a service provider begins, alone or jointly with others, determining the purposes and means of the processing of covered data, the service provider is a covered entity and not a service provider with respect to the processing of such data.

(C) Transferor liability.—A covered entity that transfers covered data to a service provider, or a service provider that transfers covered data to a covered entity or another service provider, in compliance with the requirements of this subtitle, is not liable for a violation of this subtitle by the service provider or covered entity to whom such covered data was transferred, if at the time of transferring such covered data, the covered entity or service provider did not have actual knowledge that the service provider or covered entity would violate this subtitle.

(D) Recipient liability.—A covered entity or service provider that receives covered data in compliance with the requirements of this subtitle is not in violation of this subtitle as a result of a violation by a covered entity or service provider from which such data was received.

(4) Third parties.—A third party—

(A) shall not process third-party data for a processing purpose other than—

(i) in the case of sensitive covered data, the processing purpose for which the individual gave affirmative express consent or to effect a purpose enumerated in subparagraph (A), (C), or (E) of section 562(a)(2); and

(ii) in the case of non-sensitive covered data, the processing purpose for which the covered entity made a disclosure pursuant to section 563(b)(2)(D); and

(B) for purposes of subparagraph (A), may reasonably rely on representations made by the covered entity that transferred the third-party data if the third party conducts reasonable due diligence on the representations of the covered entity and finds those representations to be credible, unless the third party has actual knowledge, or knowledge fairly implied on the basis of objective circumstances, that such representations are false or incomplete.

(5) Additional obligations.—

(A) In general.—A covered entity or service provider shall exercise reasonable due diligence in—

(i) selecting a service provider; and

(ii) deciding to transfer covered data to a third party.

(B) Guidance.—Not later than July 1, 2027, the Commission shall publish guidance regarding compliance with this paragraph, taking into consideration the burdens on large data holders, covered entities who are not large data holders, and covered entities meeting the requirements of section 563(e).

(6) Rule of construction.—Solely for purposes of this subsection, the requirements for service providers to contract with, assist, and follow the instructions of covered entities shall be read to include requirements to contract with, assist, and follow the instructions of a government entity if the service provider is providing a service to a government entity.

(c) Technical compliance programs.—

(1) In general.—Not later than July 1, 2028, the Commission shall promulgate regulations under section 553 of title 5, United States Code, to establish a process for the proposal and approval of technical compliance programs under this subsection used by a covered entity to collect, process, or transfer covered data.

(2) Scope of programs.—The technical compliance programs established under this subsection shall, with respect to a technology, product, service, or method used by a covered entity to collect, process, or transfer covered data—

(A) establish publicly available guidelines for compliance with this subtitle; and

(B) meet or exceed the requirements of this subtitle.

(3) Approval process.—

(A) In general.—Any request for approval, amendment, or repeal of a technical compliance program may be submitted to the Commission by any person, including a covered entity, a representative of a covered entity, an association of covered entities, or a public interest group or organization. Within 90 days after the request is made, the Commission shall publish the request and provide an opportunity for public comment on the proposal.

(B) Expedited response to requests.—Beginning 1 year after the date of enactment of this subtitle, the Commission shall act upon a request for the proposal and approval of a technical compliance program not later than 1 year after the filing of the request, and shall set forth publicly in writing the conclusions of the Commission with regard to such request.

(4) Judicial review.—Final action by the Commission on a request for approval, amendment, or repeal of a technical compliance program, or the failure to act within the 1-year period after a request for approval, amendment, or repeal of a technical compliance program is made under paragraph (3), may be appealed to a Federal district court of the United States of appropriate jurisdiction as provided for in section 702 of title 5, United States Code.

(5) Effect on enforcement.—

(A) In general.—Prior to commencing an investigation or enforcement action against any covered entity under this subtitle, the Commission and State attorney general shall consider the covered entity's history of compliance with any technical compliance program approved under this subsection and any action taken by the covered entity to remedy noncompliance with such program. If an action described in section 569(b)(3) is brought, the covered entity's history of compliance with any technical compliance program approved under this subsection and any action taken by the covered entity to remedy noncompliance with such program shall be taken into consideration when determining liability or a penalty. The covered entity's history of compliance with any technical compliance program shall not affect any burden of proof or the weight given to evidence in an enforcement or judicial proceeding.

(B) Commission authority.—Approval of a technical compliance program shall not limit the authority of the Commission, including the Commission's authority to commence an investigation or enforcement action against any covered entity under this subtitle or any other Act.

(C) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this paragraph shall entitle any individual, class of individuals, or person to seek discovery of any nonpublic Commission deliberation or activity, and nothing in this paragraph shall impose any pleading requirement on the Commission if the Commission brings an enforcement action of any kind.

(d) Commission-approved compliance guidelines.—

(1) Application for compliance guideline approval.—

(A) In general.—A covered entity that is not a third-party collecting entity and meets the requirements of section 563(e), or a group of such covered entities, may apply to the Commission for approval of 1 or more sets of compliance guidelines governing the collection, processing, and transfer of covered data by the covered entity or group of covered entities.

(B) Application requirements.—Such application shall include—

(i) a description of how the proposed guidelines will meet or exceed the requirements of this subtitle;

(ii) a description of the entities or activities the proposed set of compliance guidelines is designed to cover;

(iii) a list of the covered entities that meet the requirements of section 563(e) and are not third-party collecting entities, if any are known at the time of application, that intend to adhere to the compliance guidelines; and

(iv) a description of how such covered entities will be independently assessed for adherence to such compliance guidelines, including the independent organization not associated with any of the covered entities that may participate in guidelines that will administer such guidelines.

(2) Commission review.—

(A) Initial approval.—

(i) Public comment period.—Within 90 days after the receipt of proposed guidelines submitted pursuant to paragraph (1)(B), the Commission shall publish the application and provide an opportunity for public comment on such compliance guidelines.

(ii) Approval.—The Commission shall approve an application regarding proposed guidelines under paragraph (1)(B) if the applicant demonstrates that the compliance guidelines—

(I) meet or exceed the requirements of this subtitle;

(II) provide for the regular review and validation by an independent organization not associated with any of the covered entities that may participate in the guidelines and that is approved by the Commission to conduct such reviews of the compliance guidelines of the covered entity or entities to ensure that the covered entity or entities continue to meet or exceed the requirements of this subtitle; and

(III) include a means of enforcement if a covered entity does not meet or exceed the requirements in the guidelines, which may include referral to the Commission for enforcement consistent with section 569(b)(1) or referral to the appropriate State attorney general for enforcement consistent with section 569(b)(2).

(iii) Timeline.—Within 1 year after receiving an application regarding proposed guidelines under paragraph (1)(B), the Commission shall issue a determination approving or denying the application and providing its reasons for approving or denying such application.

(B) Approval of modifications.—

(A) In general.—Any developer who shall be injured by reason of anything forbidden in this section may sue therefor in any district court of the United States in the district in which the defendant resides or is found or has an agent, without respect to the amount in controversy, and shall recover threefold the damages sustained by such developer, and the cost of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee. The court may award under this subparagraph, pursuant to a motion by such developer promptly made, simple interest on actual damages for the period beginning on the date of service of such developer's pleading setting forth a claim under this section and ending on the date of judgment, or for any shorter period therein, if the court finds that the award of such interest for such period is just in the circumstances. In determining whether an award of interest under this subparagraph for any period is just in the circumstances, the court shall consider only—

(i) whether such developer or the opposing party, or either party's representative, made motions or asserted claims or defenses so lacking in merit as to show that such party or representative acted intentionally for delay, or otherwise acted in bad faith;

(ii) whether, in the course of the action involved, such developer or the opposing party, or either party's representative, violated any applicable rule, statute, or court order providing for sanctions for dilatory behavior or otherwise providing for expeditious proceedings; and

(iii) whether such developer or the opposing party, or either party's representative, engaged in conduct primarily for the purpose of delaying the litigation or increasing the cost thereof.

(B) Injunctive relief.—Any developer shall be entitled to sue for and have injunctive relief, in any court of the United States having jurisdiction over the parties, against threatened loss or damage by a violation of this section, when and under the same conditions and principles as injunctive relief against threatened conduct that will cause loss or damage is granted by courts of equity, under the rules governing such proceedings, and upon the execution of proper bond against damages for an injunction improvidently granted and a showing that the danger of irreparable loss or damage is immediate, a preliminary injunction may issue. In any action under this subparagraph in which the plaintiff substantially prevails, the court shall award the cost of suit, including a reasonable attorney's fee, to such plaintiff.

(e) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit any authority of the Attorney General or the Federal Trade Commission under the antitrust laws (as defined in the first section of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. 12)), the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 41 et seq.), or any other provision of law, or to limit the application of any law.

(C) Judicial review.—A covered person subject to a transfer requirement under subparagraph (A) may, not later than 30 days after notice of such requirement, petition for review in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. (A) Authority.—The divestiture trustee shall have the authority, at the expense of the covered person required to divest, to take such actions as are necessary to effectuate the divestiture required under this section, including selling, transferring, assigning, or otherwise disposing of the business, assets, entity, or interests required to be divested.

(7) Reasonable network management.—The term "reasonable network management" means a network management practice that has a primarily technical network management justification, is narrowly tailored to achieve a legitimate network management purpose, and is not based on the source, destination, content, application, service, device, class of user, or competitive effect of traffic, except to the extent reasonably necessary to achieve such legitimate network management purpose.

(8) Zero-rating.—The term "zero-rating" means exempting some internet traffic from a data usage allowance or otherwise treating such traffic as not counting against a data cap, data threshold, usage-based charge, or similar limitation.

(b) Broadband internet access service treated as telecommunications service.—Section 3(53) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 153(53)) is amended to read as follows:

"The term 'telecommunications service' means—

"(A) the offering of telecommunications for a fee directly to the public, or to such classes of users as to be effectively available directly to the public, regardless of the facilities used; and

"(B) the offering of broadband internet access service, as defined in section 801, for a fee directly to the public, or to such classes of users as to be effectively available directly to the public, regardless of the facilities used.".

(c) No blocking.—A provider of broadband internet access service may not block lawful content, applications, services, or nonharmful devices, subject to reasonable network management.

(d) No throttling.—A provider of broadband internet access service may not impair, degrade, slow, or otherwise disadvantage lawful internet traffic on the basis of content, application, service, device, source, destination, or class of user, subject to reasonable network management.

(e) No paid prioritization or affiliated prioritization.—A provider of broadband internet access service may not engage in paid prioritization or affiliated prioritization.

(f) Data-cap exemptions and zero-rating.—

(1) In general.—A provider of broadband internet access service may not—

(A) engage in zero-rating in exchange for consideration, monetary or otherwise, from any third party;

(B) zero-rate some internet content, applications, services, or devices within a category of internet content, applications, services, or devices unless the category is defined without regard to source, destination, ownership, affiliation, payment, or viewpoint and the entire category is zero-rated on equal terms; or

(C) use a data usage allowance, data cap exemption, sponsored data arrangement, usage-based charge, or zero-rating practice to evade this section, favor an affiliate, favor a payor, or unreasonably interfere with or unreasonably disadvantage end users or edge providers.

(2) Application-agnostic zero-rating.—Application-agnostic zero-rating shall not violate this subsection if no consideration, monetary or otherwise, is provided by any third party in exchange for the provider's decision whether to zero-rate traffic and the practice is not used to evade this section.

(g) No unreasonable interference or unreasonable disadvantage.—A provider of broadband internet access service may not unreasonably interfere with, or unreasonably disadvantage—

(1) the ability of end users to select, access, use, send, receive, or offer lawful content, applications, services, or devices of the user's choice; or

(2) the ability of edge providers to make lawful content, applications, services, or devices available to end users.

(h) Transparency.—

(1) In general.—A provider of broadband internet access service shall publicly disclose accurate information regarding the provider's network management practices, performance, commercial terms, and any practice that blocks, throttles, prioritizes, degrades, interferes with, or otherwise affects traffic, in sufficient detail to enable consumers, edge providers, and the Commission to evaluate compliance with this section.

(2) Nonpublic information.—A disclosure required under this subsection shall not require public disclosure of information that would compromise network security, undermine cybersecurity measures, disclose personal information, or disclose trade secrets or other confidential business information, if the provider makes such information available to the Commission upon request.

(i) Exceptions.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a provider of broadband internet access service from—

(1) engaging in reasonable network management;

(2) addressing network congestion through application-agnostic and content-neutral measures;

(3) protecting the security and integrity of the provider's network, users, services, or equipment;

(4) preventing or mitigating spam, malware, fraud, denial-of-service attacks, malicious traffic, or other cybersecurity threats;

(5) prioritizing, routing, or managing traffic for emergency communications, public safety communications, or national security communications;

(6) complying with a court order or other lawful order issued pursuant to statutory authority, but only to the extent required by such order;

(7) complying with Federal, State, or local law, but only to the extent required by such law;

(8) offering user-directed filtering, parental controls, accessibility tools, or security tools, if such tools are selected, controlled, and revocable by the user;

(9) taking action to prevent the transmission of unlawful content, if such action is required by law and narrowly tailored to comply with such law; or

(10) offering end-user service tiers based on bandwidth, speed, data volume, or other application-agnostic terms, if such tiers are clearly disclosed and are not used to evade this section.

(j) Enforcement.—

(1) In general.— The obligations imposed under this section shall be treated as requirements under the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 151 et seq.). A violation of this section or a rule promulgated under this section shall be treated as a violation of such Act.

(2) Powers of Commission.—The Commission shall enforce this section in the same manner, by the same means, and with the same jurisdiction, powers, and duties as though this section were part of such Act.

(3) Rules.—Not later than January 1, 2027, the Commission shall issue interim final rules to carry out this section and shall thereafter promulgate final rules after notice and comment.

(k) Enforcement by State attorneys general.—

(1) Civil action.—Except as provided in paragraph (5), the attorney general of a State, or any other officer of a State authorized by the law of that State to bring civil actions on behalf of the residents of the State, alleging a violation of this section or any rule promulgated under this section that affects or may affect that State or its residents, may bring a civil action on behalf of the residents of the State in an appropriate district court of the United States to enforce this section or such rule and to obtain appropriate injunctive relief, damages, restitution, civil penalties, or other relief that the court considers appropriate.

(2) Notice to Commission.—Before filing an action under paragraph (1), the State shall provide written notice to the Commission and provide the Commission with a copy of the complaint for such action, except that if it is not feasible to provide such prior notice, the State shall provide such notice immediately upon instituting such action.

(3) Intervention by Commission.—Upon receiving notice under paragraph (2), the Commission may intervene in the action, be heard on all matters arising in the action, and file petitions for appeal.

(4) Construction.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent the attorney general of a State, or any other authorized State officer, from exercising the powers conferred on such attorney general or officer by the laws of that State, including by proceeding in State or Federal court on the basis of an alleged violation of any civil or criminal statute of that State.

(5) Limitation.—No separate action may be brought under this subsection if, at the time the action is brought, the same alleged violation is the subject of a pending civil action by the Commission or the United States under this section.

(l) Rule of construction.—

(1) State law.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to preempt, displace, or limit any provision of State law that provides equal or greater protection for an open internet, net neutrality, broadband users, edge providers, or the public, except to the extent of a direct and irreconcilable conflict with this section.

(2) Other law.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit any authority, duty, remedy, penalty, or prohibition otherwise available under Federal or State law.

(3) No authorization of unlawful conduct.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any content, application, service, device, or conduct that is otherwise unlawful.

(4) Specialized services.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a provider of broadband internet access service from offering a service that is not broadband internet access service, if such service is not offered or used to evade this section and does not materially impair the availability or quality of broadband internet access service offered to end users.

"(b) Prohibition.—On and after July 1, 2027, it shall be unlawful for a person that owns, operates, or controls a covered digital product, in or affecting commerce, to design, deploy, maintain, or materially modify a design feature, or combination of design features, that, based on the totality of the circumstances, results in compulsive usage or is reasonably foreseeable to materially contribute to compulsive usage.

"(c) Factors.—In determining whether a person has violated subsection (b), the Commission shall consider the totality of the circumstances, including whether the design feature, or combination of design features—

"(1) uses infinite scrolling, autoplay, auto-advance, or similar mechanisms that reduce a user's natural stopping points;

(1) Covered operating system.—The term "covered operating system" means a general-purpose operating system that is licensed, sold, or otherwise distributed for use by consumers on a general-purpose computing device and that, during not fewer than 3 months in the preceding 12-month period, was installed on not fewer than 10,000,000 devices in the United States or not fewer than 100,000,000 devices worldwide.

(2) Security support.—The term "security support" means to provide security updates or patches that materially address vulnerabilities in a covered operating system, including through updates or patches to device-specific firmware, drivers, or software used to operate the covered operating system securely on a general-purpose computing device.

(3) General-purpose computing device.—The term "general-purpose computing device" means a desktop computer, laptop computer, tablet, smartphone, or other multipurpose consumer computing device, but does not include a single-purpose embedded system, household appliance, industrial control system, Internet of Things device, medical device, or video game console.

(4) Vendor.—The term "vendor" means a person that develops or controls a covered operating system or a device-specific implementation of a covered operating system and is capable, directly or indirectly, of providing security updates for such operating system or implementation.

(b) Prohibition.—It shall be unlawful, and shall constitute an unfair, deceptive, or abusive act or practice under section 5(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 45(a)(1)), for a vendor of a covered operating system to—

(1) refuse to provide free security support for the covered operating system, if such security support was previously provided without a separate fee or was included in the original purchase or license;

(2) impose any new or separate fee, or require the purchase of any new license, subscription, product, or service, as a condition of continued security support for a covered operating system; or

(3) materially degrade or reduce the security, functionality, performance, interoperability, compatibility, or usability of a covered operating system, without a legitimate security or technical integrity justification, for the purpose or substantial effect of forcing users to migrate to another operating system.

(c) Measurement and anti-evasion rules.—

(1) For purposes of subsection (a)(1)—

(A) the Federal Trade Commission shall measure installations by monthly active installations, or by another commercially reasonable method where monthly active installation data are unavailable; and

(B) the Commission shall aggregate editions, variants, service releases, and substantially similar successor versions marketed as part of the same operating system family;

(C) for purposes of subsection (b), security support for a covered operating system shall include security support for each model or substantially similar family of models of general-purpose computing devices on which the covered operating system, during not fewer than 3 months in the preceding 12-month period, had not fewer than 10,000,000 monthly active installations in the United States or not fewer than 100,000,000 monthly active installations worldwide;

(2) A vendor may not evade this section by—

(A) assigning, delegating, licensing, transferring, or otherwise purporting to transfer responsibility for providing security updates to another person; or

(B) rebranding, fragmenting, or artificially separating substantially similar operating system versions, device models or model families, device-specific implementations, or support channels.

(3) Each vendor of a covered operating system shall maintain records sufficient to demonstrate compliance with this section.

(d) Termination after cessation of covered status.—When an operating system ceases to be a covered operating system, it shall be unlawful for the vendor of such operating system to end security support unless such vendor—

(1) provided not less than 6 months of clear and conspicuous notice to users of such operating system; and

(2) notified the Commission.

(e) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this section shall be construed—

(1) to require a vendor to provide feature updates, cosmetic changes, or nonsecurity improvements; or

(2) to authorize the ending of security support for a covered operating system merely because a newer operating system version exists.

(f) Enforcement.—This section shall be enforced by the Federal Trade Commission under the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 41 et seq.) in the same manner, by the same means, and with the same jurisdiction, powers, and duties as though all applicable terms and provisions of that Act were incorporated into and made a part of this section.

(g) Actions by States.—

(1) In general.—In any case in which the attorney general of a State has reason to believe that an interest of the residents of that State has been or is threatened or adversely affected by any person who violates this section, the attorney general of the State, as parens patriae, may bring a civil action on behalf of the residents of the State in an appropriate district court of the United States to—

(A) enjoin that violation;

(B) enforce compliance with this section;

(C) obtain damages, restitution, or other compensation on behalf of residents of the State; and

(D) obtain civil penalties and such other relief as the court may consider appropriate.

(2) Notice.—Before filing an action under paragraph (1), the attorney general of the State shall provide to the Federal Trade Commission—

(A) written notice of the action; and

(B) a copy of the complaint for that action.

(3) Exception.—If it is not feasible for the attorney general of a State to provide the notice required by paragraph (2) before filing an action under paragraph (1), the attorney general shall provide that notice immediately upon filing the action.

(4) Intervention by Commission.—Upon receiving notice under paragraph (2) or (3), the Federal Trade Commission may—

(A) intervene in the action;

(B) be heard on all matters arising in the action; and

(C) file petitions for appeal.

(5) Construction.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent the attorney general of a State from exercising the powers conferred on the attorney general by the laws of that State to conduct investigations, administer oaths or affirmations, or compel the attendance of witnesses or the production of documentary and other evidence.

(h) Regulations.—Not later than July 1, 2027, the Federal Trade Commission shall promulgate regulations to carry out this section, including regulations establishing standardized methods for estimating installation counts and identifying evasive version fragmentation practices.

(b) Designation authority.—

(1) In general.—The Commission, in consultation with the Antitrust Division, may designate a person as a foundation model provider if the Commission determines that—

(A) the person offers, provides, sells, licenses, or otherwise makes available a model access service in or affecting interstate or foreign commerce;

(B) the model access service is a commercially significant input for downstream AI applications; and

(C) designation would advance competition, prevent discriminatory access to foundation model infrastructure, reduce the ability of a foundation model provider to pick winners among downstream AI applications, or prevent the use of model access services to entrench or extend platform power.

(2) Factors.—In making a designation under paragraph (1), the Commission may consider—

(A) the number of customers, developers, or downstream AI applications that rely on the model access service;

(B) the share of commercial foundation model access in the United States accounted for by the person;

(C) the revenue, usage, inference requests, tokens processed, active downstream AI applications, or comparable measures associated with the model access service;

(2) Enforcement by Commission.—The Commission shall enforce this section in the same manner, by the same means, and with the same jurisdiction, powers, and duties as though all applicable terms and provisions of the Federal Trade Commission Act (15 U.S.C. 41 et seq.) were incorporated into and made a part of this section.

(3) Enforcement by Antitrust Division.—The Antitrust Division may bring a civil action in an appropriate district court of the United States to enforce this section and may seek declaratory relief, injunctive relief, civil penalties, disgorgement, restitution, and any other equitable relief necessary to prevent, restrain, or remedy a violation of this section.

(4) Enforcement by State attorneys general.—If the attorney general of a State has reason to believe that a foundation model provider has violated or is violating this section or a rule promulgated under this section in a manner that affects or may affect that State or its residents, the State, as parens patriae, may bring a civil action in any appropriate district court of the United States to—

(A) enjoin any further violation;

(B) enforce compliance with this section or such rule;

(6) Intervention.—Upon receiving notice under paragraph (5), the Commission and the Antitrust Division may each—

(A) intervene in the action;

(B) upon so intervening, be heard on all matters arising therein; and

(C) file petitions for appeal.

(7) Coordination.—If the Commission, the Antitrust Division, or the United States has instituted a civil action for the same alleged violation, the court may stay, consolidate, coordinate, or otherwise manage an action brought under paragraph (4) to avoid unnecessary duplication, but an action under paragraph (4) shall not be barred solely because of the pendency of a civil action brought by the Commission, the Antitrust Division, or the United States.

(8) Rules.—Not later than January 1, 2027, the Commission, in consultation with the Antitrust Division, shall issue interim final rules to carry out this section and shall thereafter promulgate final rules after notice and comment.

(1) No duty to disclose model weights.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to require a foundation model provider to disclose, publish, transfer, license, or make available model weights, source code, training data, system prompts, cybersecurity information, safety mitigations, trade secrets, or other confidential business information, except to the Commission or the Antitrust Division as necessary to enforce this section.

(2) No duty to provide unsafe or unlawful access.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to require a foundation model provider to provide, continue, or restore access to a model access service where such access would violate Federal, State, or local law, sanctions, export controls, a court order, or another lawful order issued pursuant to statutory authority, or would create a material and reasonably foreseeable risk of severe harm that cannot be mitigated through a narrower measure.

(3) No limitation on safety rules.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a foundation model provider from adopting and enforcing bona fide, generally applicable, publicly disclosed, and consistently applied safety, security, abuse prevention, or legal compliance policies.

(k) Customer identification and recordkeeping requirements for cloud compute providers.—

(1) In general.—A cloud compute provider, and any foreign reseller acting on behalf of a cloud compute provider, may not establish, maintain, or provide an account or other cloud compute service for a foreign person or for any person that the provider or reseller knows or has reason to know is beneficially owned, substantially controlled, or used for the benefit of a foreign person unless the provider or reseller maintains and follows a customer identification program sufficient to identify the customer, verify the customer's identity, identify beneficial ownership where the customer is an entity, maintain records, and assess risks of malicious cyber-enabled activity or misuse of frontier-model-relevant compute.

(2) Minimum requirements.—A customer identification program under paragraph (1) shall, at a minimum, require collection and verification, to the extent prescribed by the Secretary by rule, of—

(A) the customer's true name and any trade names;

(B) the customer's physical address, jurisdiction of organization or residence, and contact information;

(C) payment information sufficient to identify the source of funds;

(D) for an entity customer, beneficial ownership and persons exercising substantial control;

(E) whether the customer is a foreign person;

(F) the intended use of the account or service, including whether the customer seeks to train, fine-tune, evaluate, host, or deploy a frontier model or other artificial intelligence model using compute reasonably capable of training a frontier model; and

(G) such other information as the Secretary determines necessary to prevent malicious cyber-enabled activity, foreign adversary misuse, or other substantial national security risks.

(3) Recordkeeping.—A cloud compute provider and foreign reseller shall maintain records of information collected under paragraph (2), of the basis for identity verification, of access logs, and of such other information as the Secretary may require by rule for not less than 2 years after the account or service is closed or terminated, or such longer period as the Secretary may require by rule.

(4) Updating and risk-based review.—A cloud compute provider and foreign reseller shall maintain reasonable risk-based procedures to update customer-identification information, detect material changes in ownership or use, and review accounts or services presenting heightened risks of malicious cyber-enabled activity or misuse of frontier-model-relevant compute.

(l) Reporting regarding frontier-model-relevant compute.—A cloud compute provider and foreign reseller shall report to the Secretary, in such form and at such time as the Secretary may require by rule, any transaction, account, or use by a foreign person or by any person beneficially owned, substantially controlled, or used for the benefit of a foreign person involving compute, storage, or related services reasonably capable of training a frontier model, including through aggregation of accounts, transactions, or services under common ownership, control, or direction, or otherwise meeting a threshold prescribed by the Secretary by rule.

(m) Special measures and restrictions.—

(1) In general.—If the Secretary determines that a category of foreign persons, a foreign jurisdiction, a cloud compute provider, a foreign reseller, or a class of transactions presents a substantial risk of malicious cyber-enabled activity, foreign adversary misuse of U.S. cloud compute, or materially enabling an adverse AI incident, the Secretary may impose 1 or more special measures by order or regulation.

(2) Authorized measures.—A special measure under paragraph (1) may include—

(A) prohibiting or restricting the opening or maintenance of accounts;

(B) requiring enhanced customer identification, beneficial ownership verification, or recordkeeping;

(C) requiring enhanced reporting or auditing;

(D) restricting access to specific compute capacity, model training services, model-hosting services, or related support;

(E) imposing mitigation measures, cybersecurity requirements, or contractual conditions; or

(F) prohibiting or restricting any transaction or service the Secretary determines presents the identified risk.

(3) Notice and procedures.—The Secretary shall prescribe by rule procedures for notice, response, review, and duration of special measures imposed under this subsection, except that the Secretary may impose temporary emergency measures without prior notice if the Secretary determines that delay would create an imminent and substantial risk to public safety or national security.

(n) Reporting regarding frontier-model-relevant compute clusters.—

(1) In general.—Any person that owns, operates, controls, or makes available a computing cluster, data center, or other compute resource meeting a threshold prescribed by the Secretary by rule as frontier-model-relevant compute shall submit reports in such form and at such time as the Secretary may require by rule.

(2) Required contents.—A report under paragraph (1) shall include—

(A) the location and general characteristics of the computing cluster, data center, or other compute resource;

(B) its compute capacity, availability, and principal technical characteristics relevant to training, fine-tuning, evaluation, or deployment of frontier models;

(C) the identity of any person to whom such capacity is made available for training, fine-tuning, evaluation, or deployment of a frontier model;

(D) applicable cybersecurity, physical security, access-control, and monitoring measures;

(E) whether any foreign person has access to, or has contracted for access to, such compute resource; and

(F) such other information as the Secretary determines necessary to assess substantial risks to public safety, national security, critical infrastructure, or civil liberties.

(3) Rulemaking.—The Secretary shall prescribe by rule—

(A) thresholds for determining when a computing cluster, data center, or other compute resource constitutes frontier-model-relevant compute for purposes of this subsection;

(B) reporting intervals and deadlines;

(C) procedures for protecting classified information, trade secrets, and other sensitive information submitted under this subsection; and

(D) procedures for coordination with other appropriate Federal agencies.

(3) use associated with an adverse AI incident; or

(4) a material degradation or compromise of applicable cybersecurity or physical security measures.

(p) Rulemaking.—Not later than January 1, 2027, the Secretary shall issue interim final rules to carry out this section and shall thereafter promulgate final rules after notice and comment.

(q) Procedures.—A determination, designation, suspension order, or special measure issued by the Secretary under this section shall be in writing, shall state the factual and legal basis for the action, shall identify any mitigation measure required, and shall be supported by an administrative record, except that the Secretary may issue a temporary emergency order without prior notice if the Secretary determines that delay would create an imminent and substantial risk to public safety or national security. A person subject to such action shall be provided notice and a reasonable opportunity to respond as soon as practicable, and final agency action under this section shall be subject to judicial review under chapter 7 of title 5, United States Code.

(r) Enforcement.—

(1) Administrative enforcement.—The Secretary may investigate violations of this section or any rule, order, certification, mitigation measure, or requirement under this section, and may issue administrative orders requiring compliance, corrective action, mitigation, suspension of deployment, suspension of access to frontier-model-relevant compute, preservation of records, or production of information.

(2) Civil penalties.—Any person that violates this section or any rule, order, certification, mitigation measure, or requirement under this section shall be liable to the United States for a civil penalty not to exceed the greater of—

(A) $1,000,000 for each violation;

(B) 3 times the monetary gain obtained, or cost avoided, as a result of the violation; or

(C) $100,000 for each day during which the violation continues.

(3) Separate violations.—Each day of a continuing violation, each false or materially incomplete certification or report, each failure to submit a required report, and each account or transaction established, maintained, or provided in violation of subsection (k) or (l) shall constitute a separate violation.

(4) Civil actions by the Attorney General.—The Attorney General may bring a civil action in an appropriate district court of the United States to enforce this section, collect civil penalties under this subsection, enjoin violations, require compliance, suspend or prohibit deployment, suspend or prohibit access to frontier-model-relevant compute, require mitigation, obtain disgorgement, or obtain any other appropriate legal or equitable relief.

(5) Authority preserved.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to limit any authority of the Secretary, the Attorney General, or any other Federal agency under any other provision of law.

(s) Rule of construction.—

(1) Other prohibited uses.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize any use, deployment, or release of artificial intelligence that is otherwise prohibited by the Constitution or any other provision of Federal law.

(2) Rule-dependent requirements.—A requirement under this section that depends on a rule, threshold, designation, procedure, form, or standard prescribed by the Secretary shall apply beginning on the effective date of the applicable interim final or final rule. Nothing in this paragraph shall delay any requirement under this section that is otherwise self-executing.

(3) Role-based application.—A duty imposed on a developer under this section shall apply to a person described in subsection (a)(6)(B) only to the extent that the person owns, operates, controls, possesses, maintains, or is responsible for the model, model weights, training infrastructure, evaluation systems, sensitive training data, deployment infrastructure, or other subject matter to which the duty applies. Nothing in this paragraph shall relieve such a person of any duty under this section concerning the release, deployment, operation, monitoring, reporting, suspension, restriction, or discontinuance of a frontier model that is within the person's control.

(t) Conforming amendment.—Section 10221(a)(1) of the Research and Development, Competition, and Innovation Act (42 U.S.C. 18931(a)(1)) is amended—

(A) authentic real-world footage;

(B) a genuine real-world communication;

(C) a genuine official record or notice; or

(D) a genuine endorsement by the depicted person.

(3) Disclosure obligations preserved.—Nothing in paragraph (1)(A) shall be construed to excuse compliance with subsection (f), section 583, or any other disclosure requirement otherwise applicable under this subtitle.

(1) owe a fiduciary duty to the user;

(2) exercise reasonable care, skill, prudence, and diligence in carrying out the user's lawful instructions and reasonable expectations;

(3) reasonably safeguard the privacy and security of user data, whether provided by the user or accessed on the user's behalf, and not collect, use, or share such data for the commercial benefit of any person, except to the extent strictly necessary to carry out the user's lawful instructions;

(4) not access, manage, direct, or affect any activity within the scope of the agent's authority in a manner that creates an unreasonable risk of material harm to the user beyond any risk inherent in carrying out the user's lawful instructions; and

(5) not interweave advertising, sponsored recommendations, paid placements, or compensated promotional content into the outputs, interactions, recommendations, rankings, routing, or transactions of the custodial AI agent.

(d) Data-use restrictions.—A person subject to subsection (b) may not retain, sell, or otherwise copy user data, prompts, or other information accessed or generated by a custodial AI agent made available by such person for the commercial benefit of any person, except to the extent strictly necessary to carry out the user's lawful instructions or to comply with Federal or State law.

(e) Duty to avoid foreseeable harm.—A person subject to subsection (b) shall implement reasonable safeguards to prevent reasonably foreseeable material harm to the user arising from deception, recklessness, inadequate security, or other misuse of the custodial AI agent.

(f) Liability for conduct of custodial AI agents.—

(1) Provider liability.—A person offering, providing, or making available in commerce a custodial AI agent shall be liable for any act or omission of such agent occurring within the scope of the authority, functions, capabilities, or use cases that such person enabled, designed, marketed, or held out the custodial AI agent as possessing, as if such person had acted directly.

(2) User liability.—A user of a custodial AI agent shall be liable for conduct carried out through such agent only to the extent that the user—

(A) specifically directed the conduct; or

(B) after obtaining actual knowledge of the material facts constituting the wrongful conduct, affirmatively instructed the custodial AI agent to proceed or affirmatively adopted the benefits of that conduct.

(3) Mere approval.—For purposes of paragraph (2), mere approval of a recommendation, absent actual knowledge of the material facts constituting the wrongful conduct, shall not constitute specific direction or knowing ratification.

(g) Rule of construction.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit any stricter duty, liability, or remedy otherwise available under Federal or State law.

(h) Effective date.—This section shall take effect on January 1, 2027.

(ii) contains a relationship-simulation feature;

(iii) asks unprompted emotion-based questions;

(iv) initiates or tailors prompts, reminders, outreach, or re-engagement communications in a manner designed or reasonably likely to encourage recurring personal, emotional, or nontransactional interaction with the user;

(6) Unprompted emotion-based question.—

(A) In general.—The term "unprompted emotion-based question" means a question or prompt concerning a user's emotions, mental state, loneliness, grief, distress, self-worth, interpersonal relationships, or similar personal emotional matters that is initiated by the system other than in direct response to the user's request or statement.

SEC. 601. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Findings.—Congress finds the following:

(1) A defining complaint of modern American life is that the nation's economic and political systems are stacked against ordinary people. The intersection of these systems is money and banking.

(2) The struggle to democratize money is a proud American tradition. Even before independence, groups like the Regulators in North Carolina resisted British restrictions on paper currency. During the first Gilded Age, the original Populists placed monetary reform at the center of their 1896 campaign, demanding a safe and flexible national currency as part of their struggle against concentrated economic and political power.

(3) Congress, which holds the power of the purse under Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution, has delegated its sovereign authority to create money to the Federal Reserve and its member banks. Through the extension of credit, these institutions have created almost all of the money circulating today.

(4) This creation of money is tied to the creation of debt, and it has shackled the households, businesses, and government of the United States with more than $80 trillion worth. This debt can never be repaid; only deferred with perpetual interest payments.

(5) A Jubilee is an orderly alternative to collapse. It permits an accumulated pyramid of public debt to be redeemed and permanently retired through sovereign money rather than waiting for default, depression, bankruptcy, or war to destroy financial claims through disorder.

(6) Congress possesses the Constitutional authority to design and govern the country's money as public infrastructure. The U.S. Treasury can facilitate a system in which money is safe, debts are payable, credit serves production, financial power is dispersed, and the economic value arising from money creation accrues to the public.

(b) Purpose.—The purposes of this title are—

(1) to defeat the national debt with a Jubilee;

(2) to prevent its return by reclaiming Congress's sovereign authority to issue money;

(3) to establish a payment system as public infrastructure; and

(4) to unstack money and banking.

SEC. 602. DEFINITIONS.

(a) Definitions.—In this title:

(1) American Value Fund.—The term "American Value Fund" means the Treasury transaction account established under section 623(b)(5).

(2) Launch date.—The term "launch date" means the date designated by the Secretary of the Treasury under section 623 for the operational launch of Treasury transaction accounts.

(3) (A) Money-like claim.—The term "money-like claim" means a claim, credit, balance, liability, instrument, or other interest, other than Treasury Dollar Bills, Federal Reserve notes, United States coins, or another monetary balance or instrument issued or maintained by the Treasury or a Federal Reserve Bank under Federal law, that—

(i) has a stated or represented fixed monetary value and is designed or represented to be payable, transferable, or redeemable at or near that value on demand or within a short period; and

(ii) by its terms, structure, representation, marketing, or reasonably expected use, functions or is intended to function as a means of payment, cash equivalent, or source of transaction liquidity.

(B) The term does not include an ordinary trade receivable or an investment instrument that may decline in market value and may not be redeemed at par before stated maturity or a call date established under its terms.

(4) Treasury Dollar Bills.—The term "Treasury Dollar Bills" means money issued under section 5104 of title 31, United States Code.

(5) Treasury ledger.—The term "Treasury ledger" means the digital books and records maintained by the Treasury under section 623 for recording the issuance, holding, transfer, and settlement of Treasury Dollar Bills and the balances of Treasury transaction accounts.

(6) Treasury transaction account.—The term "Treasury transaction account" means an account or subaccount maintained on the Treasury ledger under section 623 for the receipt, holding, transfer, or settlement of Treasury Dollar Bills. A Treasury transaction account bears no interest, and its balance is not subject to investment risk, maturity, or discretionary use by another person.

(b) Treasury Dollar Bills.—

(1) In general.—Subchapter I of chapter 51 of title 31, United States Code, is amended by inserting after section 5103 the following:

"Sec. 5104. Treasury Dollar Bills

"(a) Nature and form.—Treasury Dollar Bills constitute sovereign money of the United States and—

"(1) are denominated in dollars and decimal fractions of a dollar in accordance with section 5101;

"(2) bear no interest and have no maturity or expiration date;
