2026 Populist Fusion Endorsements

The Vote with Brian campaign was organized around a nationwide demand: immediate enactment of the POPULIST Act of 2026. Brian, a former state legislator, was the primary architect of the comprehensive 13-title proposal that would rein in corporate power, rebuild public capacity, and give ordinary people the opportunity to make more meaningful choices in their lives. Voters from coast to coast agreed to vote together as a unified bloc across all 470 congressional races: the Populist Fusion slate.

Candidates in these races were invited to take up the campaign's demand on Muster Day, October 15. Congress declined to enact the POPULIST Act by the October 30 deadline; had they delivered its passage, every member would have been eligible for the Populist Fusion endorsement under the endorsement methodology. Endorsements were next offered to all challenger candidates willing to take up the campaign's demands. Finally, campaign supporters voted on how to resolve races where no candidate met the endorsement requirements.

The first of these tie-breaking procedures was "Second Bite": incumbents who took up the campaign's demand but failed to deliver pre-election passage of the POPULIST Act could still receive the Populist Fusion endorsement. Voters overwhelmingly adopted this proposal.

Second, the "Replace All" option was supported by a narrower margin: wherever possible, challenger candidates were endorsed. Throwing out members of Congress regardless of party affiliation sends a strong message of disapproval.

Last, voters had the option of endorsing one political party at random, the "Nuclear Option." This proposal, which would seek to award one party control of Congress on a vote of "no confidence," was rejected. Any races not otherwise addressed were awarded at random, as a principled refusal to engage in "lesser-of-two-evils" politics.

Please vote with Brian for the Populist Fusion slate on November 3, 2026.

* Random resolution — Two edge cases, in which both candidates are sitting members of Congress and ineligible for a “Replace All” endorsement, were resolved by establishing two slates of candidates. Slate A was made up of the first candidate alphabetically by last name, and Slate B the other. Voters were asked to predict if the Dow Jones Industrial Average would close on an odd or even number on October 30: a correct call would endorse slate A. An odd number was predicted, but the posted close of the DJIA was 51,770. Accordingly, slate B was endorsed.
